"(2) LIMITATION ON OBLIGATIONS.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Subject to subparagraph (B), the Secretary shall not enter into obligations with any State under this title for a fiscal year in excess of the obligation allotment for that State for the fiscal year under paragraph (4). The sum of such obligation allotments for all States in any fiscal year (excluding amounts carried over under subparagraph (B) and excluding changes in allotments effected under paragraph (4)(D)) shall not exceed the aggregate limit on new obligation authority specified in paragraph (3) for that fiscal year.

"(B) ADJUSTMENTS.—

"(i) CARRYOVER OF ALLOTMENT PERMITTED.—If the amount of obligations entered into under this part with a State for quarters in a fiscal year is less than the amount of the obligation allotment under this section to the State for the fiscal year, the amount of the difference shall be added to the amount of the State obligation allotment otherwise provided under this section for the succeeding fiscal year.

"(3) AGGREGATE LIMIT ON NEW OBLIGATION AUTHORITY.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of this subsection, subject to subparagraph (C), the 'aggregate limit on new obligation authority', for a fiscal year, is the pool amount under subsection (b) for the fiscal year, divided by the payout adjustment factor (described in subparagraph (B)) for the fiscal year.

"(i) for fiscal year 1996 is .950,

"(ii) for fiscal year 1997 is .986, and

"(iii) for a subsequent fiscal year is .998.

"(C) TRANSITIONAL ADJUSTMENT FOR PRE-ENACTMENT-OBLIGATION OUTLAYS.—In order to account for pre-enactment-obligation outlays described in paragraph (4)(C)(iv), in determining the aggregate limit on new obligation authority under subparagraph (A) for fiscal year 1996, the pool amount for such fiscal year is equal to—

"(i) the pool amount for such year, reduced by

"(ii) the pool amount (less the sum of the outlay allotments for the territories) for such fiscal year.

"(B) TERRITORIES.—The obligation allotment for each of the Commonwealths and territories for a fiscal year is the outlay allotment for such Commonwealth or territory (as determined under subsection (c)(5)) for the fiscal year divided by the payout adjustment factor for the fiscal year (as defined in paragraph (3)(B)).

The total of such amounts shall equal the dollar amount specified in paragraph (3)(C)(ii).

The Secretary shall include in the notice a description of any changes in such allotments from the initial allotments published under paragraph (1) for the fiscal year and the reasons for such changes. Section 2121 of the Social Security Act (as added by section 16001 of the bill) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(f) SUPPLEMENTAL ALLOTMENT FOR EMERGENCY HEALTH CARE SERVICES TO CERTAIN ALIENS.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding the previous provisions of this section, the amount of the State outlay allotment for a fiscal year for each supplemental allotment eligible State shall be increased by the amount of the supplemental outlay allotment provided under paragraph (2) for the State for that year. The amount of such increased allotment may only be used for the purpose of providing medical assistance for care and services for aliens described in paragraph (1) of section 2123(e) and for which the exception described in paragraph (2) of such section applies. Section 2122(f)(3) shall apply to such assistance in the same manner as it applies to medical assistance described in such section.

"(2) SUPPLEMENTAL OUTLAY ALLOTMENT.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of paragraph (1), the amount of the supplemental outlay allotment for a supplemental allotment eligible State for a fiscal year is equal to the supplemental allotment ratio (as defined in subparagraph (C)) multiplied by the supplemental pool amount (specified in subparagraph (D)) for the fiscal year.

"(B) SUPPLEMENTAL ALLOTMENT ELIGIBLE STATE.—In this subsection, the term 'supplemental allotment eligible State' means one of the 12 States with the highest number of undocumented aliens of all the States.

"(C) SUPPLEMENTAL ALLOTMENT RATIO.—In this paragraph, the 'supplemental allotment ratio' for a State is the ratio of—

"(i) the number of undocumented aliens for the State, to

"(ii) the sum of such numbers for all supplemental allotment eligible States.

"(D) SUPPLEMENTAL POOL AMOUNT.—In this paragraph, the 'supplemental pool amount'—

"(i) for each of fiscal years 1996 through 2002, is an amount so that, if the amount were increased for each such fiscal year beginning with fiscal year 1996 by the national MediGrant growth percentage for the year involved, the total of such amounts for all such fiscal years would be $3 billion; and

"(ii) for a subsequent year is the supplemental pool amount for the previous fiscal year increased by the national MediGrant growth percentage for such subsequent year.

"(E) DETERMINATION OF NUMBER.—The number of undocumented aliens in a State under this paragraph shall be determined based on estimates of the resident illegal alien population residing in each State prepared by the Statistics Division of the Immigration and Naturalization Service as of October 1992 (or as of such later date if such date is at least 1 year before the beginning of the fiscal year involved).

"(3) TREATMENT FOR OBLIGATION PURPOSES.—For purposes of computing obligation allotments under subsection (a)—

"(A) the amount of the supplemental pool amount for a fiscal year shall be added to the pool amount under subsection (b) for that fiscal year, and

"(B) the amount supplemental allotment to a State provided under paragraph (1) shall be added to the outlay allotment of the State for that fiscal year.

"(4) SEQUENCE OF OBLIGATIONS.—For purposes of carrying out this title, payments to a supplemental allotment eligible State under section 2122 that are attributable to expenditures for medical assistance described in the second sentence of paragraph (1) shall first be counted toward the supplemental outlay allotment provided under this subsection, rather than toward the outlay allotment otherwise provided under this section.

"(g) SPECIAL ADJUSTMENTS FOR FISCAL YEAR 1996.—Notwithstanding the previous provisions of this section—

"(1) the State outlay allotment for Oregon for fiscal year 1996 is increased by $155,682,700, and

"SEC. 2122. PAYMENTS TO STATES.

"(a) AMOUNT OF PAYMENT.—From the allotment of a State under section 2121 for a fiscal year, subject to the succeeding provisions of this title, the Secretary shall pay to each State which has a MediGrant plan approved under part E, for each quarter in the fiscal year—

"(1) an amount equal to the applicable Federal medical assistance percentage (as defined in subsection (c)) of the total amount expended during such quarter as medical assistance under the plan; plus

"(2) an amount equal to the applicable Federal medical assistance percentage of the total amount expended during such quarter for medically-related services (as defined in section 2112(e)(2)); plus

"(3) subject to section 2123(c)—

"(A) an amount equal to 90 percent of the amounts expended during such quarter for the design, development, and installation of information systems and for providing incentives to promote the enforcement of medical support orders, plus

"(B) an amount equal to 75 percent of the amounts expended during such quarter for medical personnel, administrative support of medical personnel, operation and maintenance of information systems, modification of information systems, quality assurance activities, utilization review, medical and peer review, anti-fraud activities, independent evaluations, coordination of benefits, and meeting reporting requirements under this title, plus

"(C) an amount equal to 50 percent of so much of the remainder of the amounts expended during such quarter as are expended by the State in the administration of the State plan.

"(b) PAYMENT PROCESS.—

"(1) QUARTERLY ESTIMATES.—Prior to the beginning of each quarter, the Secretary shall estimate the amount to which a State will be entitled under subsection (a) for such quarter, such estimates to be based on (A) a report filed by the State containing its estimate of the total sum to be expended in such quarter in accordance with the provisions of such subsections, and stating the amount appropriated or made available by the State and its political subdivisions for such expenditures in such quarter, and if such amount is less than the State's proportionate share of the total sum of such estimated expenditures, the source or sources from which the difference is expected to be derived, and (B) such other investigation as the Secretary may find necessary.

"(2) PAYMENT.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall then pay to the State, in such installments as the Secretary may determine and in accordance with section 6503(a) of title 31, United States Code, the amount so estimated, reduced or increased to the extent of any overpayment or underpayment which the Secretary determines was made under this section (or section 1903) to such State for any prior quarter and with respect to which adjustment has not already been made under this subsection (or under section 1903(d)).

"(B) TREATMENT AS OVERPAYMENTS.—Expenditures for which payments were made to the State under subsection (a) shall be treated as an overpayment to the extent that the State or local agency administering such plan has been reimbursed for such expenditures by a third party pursuant to the provisions of its plan in compliance with section 2135.

"(C) RECOVERY OF OVERPAYMENTS.—For purposes of this subsection, when an overpayment is discovered, which was made by a State to a person or other entity, the State shall have a period of 60 days in which to recover or attempt to recover such overpayment before adjustment is made in the Federal payment to such State on account of such overpayment. Except as otherwise provided in subparagraph (D), the adjustment in the Federal payment shall be made at the end of the 60 days, whether or not recovery was made.

"(D) NO ADJUSTMENT FOR UNCOLLECTABLES.—In any case where the State is unable to recover a debt which represents an overpayment (or any portion thereof) made to a person or other entity on account of such debt having been discharged in bankruptcy or otherwise being uncollectable, no adjustment shall be made in the Federal payment to such State on account of such overpayment (or portion thereof).

"(3) FEDERAL SHARE OF RECOVERIES.—The pro rata share to which the United States is equitably entitled, as determined by the Secretary, of the net amount recovered during any quarter by the State or any political subdivision thereof with respect to medical assistance furnished under the State plan shall be considered an overpayment to be adjusted under this subsection.

"(4) TIMING OF OBLIGATION OF FUNDS.—Upon the making of any estimate by the Secretary under this subsection, any appropriations available for payments under this section shall be deemed obligated.

"(5) DISALLOWANCES.—In any case in which the Secretary estimates that there has been an overpayment under this section to a State on the basis of a claim by such State that has been disallowed by the Secretary under section 1116(d), and such State disputes such disallowance, the amount of the Federal payment in controversy shall, at the option of the State, be retained by such State or recovered by the Secretary pending a final determination with respect to such payment amount. If such final determination is to the effect that any amount was properly disallowed, and the State chose to retain payment of the amount in controversy, the Secretary shall offset, from any subsequent payments made to such State under this title, an amount equal to the proper amount of the disallowance plus interest on such amount disallowed for the period beginning on the date such amount was disallowed and ending on the date of such final determination at a rate (determined by the Secretary) based on the average of the bond equivalent of the weekly 90-day treasury bill auction rates during such period.

"(2) to seek reimbursement for medical assistance provided to the extent legal liability is establish where the amount expected to be recovered exceeds the costs of the recovery.

"(b) BENEFICIARY PROTECTION.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Each MediGrant plan shall provide that in the case of a person furnishing services under the plan for which a third party may be liable for payment—

"(A) the person may not seek to collect from the individual (or financially responsible relative) payment of an amount for the service more than could be collected under the plan in the absence of such third party liability, and

"(B) may not refuse to furnish services to such an individual because of a third party's potential liability for payment for the service.

"(2) PENALTY.—A MediGrant plan may provide for a reduction of any payment amount otherwise due with respect to a person who furnishes services under the plan in an amount equal to up to three times the amount of any payment sought to be collected by that person in violation of paragraph (1)(A).

"(c) GENERAL LIABILITY.—The State shall prohibit any health insurer (including a group health plan as defined in section 607 of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, a service benefit plan, or a health maintenance organization), in enrolling an individual or in making any payments for benefits to the individual or on the individual's behalf, from taking into account that the individual is eligible for or is provided medical assistance under a MediGrant plan for any State.

"(d) ACQUISITION OF RIGHTS OF BENEFICIARIES.—To the extent that payment has been made under a MediGrant plan in any case where a third party has a legal liability to make payment for such assistance, the State shall have in effect laws under which, to the extent that payment has been made under the plan for health care items or services furnished to an individual, the State is considered to have acquired the rights of such individual to payment by any other party for such health care items or services.

"(e) ASSIGNMENT OF MEDICAL SUPPORT RIGHTS.—The MediGrant plan shall provide for mandatory assignment of rights of payment for medical support and other medical care owed to recipients in accordance with section 2136.

"(f) REQUIRED LAWS RELATING TO MEDICAL CHILD SUPPORT.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Each State with a MediGrant plan shall have in effect the following laws:

"(A) A law that prohibits an insurer from denying enrollment of a child under the health coverage of the child's parent on the ground that—

"(i) the child was born out of wedlock,

"(ii) the child is not claimed as a dependent on the parent's Federal income tax return, or

"(iii) the child does not reside with the parent or in the insurer's service area.

"(B) In any case in which a parent is required by a court or administrative order to provide health coverage for a child and the parent is eligible for family health coverage through an insurer, a law that requires such insurer—

"(i) to permit such parent to enroll under such family coverage any such child who is otherwise eligible for such coverage (without regard to any enrollment season restrictions);

"(ii) if such a parent is enrolled but fails to make application to obtain coverage of such child, to enroll such child under such family coverage upon application by the child's other parent or by the State agency administering the program under this title or part D of title IV; and

"(iii) not to disenroll (or eliminate coverage of) such a child unless the insurer is provided satisfactory written evidence that—

"(I) such court or administrative order is no longer in effect, or

"(II) the child is or will be enrolled in comparable health coverage through another insurer which will take effect not later than the effective date of such disenrollment.

"(C) In any case in which a parent is required by a court or administrative order to provide health coverage for a child and the parent is eligible for family health coverage through an employer doing business in the State, a law that requires such employer—

"(i) to permit such parent to enroll under such family coverage any such child who is otherwise eligible for such coverage (without regard to any enrollment season restrictions);

"(ii) if such a parent is enrolled but fails to make application to obtain coverage of such child, to enroll such child under such family coverage upon application by the child's other parent or by the State agency administering the program under this title or part D of title IV; and

"(iii) not to disenroll (or eliminate coverage of) any such child unless—

"(I) the employer is provided satisfactory written evidence that such court or administrative order is no longer in effect, or the child is or will be enrolled in comparable health coverage which will take effect not later than the effective date of such disenrollment, or

"(II) the employer has eliminated family health coverage for all of its employees; and

"(iv) to withhold from such employee's compensation the employee's share (if any) of premiums for health coverage (except that the amount so withheld may not exceed the maximum amount permitted to be withheld under section 303(b) of the Consumer Credit Protection Act), and to pay such share of premiums to the insurer, except that the Secretary may provide by regulation for appropriate circumstances under which an employer may withhold less than such employee's share of such premiums.

"(D) A law that prohibits an insurer from imposing requirements on a State agency, which has been assigned the rights of an individual eligible for medical assistance under this title and covered for health benefits from the insurer, that are different from requirements applicable to an agent or assignee of any other individual so covered.

"(E) A law that requires an insurer, in any case in which a child has health coverage through the insurer of a noncustodial parent—

"(i) to provide such information to the custodial parent as may be necessary for the child to obtain benefits through such coverage;

"(ii) to permit the custodial parent (or provider, with the custodial parent's approval) to submit claims for covered services without the approval of the noncustodial parent; and

"(iii) to make payment on claims submitted in accordance with clause (ii) directly to such custodial parent, the provider, or the State agency.

"(F) A law that permits the State agency under this title to garnish the wages, salary, or other employment income of, and requires withholding amounts from State tax refunds to, any person who—

"(i) is required by court or administrative order to provide coverage of the costs of health services to a child who is eligible for medical assistance under this title,

"(ii) has received payment from a third party for the costs of such services to such child, but

"(iii) has not used such payments to reimburse, as appropriate, either the other parent or guardian of such child or the provider of such services, to the extent necessary to reimburse the State agency for expenditures for such costs under its plan under this title, but any claims for current or past-due child support shall take priority over any such claims for the costs of such services.

"(2) DEFINITION.—For purposes of this subsection, the term 'insurer' includes a group health plan, as defined in section 607(1) of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, a health maintenance organization, and an entity offering a service benefit plan.

"(g) ESTATE RECOVERIES AND LIENS PERMITTED.—A State may take such actions as it considers appropriate to adjust or recover from the individual or the individual's estate any amounts paid as medical assistance to or on behalf of the individual under the MediGrant plan, including through the imposition of liens against the property or estate of the individual.

"SEC. 2136. ASSIGNMENT OF RIGHTS OF PAYMENT.

"(a) IN GENERAL.—For the purpose of assisting in the collection of medical support payments and other payments for medical care owed to recipients of medical assistance under the MediGrant plan, each MediGrant plan shall—

"(1) provide that, as a condition of eligibility for medical assistance under the plan to an individual who has the legal capacity to execute an assignment for himself, the individual is required—

"(A) to assign the State any rights, of the individual or of any other person who is eligible for medical assistance under the plan and on whose behalf the individual has the legal authority to execute an assignment of such rights, to support (specified as support for the purpose of medical care by a court or administrative order) and to payment for medical care from any third party,

"(B) to cooperate with the State (i) in establishing the paternity of such person (referred to in subparagraph (A)) if the person is a child born out of wedlock, and (ii) in obtaining support and payments (described in subparagraph (A)) for himself and for such person, unless (in either case) the individual is a pregnant woman or the individual is found to have good cause for refusing to cooperate as determined by the State, and

"(C) to cooperate with the State in identifying, and providing information to assist the State in pursuing, any third party who may be liable to pay for care and services available under the plan, unless such individual has good cause for refusing to cooperate as determined by the State; and

"(2) provide for entering into cooperative arrangements (including financial arrangements), with any appropriate agency of any State (including, with respect to the enforcement and collection of rights of payment for medical care by or through a parent, with a State's agency established or designated under section 454(3)) and with appropriate courts and law enforcement officials, to assist the agency or agencies administering the plan with respect to—

"(A) the enforcement and collection of rights to support or payment assigned under this section, and

"(B) any other matters of common concern.

"(b) USE OF AMOUNTS COLLECTED.—Such part of any amount collected by the State under an assignment made under the provisions of this section shall be retained by the State as is necessary to reimburse it for medical assistance payments made on behalf of an individual with respect to whom such assignment was executed (with appropriate reimbursement of the Federal Government to the extent of its participation in the financing of such medical assistance), and the remainder of such amount collected shall be paid to such individual.

"(a) STANDARDS FOR AND CERTIFICATION OF CERTAIN FACILITIES.—

"(1) STANDARDS FOR FACILITIES.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Each MediGrant plan shall provide for the establishment and maintenance of standards consistent with the contents described in subparagraph (B) for nursing facilities which furnish services under the plan. Such standards shall provide that nursing facilities must care for residents in such a manner and in such an environment as will promote maintenance or enhancement of the quality of life of each resident.

"(B) CONTENTS OF STANDARDS.—The standards established for facilities under this paragraph shall contain provisions relating to the following items:

"(i) The treatment of resident medical records.

"(ii) Policies, procedures, and bylaws for operation.

"(iii) Quality assurance systems.

"(iv) Resident assessment procedures, including care planning and outcome evaluation.

"(v) The assurance of a safe and adequate physical plant for the facility.

"(vi) Qualifications for staff sufficient to provide adequate care, as defined by the State.

"(vii) Utilization review.

"(viii) The protection and enforcement of resident rights described in paragraph (2)(A).

"(C) PROCESS FOR ESTABLISHMENT.—The standards established by the State for facilities under this paragraph shall be promulgated either through the State's legislative, regulatory, or other process, and may only take effect after the State has provided the public with notice and an opportunity for comment.

"(2) RESIDENTS' RIGHTS.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The resident rights described in this paragraph are the rights of residents to the following:

"(i) To exercise the individual's rights as a resident of the facility and as a citizen or resident of the United States.

"(ii) To receive notice of rights and services.

"(iii) To be protected against the misuse of resident funds.

"(iv) To be provided privacy and confidentiality.

"(v) To voice grievances.

"(vi) To examine the results of State certification program inspections.

"(vii) To refuse to perform services for the facility.

"(viii) To be provided privacy in communications and to receive mail.

"(ix) To have the facility provide immediate access to any resident by any representative of the certification program, the resident's individual physician, the State long term care ombudsman, and any person the resident has designated as a visitor.

"(x) To retain and use personal property.

"(xi) To be free from abuse, including verbal, sexual, physical and mental abuse, corporal punishment, and involuntary seclusion and not to have any physical or chemical restraints imposed for purposes of discipline or convenience unless required to treat the resident's medical symptoms.

"(xii) To be provided with prior written notice of a pending transfer or discharge.

"(xiii) To organize and participate in resident groups in the facility and to have family members meet in the facility with the families of other residents in the facility.

"(xiv) To participate in social, religious, and community activities that do not interfere with the rights of other residents in the facility.

"(xv) To choose a personal attending physician, to be fully informed in advance about care and treatment, and (except with respect to a resident adjudged incompetent) to participate in planning care and treatment or changes in care and treatment.

"(xvi) To not have psycho-pharmacologic drugs administered except under the orders of a physician and as part of a plan designed to eliminate or modify the symptoms for which the drugs are prescribed.

"(B) RIGHTS OF INCOMPETENT RESIDENTS.—In the case of a resident adjudged incompetent under the laws of a State, the rights of the resident under the MediGrant plan shall devolve upon, and, to the extent judged necessary by a court of competent jurisdiction, be exercised by, the person appointed under State law to act on the resident's behalf.

"(3) CERTIFICATION PROGRAM.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Each MediGrant plan shall provide for the establishment and operation of a program consistent with the requirements of subparagraph (B) for the certification of nursing facilities which meet the standards established under paragraph (1) and the decertification of facilities which fail to meet such standards.

"(B) REQUIREMENTS FOR PROGRAM.—In addition to any other requirements the State may impose, in establishing and operating the certification program under subparagraph (A), the State shall ensure the following:

"(i) The State shall ensure public access (as defined by the State) to the certification program's evaluations of participating facilities, including compliance records and enforcement actions and other reports by the State regarding the ownership, compliance histories, and services provided by certified facilities.

"(ii) Not less often than every 4 years, the State shall audit its expenditures under the program, through an entity designated by the State which is not affiliated with the program, as designated by the State.

"(b) INTERMEDIATE SANCTION AUTHORITY.—

"(1) AUTHORITY.—In addition to any other authority under State law, where a State determines that a nursing facility which is certified for participation under the MediGrant plan no longer substantially meets the requirements for such a facility under this title and further determines that the facility's deficiencies—

"(A) immediately jeopardize the health and safety of its residents, the State shall at least provide for the termination of the facility's certification for participation under the plan, or

"(B) do not immediately jeopardize the health and safety of its residents, the State may, in lieu of providing for terminating the facility's certification for participation under the plan, provide lesser sanctions including one that provides that no payment will be made under the plan with respect to any individual admitted to such facility after a date specified by the State.

"(2) NOTICE.—The State shall not make such a decision with respect to a facility until the facility has had a reasonable opportunity, following the initial determination that it no longer substantially meets the requirements for such a facility under the plan, to correct its deficiencies, and, following this period, has been given reasonable notice and opportunity for a hearing.

"(3) EFFECTIVENESS.—The State's decision to deny payment may be made effective only after such notice to the public and to the facility as may be provided for by the State, and its effectiveness shall terminate (A) when the State finds that the facility is in substantial compliance (or is making good faith efforts to achieve substantial compliance) with the requirements for such a facility under this title, or (B) in the case described in paragraph (1)(B), with the end of the eleventh month following the month such decision is made effective, whichever occurs first. If a facility to which clause (B) of the previous sentence applies still fails to substantially meet the provisions of the respective section on the date specified in such clause, the State shall terminate such facility's certification for participation under the MediGrant plan effective with the first day of the first month following the month specified in such clause.

"SEC. 2138. OTHER PROVISIONS PROMOTING PROGRAM INTEGRITY.

"(a) PUBLIC ACCESS TO SURVEY RESULTS.—Each MediGrant plan shall provide that upon completion of a survey of any health care facility or organization by a State agency to carry out the plan, the agency shall make public in readily available form and place the pertinent findings of the survey relating to the compliance of the facility or organization with requirements of law.

"(b) RECORD KEEPING.—Each MediGrant plan shall provide for agreements with persons or institutions providing services under the plan under which the person or institution agrees—

"(1) to keep such records (including ledgers, books, and original evidence of costs) as are necessary to fully disclose the extent of the services provided to individuals receiving assistance under the plan; and

"(2) to furnish the State agency with such information regarding any payments claimed by such person or institution for providing services under the plan, as the State agency may from time to time request.

"PART E—ESTABLISHMENT AND AMENDMENT OF MEDIGRANT PLANS

"SEC. 2151. SUBMITTAL AND APPROVAL OF MEDIGRANT PLANS.

"(a) SUBMITTAL.—As a condition of receiving funding under part C, each State shall submit to the Secretary a MediGrant plan that meets the applicable requirements of this title.

"(b) APPROVAL.—Except as the Secretary may provide under section 2154, a MediGrant plan submitted under subsection (a)—

"(1) shall be approved for purposes of this title, and

"(2) shall be effective beginning with a calendar quarter that is specified in the plan, but in no case earlier than the first calendar quarter that begins at least 60 days after the date the plan is submitted.

"(c) APPROVAL OF LEGISLATURE FOR SUBMITTAL.—In the case of a State which has a State allotment under section 2121(c)(1) for fiscal year 1996 of more than $10 billion, the State may not submit a MediGrant plan under this section unless the State legislature, by law, has specifically authorized such submittal.

"SEC. 2152. SUBMITTAL AND APPROVAL OF PLAN AMENDMENTS.

"(a) SUBMITTAL OF AMENDMENTS.—A State may amend, in whole or in part, its MediGrant plan at any time through transmittal of a plan amendment under this section.

"(b) APPROVAL.—Except as the Secretary may provide under section 2154, an amendment to a MediGrant plan submitted under subsection (a)—

"(1) shall be approved for purposes of this title, and

"(2) shall be effective as provided in subsection (c).

"(c) EFFECTIVE DATES FOR AMENDMENTS.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Subject to the succeeding provisions of this subsection, an amendment to MediGrant plan shall take effect on one or more effective dates specified in the amendment.

"(2) AMENDMENTS RELATING TO ELIGIBILITY OR BENEFITS.—Except as provided in paragraph (4)—

"(A) NOTICE REQUIREMENT.—Any plan amendment that eliminates or restricts eligibility or benefits under the plan may not take effect unless the State certifies that it has provided prior or contemporaneous public notice of the change, in a form and manner provided under applicable State law.

"(B) TIMELY TRANSMITTAL.—Any plan amendment that eliminates or restricts eligibility or benefits under the plan shall not be effective for longer than a 60 day period unless the amendment has been transmitted to the Secretary before the end of such period.

"(3) OTHER AMENDMENTS.—Subject to paragraph (4), any plan amendment that is not described in paragraph (2) becomes effective in a State fiscal year may not remain in effect after the end of such fiscal year (or, if later, the end of the 90-day period on which it becomes effective) unless the amendment has been transmitted to the Secretary.

"(4) EXCEPTION.—The requirements of paragraphs (2) and (3) shall not apply to a plan amendment that is submitted on a timely basis pursuant to a court order or an order of the Secretary.

"SEC. 2153. PROCESS FOR STATE WITHDRAWAL FROM PROGRAM.

"(a) IN GENERAL.—A State may rescind its MediGrant plan and discontinue participation in the program under this title at any time after providing—

"(1) the public with 90 days prior notice in a publication in one or more daily newspapers of general circulation in the State or in any publication used by the State to publish State statutes or rules, and

"(2) the Secretary with 90 days prior written notice.

"(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—Such discontinuation shall not apply to payments under part C for expenditures made for items and services furnished under the MediGrant plan before the effective date of the discontinuation.

"(c) PRORATION OF ALLOTMENTS.—In the case of any withdrawal under this section other than at the end of a Federal fiscal year, notwithstanding any provision of section 2121 to the contrary, the Secretary shall provide for such appropriate proration of the application of allotments under section 2121 as is appropriate.

"SEC. 2154. SANCTIONS FOR SUBSTANTIAL NONCOMPLIANCE.

"(a) PROMPT REVIEW OF PLAN SUBMITTALS.—The Secretary shall promptly review MediGrant plans and plan amendments submitted under this part to determine if they substantially comply with the requirements of this title.

"(b) DETERMINATIONS OF SUBSTANTIAL NONCOMPLIANCE.—

"(1) AT TIME OF PLAN OR AMENDMENT SUBMITTAL.—

"(A) In general.—If the Secretary, during the 30-day period beginning on the date of submittal of a MediGrant plan or plan amendment—

"(i) determines that the plan or amendment substantially violates (within the meaning of subsection (c)) a requirement of this title, and

"(ii) provides written notice of such determination to the State, the Secretary shall issue an order specifying that the plan or amendment, insofar as it is in substantial violation of such a requirement, shall not be effective, except as provided in subsection (c), beginning at the end of a period of not less than 30 days, or 120 days in the case of the initial submission of the MediGrant plan specified in the order beginning on the date of the notice of the determination.

"(B) Extension of time periods.—The time periods specified in subparagraph (A) may be extended by written agreement of the Secretary and the State involved.

"(2) Violations in administration of plan.—

"(A) In general.—If the Secretary determines, after reasonable notice and opportunity for a hearing for the State, that in the administration of a MediGrant plan there is a substantial violation of a requirement of this title, the Secretary shall provide the State with written notice of the determination and with an order to remedy such violation. Such an order shall become effective prospectively, as specified in the order, after the date of receipt of such written notice. Such an order may include the withholding of funds, consistent with subsection (f), for parts of the MediGrant plan affected by such violation, until the Secretary is satisfied that the violation has been corrected.

"(B) Effectiveness.—If the Secretary issues an order under paragraph (1), the order shall become effective, except as provided in subsection (c), beginning at the end of a period (of not less than 30 days) specified in the order beginning on the date of the notice of the determination to the State.

"(C) Timeliness of determinations relating to report-based compliance.—The Secretary shall make determinations under this paragraph respecting violations relating to information contained in an annual report under section 2102, an independent evaluation under section 2103, or an audit report under section 2131 not later than 30 days after the date of transmittal of the report or evaluation to the Secretary.

"(3) Consultation with state.—Before making a determination adverse to a State under this section, the Secretary shall (within any time periods provided under this section)—

"(A) reasonably consult with the State involved,

"(B) offer the State a reasonable opportunity to clarify the submission and submit further information to substantiate compliance with the requirements of this title, and

"(C) reasonably consider any such clarifications and information submitted.

"(4) Justification of any inconsistencies in determinations.—If the Secretary makes a determination under this section that is, in whole or in part, inconsistent with any previous determination issued by the Secretary under this title, the Secretary shall include in the determination a detailed explanation and justification for any such difference.

"(5) Substantial violation defined.—For purposes of this title, a MediGrant plan (or amendment to such a plan) or the administration of the MediGrant plan is considered to 'substantially violate' a requirement of this title if a provision of the plan or amendment (or an omission from the plan or amendment) or the administration of the plan—

"(A) is material and substantial in nature and effect, and

"(B) is inconsistent with an express requirement of this title.

A failure to meet a strategic objective or performance goal (as described in section 2101) shall not be considered to substantially violate a requirement of this title.

"(c) State Response to Orders.—

"(1) State response by revising plan.—

"(A) In general.—Insofar as an order under subsection (b)(1) relates to a substantial violation by a MediGrant plan or plan amendment, a State may respond (before the date the order becomes effective) to such an order by submitting a written revision of the plan or plan amendment to substantially comply with the requirements of this part.

"(B) Review of revision.—In the case of submission of such a revision, the Secretary shall promptly review the submission and shall withhold any action on the order during the period of such review.

"(C) Secretarial response.—The revision shall be considered to have corrected the deficiency (and the order rescinded insofar as it relates to such deficiency) unless the Secretary determines and notifies the State in writing, within 15 days after the date the Secretary receives the revision, that the plan or amendment, as proposed to be revised, still substantially violates a requirement of this title. In such case the State may respond by seeking reconsideration or a hearing under paragraph (2).

"(D) Revision retroactive.—If the revision provides for substantial compliance, the revision may be treated, at the option of the State, as being effective either as of the effective date of the provision to which it relates or such later date as the State and Secretary may agree.

"(2) State response by seeking reconsideration or an administrative hearing.—A State may respond to an order under subsection (b) by filing a request with the Secretary for—

"(A) a reconsideration of the determination, pursuant to subsection (d)(1), or

"(B) a review of the determination through an administrative hearing, pursuant to subsection (d)(2).

In such case, the order shall not take effect before the completion of the reconsideration or hearing.

"(3) State response by corrective action plan.—

"(A) In general.—In the case of an order described in subsection (b)(2) that relates to a substantial violation in the administration of the MediGrant plan, a State may respond to such an order by submitting a corrective action plan with the Secretary to correct deficiencies in the administration of the plan which are the subject of the order.

"(B) Review of corrective action plan.—In such case, the Secretary shall withhold any action on the order for a period (not to exceed 30 days) during which the Secretary reviews the corrective action plan.

"(C) Secretarial response.—The corrective action plan shall be considered to have corrected the deficiency (and the order rescinded insofar as it relates to such deficiency) unless the Secretary determines and notifies the State in writing, within 15 days after the date the Secretary receives the corrective action plan, that the State's administration of the MediGrant plan, as proposed to be corrected in the plan, will still substantially violate a requirement of this title. In such case the State may respond by seeking reconsideration or a hearing under paragraph (2).

"(4) State response by withdrawal of plan amendment; failure to respond.—Insofar as an order relates to a substantial violation in a plan amendment submitted, a State may respond to such an order by withdrawing the plan amendment and the MediGrant plan shall be treated as though the amendment had not been made.

"(d) Administrative Review and Hearing.—

"(1) Reconsideration.—Within 30 days after the date of receipt of a request under subsection (b)(2)(A), the Secretary shall notify the State of the time and place at which a hearing will be held for the purpose of reconsidering the Secretary's determination. The hearing shall be held not less than 20 days nor more than 60 days after the date notice of the hearing is furnished to the State, unless the Secretary and the State agree in writing to holding the hearing at another time. The Secretary shall affirm, modify, or reverse the original determination within 60 days of the conclusion of the hearing.

"(2) Administrative hearing.—Within 30 days after the date of receipt of a request under subsection (b)(2)(B), an administrative law judge shall schedule a hearing for the purpose of reviewing the Secretary's determination. The hearing shall be held not less than 20 days nor more than 60 days after the date notice of the hearing is furnished to the State, unless the Secretary and the State agree in writing to holding the hearing at another time. The administrative law judge shall affirm, modify, or reverse the determination within 60 days of the conclusion of the hearing.

"(e) Judicial Review.—

"(1) In general.—A State which is dissatisfied with a final determination made by the Secretary under subsection (d)(1) or a final determination of an administrative law judge under subsection (d)(2) may, within 60 days after it has been notified of such determination, file with the United States court of appeals for the circuit in which the State is located a petition for review of such determination. A copy of the petition shall be forthwith transmitted by the clerk of the court to the Secretary and, in the case of a determination under subsection (d)(2), to the administrative law judge involved. The Secretary (or judge involved) thereupon shall file in the court the record of the proceedings on which the final determination was based, as provided in section 2112 of title 28, United States Code.

"(2) Standard for review.—The findings of fact by the Secretary or administrative law judge, if supported by substantial evidence, shall be conclusive, but the court, for good cause shown, may remand the case to the Secretary or judge to take further evidence, and the Secretary or judge may thereupon make new or modified findings of fact and may modify a previous determination, and shall certify to the court the transcript and record of the further proceedings. Such new or modified findings of fact shall likewise be conclusive if supported by substantial evidence.

"(3) Jurisdiction of appellate court.—The court shall have jurisdiction to affirm the action of the Secretary or judge or to set it aside, in whole or in part. The judgment of the court shall be subject to review by the Supreme Court of the United States upon certiorari or certification as provided in section 1254 of title 28, United States Code.

"(f) WITHHOLDING OF FUNDS.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Any order under this section relating to the withholding of funds shall be effective not earlier than the effective date of the order and shall only relate to the portions of a MediGrant plan or administration thereof which substantially violate a requirement of this title. In the case of a failure to meet a set-aside requirement under section 2112, any withholding shall only apply to the extent of such failure.

"(2) SUSPENSION OF WITHHOLDING.—The Secretary may suspend withholding of funds under paragraph (1) during the period reconsideration or administrative and judicial review is pending under subsection (d) or (e).

"(3) RESTORATION OF FUNDS.—Any funds withheld under this subsection under an order shall be immediately restored to a State—

"(A) to the extent and at the time the order is—

"(i) modified or withdrawn by the Secretary upon reconsideration,

"(ii) modified or reversed by an administrative law judge, or

"(iii) set aside (in whole or in part) by an appellate court; or

"(B) when the Secretary determines that the deficiency which was the basis for the order is corrected;

"(C) when the Secretary determines that violation which was the basis for the order is resolved or the amendment which was the basis for the order is withdrawn; or

"(D) at any time upon the initiative of the Secretary.

"SEC. 2155. SECRETARIAL AUTHORITY.

"(a) NEGOTIATED AGREEMENT AND DISPUTE RESOLUTION.—

"(1) NEGOTIATIONS.—Nothing in this part shall be construed as preventing the Secretary and a State from at any time negotiating a satisfactory resolution to any dispute concerning the approval of a MediGrant plan (or amendments to a MediGrant plan) or the compliance of a MediGrant plan (including its administration) with requirements of this title.

"(2) COOPERATION.—The Secretary shall act in a cooperative manner with the States in carrying out this title. In the event of a dispute between a State and the Secretary, the Secretary shall, whenever practicable, engage in informal dispute resolution activities in lieu of formal enforcement or sanctions under section 2154.

"(b) LIMITATIONS ON DELEGATION OF DECISION-MAKING AUTHORITY.—The Secretary may not delegate (other than to the Administrator of the Health Care Financing Administration) the authority to make determinations or reconsiderations respecting the approval of MediGrant plans (or amendments to such plans) or the compliance of a MediGrant plan (including its administration) with requirements of this title. Such Administrator may not further delegate such authority to any individual, including any regional official of such Administration.

"(c) REQUIRING FORMAL RULEMAKING FOR CHANGES IN SECRETARIAL ADMINISTRATION.—The Secretary shall carry out the administration of the program under this title only through a prospective formal rulemaking process, including issuing notices of proposed rule making, publishing proposed rules or modifications to rules in the Federal Register, and soliciting public comment.

"(a) REQUIREMENT FOR MANUFACTURER TO ENTER INTO AGREEMENT.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Pursuant to section 2123(f), in order for payment to be made to a State under part C for medical assistance for covered outpatient drugs of a manufacturer, the manufacturer shall enter into and have in effect an MediGrant master rebate agreement described in subsection (b) with the Secretary on behalf of States electing to participate in the agreement.

"(2) STATE PARTICIPATION IN MASTER AGREEMENT OPTIONAL.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to—

"(A) require a State to participate in an MediGrant master rebate agreement under this section; or

"(B) prohibit a State from entering into an agreement with a manufacturer of covered outpatient drugs (under such terms as the State and manufacturer may agree upon) regarding the amount of payment for such drugs under the MediGrant plan.

"(3) COVERAGE OF DRUGS NOT COVERED UNDER REBATE AGREEMENTS.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit a State in its discretion from providing coverage under its MediGrant plan of a covered outpatient drug for which no rebate agreement is in effect under this section.

"(4) EFFECT ON EXISTING AGREEMENTS.—If a State has a rebate agreement in effect with a manufacturer on the date of the enactment of this section which provides for a minimum aggregate rebate equal to or greater than the minimum aggregate rebate which would otherwise be paid under the MediGrant master agreement under this section, at the option of the State—

"(A) such agreement shall be considered to meet the requirements of the MediGrant master rebate agreement; and

"(B) the State shall be considered to have elected to participate in the MediGrant master rebate agreement.

"(b) TERMS OF REBATE AGREEMENT.—

"(1) PERIODIC REBATES.—The MediGrant master rebate agreement under this section shall require the manufacturer to provide, to the MediGrant plan of each State participating in the agreement, a rebate for a rebate period in an amount specified in subsection (c) for covered outpatient drugs of the manufacturer dispensed after the effective date of the agreement, for which payment was made under the plan for such period. Such rebate shall be paid by the manufacturer not later than 30 days after the date of receipt of the information described in paragraph (2) for the period involved.

"(2) STATE PROVISION OF INFORMATION.—

"(A) STATE RESPONSIBILITY.—Each State participating in the MediGrant master rebate agreement shall report to each manufacturer not later than 60 days after the end of each rebate period and in a form consistent with a standard reporting format established by the Secretary, information on the total number of units of each dosage form and strength and package size of each covered outpatient drug, for which payment was made under the MediGrant plan for the period, and shall promptly transmit a copy of such report to the Secretary.

"(B) AUDITS.—A manufacturer may audit the information provided (or required to be provided) under subparagraph (A). Adjustments to rebates shall be made to the extent that information indicates that utilization was greater or less than the amount previously specified.

"(3) MANUFACTURER PROVISION OF PRICE INFORMATION.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Each manufacturer which is subject to the MediGrant master rebate agreement under this section shall report to the Secretary—

"(i) not later than 30 days after the last day of each rebate period under the agreement (beginning on or after January 1, 1991), on the average manufacturer price (as defined in subsection (i)(1)) and, for single source drugs and innovator multiple source drugs, the manufacturer's best price (as defined in subsection (c)(1)(C)) for each covered outpatient drug for the rebate period under the agreement, and

"(ii) not later than 30 days after the date of entering into an agreement under this section, on the average manufacturer price (as defined in subsection (i)(1)) as of October 1, 1990, for each of the manufacturer's covered outpatient drugs.

"(B) VERIFICATION SURVEYS OF AVERAGE MANUFACTURER PRICE.—The Secretary may survey wholesalers and manufacturers that directly distribute their covered outpatient drugs, when necessary, to verify manufacturer prices reported under subparagraph (A). The Secretary may impose a civil monetary penalty in an amount not to exceed $10,000 on a wholesaler, manufacturer, or direct seller, if the wholesaler, manufacturer, or direct seller of a covered outpatient drug refuses a request for information by the Secretary in connection with a survey under this subparagraph. The provisions of section 1128A (other than subsections (a) (with respect to amounts of penalties or additional assessments) and (b)) shall apply to a civil money penalty under this subparagraph in the same manner as such provisions apply to a penalty or proceeding under section 1128A(a).

"(C) PENALTIES.—

"(i) FAILURE TO PROVIDE TIMELY INFORMATION.—In the case of a manufacturer which is subject to the MediGrant master rebate agreement that fails to provide information required under subparagraph (A) on a timely basis, the amount of the penalty shall be $10,000 for each day in which such information has not been provided and such amount shall be paid to the Treasury. If such information is not reported within 90 days of the deadline imposed, the agreement shall be suspended for services furnished after the end of such 90-day period and until the date such information is reported (but in no case shall such suspension be for a period of less than 30 days).

"(ii) FALSE INFORMATION.—Any manufacturer which is subject to the MediGrant master rebate agreement, or a wholesaler or direct seller, that knowingly provides false information under subparagraph (A) or (B) is subject to a civil money penalty in an amount not to exceed $100,000 for each item of false information. Any such civil money penalty shall be in addition to other penalties as may be prescribed by law. The provisions of section 1128A (other than subsections (a) and (b)) shall apply to a civil money penalty under this subparagraph in the same manner as such provisions apply to a penalty or proceeding under section 1128A(a).

"(D) CONFIDENTIALITY OF INFORMATION.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, information disclosed by manufacturers or wholesalers under this paragraph or under an agreement with the Secretary of Veterans Affairs described in section 2123(f) is confidential and shall not be disclosed by the Secretary or the Secretary of Veterans Affairs or a State agency (or contractor therewith) in a form which discloses the identity of a specific manufacturer or wholesaler or the prices charged for drugs by such manufacturer or wholesaler, except—

"(i) as the Secretary determines to be necessary to carry out this section,

"(ii) to permit the Comptroller General to review the information provided, and

"(iii) to permit the Director of the Congressional Budget Office to review the information provided.

"(4) LENGTH OF AGREEMENT.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The MediGrant master rebate agreement under this section shall be effective for an initial period of not less than 1 year and shall be automatically renewed for a period of not less than one year unless terminated under subparagraph (B).

"(B) TERMINATION.—

"(i) BY THE SECRETARY.—The Secretary may provide for termination of the MediGrant master rebate agreement with respect to a manufacturer for violation of the requirements of the agreement or other good cause shown. Such termination shall not be effective earlier than 60 days after the date of notice of such termination. The Secretary shall provide, upon request, a manufacturer with a hearing concerning such a termination, but such hearing shall not delay the effective date of the termination. Failure of a State to provide any advance notice of such a termination as required by regulation shall not affect the State's right to terminate coverage of the drugs affected by such termination as of the effective date of such termination.

"(ii) BY A MANUFACTURER.—A manufacturer may terminate its participation in the MediGrant master rebate agreement under this section for any reason. Any such termination shall not be effective until the calendar quarter beginning at least 60 days after the date the manufacturer provides notice to the Secretary.

"(iii) EFFECTIVENESS OF TERMINATION.—Any termination under this subparagraph shall not affect rebates due under the agreement before the effective date of its termination.

"(iv) NOTICE TO STATES.—In the case of a termination under this subparagraph, the Secretary shall provide notice of such termination to the States within not less than 30 days before the effective date of such termination.

"(v) APPLICATION TO TERMINATIONS OF OTHER AGREEMENTS.—The provisions of this subparagraph shall apply to the terminations of master agreements described in section 8126(a) of title 38, United States Code.

"(C) DELAY BEFORE REENTRY.—In the case of any rebate agreement with a manufacturer under this section which is terminated, another such agreement with the manufacturer (or a successor manufacturer) may not be entered into until a period of 1 calendar quarter has elapsed since the date of the termination, unless the Secretary finds good cause for an earlier reinstatement of such an agreement.

"(c) DETERMINATION OF AMOUNT OF REBATE.—

"(1) BASIC REBATE FOR SINGLE SOURCE DRUGS AND INNOVATOR MULTIPLE SOURCE DRUGS.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in paragraph (2), the amount of the rebate specified in this subsection with respect to a State participating in the MediGrant master rebate agreement for a rebate period (as defined in subsection (i)(8)) with respect to each dosage form and strength of a single source drug or an innovator multiple source drug shall be equal to the product of—

"(i) the total number of units of each dosage form and strength paid for under the State plan in the rebate period (as reported by the State); and

"(ii) the greater of—

"(I) the difference between the average manufacturer price and the best price (as defined in subparagraph (C)) for the dosage form and strength of the drug, or

"(II) the minimum rebate percentage (specified in subparagraph (B)) of such average manufacturer price, for the rebate period.

"(B) MINIMUM REBATE PERCENTAGE.—For purposes of subparagraph (A)(ii)(II), the 'minimum rebate percentage' is 15.1 percent.

"(C) BEST PRICE DEFINED.—For purposes of this section—

"(i) IN GENERAL.—The term 'best price' means, with respect to a single source drug or innovator multiple source drug of a manufacturer, the lowest price available from the manufacturer during the rebate period to any wholesaler, retailer, provider, health maintenance organization, nonprofit entity, or governmental entity within the United States, excluding—

"(I) any prices charged on or after October 1, 1992, to the Indian Health Service, the Department of Veterans Affairs, a State home receiving funds under section 1741 of title 38, United States Code, the Department of Defense, the Public Health Service, or a covered entity described in section 340B(a)(4) of the Public Health Service Act;

"(II) any prices charged under the Federal Supply Schedule of the General Services Administration;

"(III) any prices used under a State pharmaceutical assistance program; and

"(IV) any depot prices and single award contract prices, as defined by the Secretary, of any agency of the Federal Government.

"(ii) SPECIAL RULES.—The term 'best price'—

"(I) shall be inclusive of cash discounts, free goods that are contingent on any purchase requirement, volume discounts, and rebates (other than rebates under this section);

"(II) shall be determined without regard to special packaging, labeling, or identifiers on the dosage form or product or package;

"(III) shall not take into account prices that are merely nominal in amount; and

"(2) ADDITIONAL REBATE FOR SINGLE SOURCE AND INNOVATOR MULTIPLE SOURCE DRUGS.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The amount of the rebate specified in this subsection with respect to a State participating in the MediGrant master rebate agreement for a rebate period, with respect to each dosage form and strength of a single source drug or an innovator multiple source drug, shall be increased by an amount equal to the product of—

"(i) the total number of units of such dosage form and strength dispensed after December 31, 1990, for which payment was made under the MediGrant plan for the rebate period; and

"(ii) the amount (if any) by which—

"(I) the average manufacturer price for the dosage form and strength of the drug for the period, exceeds

"(II) the average manufacturer price for such dosage form and strength for the calendar quarter beginning July 1, 1990 (without regard to whether or not the drug has been sold or transferred to an entity, including a division or subsidiary of the manufacturer, after the first day of such quarter), increased by the percentage by which the consumer price index for all urban consumers (United States city average) for the month before the month in which the rebate period begins exceeds such index for September 1990.

"(B) TREATMENT OF SUBSEQUENTLY APPROVED DRUGS.—In the case of a covered outpatient drug approved by the Food and Drug Administration after October 1, 1990, clause (ii)(II) of subparagraph (A) shall be applied by substituting 'the first full calendar quarter after the day on which the drug was first marketed' for 'the calendar quarter beginning July 1, 1990' and 'the month prior to the first month of the first full calendar quarter after the day on which the drug was first marketed' for 'September 1990'.

"(3) REBATE FOR OTHER DRUGS.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The amount of the rebate paid to a State participating in the MediGrant master rebate agreement for a rebate period with respect to each dosage form and strength of covered outpatient drugs (other than single source drugs and innovator multiple source drugs) shall be equal to the product of—

"(i) the applicable percentage (as described in subparagraph (B)) of the average manufacturer price for the dosage form and strength for the rebate period, and

"(ii) the total number of units of such dosage form and strength dispensed after December 31, 1990, for which payment was made under the MediGrant plan for the rebate period.

"(B) APPLICABLE PERCENTAGE DEFINED.—For purposes of subparagraph (A)(i), the 'applicable percentage' is 11 percent.

"(4) LIMITATION ON AMOUNT OF REBATE TO AMOUNTS PAID FOR CERTAIN DRUGS.—Upon request of a manufacturer of a covered outpatient drug for which a majority of the estimated number of units of such dosage form and strength that are subject to rebates under this section were dispensed to inpatients of nursing facilities (including drugs which are exempt from the requirements of the MediGrant master rebate agreement under this section under subsection (h)(1)(B)), the Secretary shall limit the amount of the rebate under this subsection with respect to a dosage form and strength of the drug for a rebate period to the amount paid under the MediGrant plan with respect to such dosage form and strength of the drug in the rebate period (without consideration of any dispensing fees paid).

"(d) LIMITATIONS ON COVERAGE OF DRUGS BY STATES PARTICIPATING IN MASTER AGREEMENT.—

"(1) PERMISSIBLE RESTRICTIONS.—A State participating in the MediGrant master rebate agreement under this section may—

"(A) subject to prior authorization under its MediGrant plan any covered outpatient drug so long as any such prior authorization program complies with the requirements of paragraph (5); and

"(B) exclude or otherwise restrict coverage under its plan of a covered outpatient drug if—

"(i) the prescribed use is not for a medically accepted indication (as defined in subsection (i)(5));

"(ii) the drug is contained in the list referred to in paragraph (2);

"(iii) the drug is subject to such restrictions pursuant to the MediGrant master rebate agreement or any agreement described in subsection (a)(4); or

"(iv) the State has excluded coverage of the drug from its formulary established in accordance with paragraph (4).

"(2) LIST OF DRUGS SUBJECT TO RESTRICTION.—The following drugs or classes of drugs, or their medical uses, may be excluded from coverage or otherwise restricted by a State participating in the MediGrant master rebate agreement:

"(A) Agents when used for anorexia, weight loss, or weight gain.

"(B) Agents when used to promote fertility.

"(C) Agents when used for cosmetic purposes or hair growth.

"(D) Agents when used for the symptomatic relief of cough and colds.

"(E) Agents when used to promote smoking cessation.

"(F) Prescription vitamins and mineral products, except prenatal vitamins and fluoride preparations.

"(H) Covered outpatient drugs which the manufacturer seeks to require as a condition of sale that associated tests or monitoring services be purchased exclusively from the manufacturer or its designee.

"(I) Barbiturates.

"(J) Benzodiazepines.

"(3) ADDITIONS TO DRUG LISTINGS.—The Secretary shall, by regulation, periodically update the list of drugs or classes of drugs described in paragraph (2), or their medical uses, which the Secretary has determined to be subject to clinical abuse or inappropriate use.

"(4) REQUIREMENTS FOR FORMULARIES.—A State participating in the MediGrant master rebate agreement may establish a formulary if the formulary meets the following requirements:

"(A) The formulary is developed by a committee consisting of physicians, pharmacists, and other appropriate individuals appointed by the Governor of the State.

"(B) Except as provided in subparagraph (C), the formulary includes the covered outpatient drugs of any manufacturer which has entered into and complies with the agreement under subsection (a) (other than any drug excluded from coverage or otherwise restricted under paragraph (2)).

"(C) A covered outpatient drug may be excluded with respect to the treatment of a specific disease or condition for an identified population (if any) only if, based on the drug's labeling (or, in the case of a drug the prescribed use of which is not approved under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act but is a medically accepted indication, based on information from the appropriate compendia described in subsection (i)(5)), the excluded drug does not have a significant, clinically meaningful therapeutic advantage in terms of safety, effectiveness, or clinical outcome of such treatment for such population over other drugs included in the formulary and there is a written explanation (available to the public) of the basis for the exclusion.

"(D) The State plan permits coverage of a drug excluded from the formulary (other than any drug excluded from coverage or otherwise restricted under paragraph (2)) pursuant to a prior authorization program that is consistent with paragraph (5).

"(E) The formulary meets such other requirements as the Secretary may impose in order to achieve program savings consistent with protecting the health of program beneficiaries.

A prior authorization program established by a State under paragraph (5) is not a formulary subject to the requirements of this paragraph.

"(5) REQUIREMENTS OF PRIOR AUTHORIZATION PROGRAMS.—The MediGrant plan of a State participating in the MediGrant master rebate agreement may require, as a condition of coverage or payment for a covered outpatient drug for which Federal financial participation is available in accordance with this section the approval of the drug before its dispensing for any medically accepted indication (as defined in subsection (i)(5)) only if the system providing for such approval—

"(A) provides response by telephone or other telecommunication device within 24 hours of a request for prior authorization; and

"(B) except with respect to the drugs on the list referred to in paragraph (2), provides for the dispensing of at least a 72-hour supply of a covered outpatient prescription drug in an emergency situation (as defined by the Secretary).

"(6) OTHER PERMISSIBLE RESTRICTIONS.—A State participating in the MediGrant master rebate agreement may impose limitations, with respect to all such drugs in a therapeutic class, on the minimum or maximum quantities per prescription or on the number of refills, if such limitations are necessary to discourage waste, and may address instances of fraud or abuse by individuals in any manner authorized under this Act.

"(e) DRUG USE REVIEW.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—A State participating in the MediGrant master rebate agreement may provide for a drug use review program to educate physicians and pharmacists to identify and reduce the frequency of patterns of fraud, abuse, gross overuse, or inappropriate or medically unnecessary care, among physicians, pharmacists, and patients, or associated with specific drugs or groups of drugs, as well as potential and actual severe adverse reactions to drugs.

"(2) APPLICATION OF STATE STANDARDS.—A State with a drug use review program under this subsection shall establish and operate the program under such standards as it may establish.

"(f) ELECTRONIC CLAIMS MANAGEMENT.—In accordance with chapter 35 of title 44, United States Code (relating to coordination of Federal information policy), the Secretary shall encourage each State to establish, as its principal means of processing claims for covered outpatient drugs under its MediGrant plan, a point-of-sale electronic claims management system, for the purpose of performing on-line, real time eligibility verifications, claims data capture, adjudication of claims, and assisting pharmacists (and other authorized persons) in applying for and receiving payment.

"(g) ANNUAL REPORT.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than May 1 of each year, the Secretary shall transmit to the Committee on Finance of the Senate, the Committee on Commerce of the House of Representatives, and the Committee on Aging of the Senate a report on the operation of this section in the preceding fiscal year.

"(2) DETAILS.—Each report shall include information on—

"(A) ingredient costs paid under this title for single source drugs, multiple source drugs, and nonprescription covered outpatient drugs;

"(B) the total value of rebates received and number of manufacturers providing such rebates;

"(C) the effect of inflation on the value of rebates required under this section;

"(D) trends in prices paid under this title for covered outpatient drugs; and

"(E) Federal and State administrative costs associated with compliance with the provisions of this title.

"(h) EXEMPTION FOR CAPITATED HEALTH CARE ORGANIZATIONS, HOSPITALS, AND NURSING FACILITIES.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in paragraph (2), the requirements of the MediGrant master rebate agreement under this section shall not apply with respect to covered outpatient drugs dispensed by or through—

"(A) a capitated health care organization (as defined in section 2114(c)(1)); or

"(B) a hospital or nursing facility that dispenses covered outpatient drugs using a drug formulary system and bills the State no more than the hospital's purchasing costs for covered outpatient drugs.

"(2) CONSTRUCTION IN DETERMINING BEST PRICE.—Nothing in paragraph (1) shall be construed as excluding amounts paid by the entities described in such paragraph for covered outpatient drugs from the determination of the best price (as defined in subsection (c)(1)(C)) for such drugs.

"(i) DEFINITIONS.—In the section—

"(1) AVERAGE MANUFACTURER PRICE.—The term 'average manufacturer price' means, with respect to a covered outpatient drug of a manufacturer for a rebate period, the average price paid to the manufacturer for the drug in the United States by wholesalers for drugs distributed to the retail pharmacy class of trade, after deducting customary prompt pay discounts.

"(2) COVERED OUTPATIENT DRUG.—Subject to the exceptions in subparagraph (D), the term 'covered outpatient drug' means—

"(A) of those drugs which are treated as prescribed drugs for purposes of section 2171(a)(1)(H), a drug which may be dispensed only upon prescription (except as provided in paragraph (7)), and—

"(i) which is approved as a prescription drug under section 505 or 507 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act;

"(ii)(I) which was commercially used or sold in the United States before the date of the enactment of the Drug Amendments of 1962 or which is identical, similar, or related (within the meaning of section 310.6(b)(1) of title 21 of the Code of Federal Regulations) to such a drug, and (II) which has not been the subject of a final determination by the Secretary that it is a 'new drug' (within the meaning of section 201(p) of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act) or an action brought by the Secretary under section 301, 302(a), or 304(a) of such Act to enforce section 502(f) or 505(a) of such Act; or

"(iii)(I) which is described in section 107(c)(3) of the Drug Amendments of 1962 and for which the Secretary has determined there is a compelling justification for its medical need, or is identical, similar, or related (within the meaning of section 310.6(b)(1) of title 21 of the Code of Federal Regulations) to such a drug, and (II) for which the Secretary has not issued a notice of an opportunity for a hearing under section 505(e) of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act on a proposed order of the Secretary to withdraw approval of an application for such drug under such section because the Secretary has determined that the drug is less than effective for some or all conditions of use prescribed, recommended, or suggested in its labeling;

"(B) a biological product, other than a vaccine which—

"(i) may only be dispensed upon prescription,

"(ii) is licensed under section 351 of the Public Health Service Act, and

"(iii) is produced at an establishment licensed under such section to produce such product;

"(C) insulin certified under section 506 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act; and

"(D) a drug which may be sold without a prescription (commonly referred to as an 'over-the-counter drug'), if the drug is prescribed by a physician (or other person authorized to prescribe under State law).

"(3) LIMITING DEFINITION.—The term 'covered outpatient drug' does not include any drug, biological product, or insulin provided as part of, or as incident to and in the same setting as, any of the following (and for which payment may be made under a MediGrant plan as part of payment for the following and not as direct reimbursement for the drug):

"(A) Inpatient hospital services.

"(B) Hospice services.

"(C) Dental services, except that drugs for which the MediGrant plan authorizes direct reimbursement to the dispensing dentist are covered outpatient drugs.

"(D) Physicians' services.

"(E) Outpatient hospital services.

"(F) Nursing facility services and services provided by an intermediate care facility for the mentally retarded.

"(G) Other laboratory and x-ray services.

"(H) Renal dialysis services.

Such term also does not include any such drug or product for which a National Drug Code number is not required by the Food and Drug Administration or a drug or biological used for a medical indication which is not a medically accepted indication. Any drug, biological product, or insulin excluded from the definition of such term as a result of this paragraph shall be treated as a covered outpatient drug for purposes of determining the best price (as defined in subsection (c)(1)(C)) for such drug, biological product, or insulin.

"(4) MANUFACTURER.—The term 'manufacturer' means, with respect to a covered outpatient drug, the entity holding legal title to or possession of the National Drug Code number for such drug.

"(5) MEDICALLY ACCEPTED INDICATION.—The term 'medically accepted indication' means any use for a covered outpatient drug which is approved under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, or the use of which is supported by one or more citations included or approved for inclusion in any of the following compendia:

"(A) American Hospital Formulary Service Drug Information.

"(B) United States Pharmacopeia-Drug Information.

"(C) American Medical Association Drug Evaluations.

"(6) MULTIPLE SOURCE DRUG; INNOVATOR MULTIPLE SOURCE DRUG; NONINNOVATOR MULTIPLE SOURCE DRUG; SINGLE SOURCE DRUG.—

"(A) DEFINED.—

"(i) MULTIPLE SOURCE DRUG.—The term 'multiple source drug' means, with respect to a rebate period, a covered outpatient drug (not including any drug described in paragraph (2)(D)) for which there are 2 or more drug products which—

"(I) are rated as therapeutically equivalent (under the Food and Drug Administration's most recent publication of 'Approved Drug Products with Therapeutic Equivalence Evaluations'),

"(II) except as provided in subparagraph (B), are pharmaceutically equivalent and bioequivalent, as defined in subparagraph (C) and as determined by the Food and Drug Administration, and

"(III) are sold or marketed in the State during the period.

"(ii) INNOVATOR MULTIPLE SOURCE DRUG.—The term 'innovator multiple source drug' means a multiple source drug that was originally marketed under an original new drug application or product licensing application approved by the Food and Drug Administration.

"(B) EXCEPTION.—Subparagraph (A)(i)(II) shall not apply if the Food and Drug Administration changes by regulation the requirement that, for purposes of the publication described in subparagraph (A)(i)(I), in order for drug products to be rated as therapeutically equivalent, they must be pharmaceutically equivalent and bioequivalent, as defined in subparagraph (C).

"(C) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this paragraph—

"(i) drug products are pharmaceutically equivalent if the products contain identical amounts of the same active drug ingredient in the same dosage form and meet compendial or other applicable standards of strength, quality, purity, and identity;

"(ii) drugs are bioequivalent if they do not present a known or potential bioequivalence problem, or, if they do present such a problem, they are shown to meet an appropriate standard of bioequivalence; and

"(iii) a drug product is considered to be sold or marketed in a State if it appears in a published national listing of average wholesale prices selected by the Secretary, if the listed product is generally available to the public through retail pharmacies in that State.

"(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

"(1) the maintenance of the national economy at a high level is vital to the best interests of the United States, but that some of our regions, counties, and communities are suffering substantial and persistent unemployment and underemployment that cause hardship to many individuals and their families, and waste invaluable human resources;

"(2) to overcome this problem the Federal Government, in cooperation with the States, should help areas and regions of substantial and persistent unemployment and underemployment to take effective steps in planning and financing their public works and economic development;

"(3) Federal financial assistance, including grants for public works and development facilities to communities, industries, enterprises, and individuals in areas needing development should enable such areas to help themselves achieve lasting improvement and enhance the domestic prosperity by the establishment of stable and diversified local economies and improved local conditions, if such assistance is preceded by and consistent with sound, long-range economic planning; and

"(4) under the provisions of this Act, new employment opportunities should be created by developing and expanding new and existing public works and other facilities and resources rather than by merely transferring jobs from one area of the United States to another.

"(b) DECLARATION.—Congress declares that, in furtherance of maintaining the national economy at a high level—

"(1) the assistance authorized by this Act should be made available to both rural and urban areas;

"(2) such assistance should be made available for planning for economic development prior to the actual occurrences of economic distress in order to avoid such condition; and

"(3) such assistance should be used for long-term economic rehabilitation in areas where long-term economic deterioration has occurred or is taking place.

"TITLE II—GRANTS FOR PUBLIC WORKS AND DEVELOPMENT FACILITIES

"SEC. 201. DIRECT AND SUPPLEMENTARY GRANTS.

"(a) In General.—Upon the application of any eligible recipient, the Administrator may—

"(1) make direct grants for the acquisition or development of land and improvements for public works, public service, or development facility usage, and the acquisition, design and engineering, construction, rehabilitation, alteration, expansion, or improvement of such facilities, including related machinery and equipment, within an area described in section 502(a), if the Administrator finds that—

"(A) the project for which financial assistance is sought will directly or indirectly—

"(i) tend to improve the opportunities, in the area where such project is or will be located, for the successful establishment or expansion of industrial or commercial plants or facilities;

"(ii) otherwise assist in the creation of additional long-term employment opportunities for such area; or

"(iii) primarily benefit the long-term unemployed and members of low-income families;

"(B) the project for which a grant is requested will fulfill a pressing need of the area, or part thereof, in which it is, or will be, located; and

"(C) the area for which a project is to be undertaken has an approved investment strategy as provided by section 503 and such project is consistent with such strategy;

"(2) make supplementary grants in order to enable the States and other entities within areas described in section 502(a) to take maximum advantage of designated Federal grant-in-aid programs (as defined in subsection (c)(4)), direct grants-in-aid authorized under this section, and Federal grant-in-aid programs authorized by the Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention Act (68 Stat. 666), and the 11 watersheds authorized by the Flood Control Act of December 22, 1944 (58 Stat. 887), for which they are eligible but for which, because of their economic situation, they cannot supply the required matching share.

"(b) Cost Sharing.—Subject to subsection (c), the amount of any direct grant under this subsection for any project shall not exceed 50 percent of the cost of such project.

"(c) Requirements Applicable to Supplementary Grants.—

"(1) Amount of supplementary grants.—

"(A) In general.—Except as provided by subparagraph (B), the amount of any supplementary grant under this section for any project shall not exceed the applicable percentage established by regulations promulgated by the Administrator, but in no event shall the non-Federal share of the aggregate cost of any such project (including assumptions of debt) be less than 20 percent of such cost.

"(B) Exception.—Notwithstanding subparagraph (A), in the case of an Indian tribe, a State (or a political subdivision of the State), or a community development corporation which the Administrator determines has exhausted its effective taxing and borrowing capacity, the Administrator shall reduce the non-Federal share below the percentage specified in subparagraph (A) or shall waive the non-Federal share in the case of such a grant for a project in an area described in section 502(a)(4).

"(2) Form of supplementary grants.—Supplementary grants shall be made by the Administrator, in accordance with such regulations as the Administrator may prescribe, by increasing the amounts of direct grants authorized under this section or by the payment of funds appropriated under this Act to the heads of the departments, agencies, and instrumentalities of the Federal Government responsible for the administration of the applicable Federal programs.

"(3) Federal share limitations specified in other laws.—Notwithstanding any requirement as to the amount or sources of non-Federal funds that may otherwise be applicable to the Federal program involved, funds provided under this subsection shall be used for the sole purpose of increasing the Federal contribution to specific projects in areas described in section 502(a) under such programs above the fixed maximum portion of the cost of such project otherwise authorized by the applicable law.

"(4) Designated federal grant-in-aid programs defined.—In this subsection, the term 'designated Federal grant-in-aid programs' means such existing or future Federal grant-in-aid programs assisting in the construction or equipping of facilities as the Administrator may, in furtherance of the purposes of this Act, designate as eligible for allocation of funds under this section.

"(5) Consideration of relative need in determining amount.—In determining the amount of any supplementary grant available to any project under this section, the Administrator shall take into consideration the relative needs of the area and the nature of the projects to be assisted.

"(d) Regulations.—The Administrator shall prescribe rules, regulations, and procedures to carry out this section which will assure that adequate consideration is given to the relative needs of eligible areas. In prescribing such rules, regulations, and procedures the Administrator shall consider among other relevant factors—

"(1) the severity of the rates of unemployment in the eligible areas and the duration of such unemployment; and

"(2) the income levels of families and the extent of underemployment in eligible areas.

"(e) Review and Comment Upon Projects by Local Governmental Authorities.—The Administrator shall prescribe regulations which will assure that appropriate local governmental authorities have been given a reasonable opportunity to review and comment upon proposed projects under this section.

"SEC. 202. CONSTRUCTION COST INCREASES.

"In any case where a grant (including a supplemental grant) has been made by the Administrator under this title for a project and after such grant has been made but before completion of the project, the cost of such project based upon the designs and specifications which were the basis of the grant has been increased because of increases in costs, the amount of such grant may be increased by an amount equal to the percentage increase, as determined by the Administrator, in such costs, but in no event shall the percentage of the Federal share of such project exceed that originally provided for in such grant.

"SEC. 203. USE OF FUNDS IN PROJECTS CONSTRUCTED UNDER PROJECTED COST.

"In any case where a grant (including a supplemental grant) has been made by the Administrator under this title for a project, and after such grant has been made but before completion of the project, the cost of such project based upon the designs and specifications which were the basis of the grant has decreased because of decreases in costs, such underrun funds may be used to improve the project either directly or indirectly as determined by the Administrator.

"SEC. 204. CHANGED PROJECT CIRCUMSTANCES.

"In any case where a grant (including a supplemental grant) has been made by the Administrator under this title for a project, and after such grant has been made but before completion of the project, the purpose or scope of such project based upon the designs and specifications which were the basis of the grant has changed, the Administrator may approve the use of grant funds on such changed project if the Administrator determines that such changed project meets the requirements of this title and that such changes are necessary to enhance economic development in the area.

"(2) INTEREST IN PROPERTY.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Administrator may provide to an eligible recipient any assistance available under this Act for a project to be carried out on a military installation that is closed or scheduled for closure or realignment without requiring that the eligible recipient have title to the property or a leasehold interest in the property for any specified term.

Ms. PELOSI. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the budget reconciliation bill before the House today. In my view, the Republican plan brings nightmares to the American dream of a better life for our children and sets the wrong priorities for the Nation.

While I support the goal of a balanced budget, I do not support the specific provisions of the Republican budget. The bill is shaped by the Republican priority of promoting the interests of the advantaged over the disadvantaged and average working Americans. In my view, a bipartisan budget bill, rather than this highly partisan and ideological budget, would better serve the American people.

TAX PRIORITIES

The Republican budget cuts taxes for corporations and the wealthiest Americans by $245 billion. More than half of these tax breaks go to those making over $100,000 a year, including major tax giveaways for wealthy investors and corporations.

Rather than asking corporations to be part of the shared sacrifice, the budget calls for expanded business tax subsidies of $37 billion. At the same time, the budget would raise taxes by $23 billion on 14 million low-wage workers and their families by cutting the Earned Income Tax Credit. Thus, low-income working families supporting more than 23 million children will have their taxes raised.

In fact, under this budget, taxes go up for families with incomes below $30,000. Taxes should not be raised on working families in order to finance tax breaks for businesses and those who are well-off.

MEDICARE

By far, the largest portion of the spending cuts in the Republican budget come from an assault on the two major Federal health care programs, Medicare and Medicaid, which together account for half of the spending cuts in the budget.

The Republican Medicare plan cuts $180 billion more than what is needed to make the trust fund solvent, inflicts excessive new premiums on beneficiaries, forces low-income seniors into managed care, repeals important Federal nursing home standards, decimates safety-net and teaching hospitals, and weakens fraud and abuse protections.

The Democratic Medicare alternative, which was defeated in the House, would have protected the financial stability of the Medicare Program, kept premiums affordable, provided seniors a choice of responsible plans, maintained safety-net and teaching hospitals, expanded preventive health benefits, and strengthened anti-fraud and abuse protection.

Medicaid cuts compound the problems caused by the Medicare cuts. Poor or near-poor elderly (those with monthly incomes below $625 per month) may no longer be assured that Medicaid will provide cost-sharing protection for their Medicare premiums, copayments and deductibles. These low-income elderly are doubly hurt because Medicare premiums and copayments will increase substantially at the same time that the Medicaid Program stops paying for them.

The bill also repeals Federal nursing home standards and directs States to adopt whatever standards they choose. With the magnitude of spending cuts, States will be unlikely to develop and enforce standards comparable to current Federal guidelines. The last thing we need to do is go back to the dark days of nursing home abuses that led to the current Federal standards.

MEDICAID

The Republican budget repeals the Medicaid Program which provides health security to 36 million low-income Americans. Half of the beneficiaries are children, 15 percent are people with disabilities, and 12 percent are elderly. Medicaid currently pays for more than half of all nursing home care.

The Medicaid Program is replaced by a block grant program where States would determine eligibility requirements and the types of benefits to be provided. Federal payments to States would be cut by $182 million or 30 percent from projected spending under current law.

Consumers Union estimates that the Medicaid provisions in this budget will result in 12 million Americans losing health insurance coverage. Because public hospitals and trauma centers are dependent on the Medicaid Program, all Americans would suffer a loss of essential health care when they need it most, while experiencing a serious, medical emergency.

The last Congress engaged in an intensive debate on how to provide universal health care coverage. Unfortunately, due to the complexity of the issue and the partisan nature of much of the opposition, no legislation was adopted.

Nonetheless, there was a shared goal by most Members of Congress to expand health care coverage. Now, the Republican majority is about to take the most dramatic step backwards for guaranteed health coverage in American history.

WELFARE

The welfare provisions in this budget bill would cut off benefits to 4.8 million children. These cuts are mean-spirited and cheat children out of good health, good nutrition, and a bright future.

This budget cuts food stamps for families with children by $28 billion, in my home State of California, the Food Stamp Program would be cut by $3.7 billion.

The Republican budget would cut foster care and adoption for vulnerable children in the United States by over $6 billion. Where is our commitment to help our poorest and most vulnerable children? The Republicans would have us balance our budget on their backs, which are not strong enough to carry that terrible weight.

HOUSING

The Republican budget would dramatically heighten the crisis in America's cities. A walk down the street of any American city today presents a graphic portrait of how we need to be increasing our commitment to providing affordable housing. Homelessness is on the rise and America's working families are the fastest growing portion of the homeless population.

And what impact will this Republican budget have? It will decrease the availability of affordable housing by decreasing the tools used by the private and non-profit sectors in the battle to end homelessness.

For example, the Republican budget sunsets the low-income housing tax credit. This credit has played a critical role in the production and rehabilitation of affordable housing across the country.

This year's appropriations bill passed by the House cuts housing programs by at least 26 percent overall and homeless assistance programs by 40 percent. In the absence of Federal funding to provide access to safe, decent, and affordable housing for all Americans, the tax credit is an essential tool for local communities and non-profit organization struggling to house our population.

But the Republican budget does not stop here. It essentially guts the Community Reinvestment Act, one of the most effective tools we currently have to promote investment in low-income communities. This program has increased self-sufficiency in low-income communities around the country and it has had tangible results. There are more small businesses, more jobs, and more housing in communities throughout America as a result of this program. This budget will have an adverse impact on the ability of American communities to build and to rebuild themselves.

STUDENT LOANS

A college education used to be a part of the American dream. In today's economy, it has become an absolute necessity. And not every young person has the means to achieve this. Nearly one-half of all the Nation's college students depend on tuition loans to help pay their way.

Yet provisions in this legislation would result in penalties to those who take advantage of these aid programs. Elimination or drastic reduction of the Direct Student Loan Program would have a devastating effect on a great number of schools. Direct loans are being praised by students and administrators for speed, efficiency and lack of bureaucracy. It is a program that is good for our students and good for the country.

The bill increases the cost of education for parents by increasing the variable interest rate on parent loans. An increase in student loan fees makes it virtually impossible for schools not to pass on the cost of their loan volume fees to the students.

The Republican majority is attempting to give tax cuts to corporations and the rich at the expense of our Nation's children and our Nation's future. These extreme cuts could completely undermine the stability of the student loan program.

PENSION ASSETS

The Republican budget allows corporations to siphon billions of dollars out of worker's pension funds. The Joint Committee on Taxation estimates companies would take up to $40 billion of workers' pension funds through this new corporate loophole.

Only last year, the administration proposed—and Congress on a bipartisan basis enacted—safeguards to tighten pension fund security in underfunded plans by preventing manipulation of the funding rules. The Republican budget undermines these important reforms by encouraging companies to deplete pension assets dramatically.

If companies remove pension assets, thereby jeopardizing the retirement years of American workers, the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation has to pay them. This huge gift to corporations would increase risk to American taxpayers.

We cannot afford another huge Government bailout. Taxpayers have already bailed out the Savings and Loan industry. Yet, the Republican budget would endanger American taxpayers and threaten the security of pensions for American workers in order to provide yet another tax break for big business.

THE ENVIRONMENT

The devastation to our Nation's public lands and natural resources in this bill is beyond understanding. Under the guise of balancing the budget, programs to protect the environment have been fleeced while great Government give-aways remain cloaked and untouched.

The Republicans can open up, sell, and privatize our resources, but they are unable to reach into the deep pockets that pad Federal subsidies to make the cuts that truly should be made. There are plenty of other alternatives available to achieve this balancing act. Mining law, grazing law, and timber sales are all areas where fair cuts could have been made. But, instead, this budget yields to special interests and continues Government giveaways to those who should share in the sacrifice necessary to balance the budget.

How can we truly reconcile these costs to the American taxpayer that will not, but should be cut—the millions of dollars in subsidies and lost revenues from the private use of our public lands and resources?

This is a strange way to do business: Sell your assets at fire sale prices and then get below-market rates for the major assets you keep.

The American taxpayer owns our natural resources—they belong to us today and to our children tomorrow. But, the American taxpayer loses in this bill. We lose the investment we have made for scores of years to protect our resources, and we lose our investment in the future.

STATEMENT OF VALUES

Mr. Chairman, the Federal budget should be a statement of our national values. This budget does not meet the test of fairness demanded by the American people. It reaffirms the Republican Party as the party of wealth, power, and privilege. This bill raises taxes on average American families in order to provide tax breaks for corporations and the wealthiest Americans.

Whether its Medicare, Medicaid, welfare, student loans, pension assets, housing or the environment, the values expressed in this bill do not reflect the fairness of the American people. To adopt his budget would be to move this country in the wrong direction. I urge a vote against this budget.

Mrs. MALONEY. Mr. Chairman, when speaking about Medicare this week, the Speaker said, and I quote, "Now, we don't get rid of it in round one because we don't think that's politically smart and we don't think that's the right way to go through a transition. But we believe it's going to wither on the vine because we think people are voluntarily going to leave it."

How can you both be trying to save Medicare and talk about getting rid of it at the same time?

The answer is: you cannot.

The only true way to save Medicare is to vote against this destructive Republican budget bill.

In fact, between the slashes to both Medicare and Medicaid, $50 billion will be torn from New York State's economy over the next 7 years.

And $12 billion of that will come directly out of New York City hospitals.

These are the same hospitals that are responsible for caring for the citizens of America's largest city; that train a disproportionate number of our next generation of health care professionals; and that conduct cutting-edge research to save and improve our lives.

This plan will eliminate 140,000 jobs—everyone from doctors and nurses to janitors—that maintain the quality of health care and training at these institutions.

This degradation of our hospitals endangers the health care of every American.

However, our seniors and poor children will unfortunately be hurt the most.

More than a quarter of New York's children rely on Medicaid funding for their most basic health care needs. This means things like immunizations and regular checkups—care that no child in this country should be denied. Yet the Republican budget will deny that basic care to half-a-million children in New York. That is a disgrace.

This same budget will deny SSI payments to 65,000 disabled children in New York, children whose parents are already struggling to make ends meet.

Some parents may have to choose between poverty and institutionalizing their children.

Our seniors will see their premiums go up more than $400, forcing many to choose between basics like food and health care. After all our parents have done to build this country and give us opportunities, we owe them better than that.

Mr. Chairman, this budget is destructive to every New Yorker, and I urge my colleagues to vote against it.

Mr. KANJORSKI. Mr. Chairman, I want to express my strong opposition to the Republican reconciliation plan and do my part to help explain to the American people why the bill is bad for our country and our future, particularly in northeastern Pennsylvania. It is appropriate to discuss the future of our country in the context of this budget because the Republican majority has attempted to sell its plan as the fix for all that ails this great Nation. Nothing could be further from the truth, and in fact, this legislation will make our problems much worse.

There are so many things bad about this budget, it is hard to know where to start. Let me begin by stating what I believe is good. The only redeeming feature of this bill is that it presents a comprehensive plan to help reduce our Federal budget deficit. It finally puts on the table a detailed Republican budget plan. For all of those years of talk by Republicans about the need to balance the budget without actually putting forward a detailed, balanced budget plan, including the 12 years they were in power during the Reagan and Bush administrations, I must say: It is about time.

The hard truth, however, is that for average, hard-working Americans, children, and senior citizens, there is little to be happy about. Republicans say their plan will balance the budget, but it won't. This bill does not actually balance the budget because it continues to rely on the surplus of the Social Security trust fund. Without the trust fund, the Republican budget would not be balanced Republicans claim the budget will benefit senior citizens, but the truth is this budget is certain to hurt them. They claim the budget will provide more economic opportunity in our country, but it actually does nothing to generate jobs and higher wages. Empty claims are made that the budget will somehow provide a more promising future for our children, but it cuts education, housing, and low-income tax credits for working families which make it possible for people to work their way out of poverty.

Who does the budget help? It helps wealthy individuals and large international corporations who beg the Congress for massive tax cuts and subsidies but who are increasingly investing more of their money, and sending jobs, out of the country. It helps corporations who want exemptions from important environmental laws. It helps companies who want to compensate taxpayers little or nothing for exploiting our limited natural resources. Truly, it is a special interest mishmash of gigantic proportion hidden behind a wall of rhetoric in support of a balanced-budget agenda.

It is an understatement to say there are many problems with the Republican budget. I would like to comment on at least a few of the more onerous aspects.

SENIOR CITIZENS

First, let address the effect on seniors in northeastern Pennsylvania and around the country. For your information, Mr. Chairman, my district has the 11th highest proportion of senior citizens of all congressional districts. About 20 percent of my district's population, or 120,000 citizens, depend on Medicare.

We held a separate vote on the Republican Medicare plan last week, but there is no hiding the fact that Medicare and Medicaid are being cut to pay for the giveaways in this budget bill. In fact, the single largest part of budget savings in this plan comes from the Medicare and Medicaid Programs—more than $450 billion over 7 years, the largest cuts in the history of these programs.

Republicans say that the cuts in Medicare are needed to preserve the Medicare trust fund. These words ring hollow from those who opposed the creation of Medicare and Medicaid. The truth is that according to the Medicare Trustees, cuts of just $89 billion, not $270 billion, are needed to preserve the trust fund. Clearly, Republicans are picking the pockets of our senior citizens to the tune of $181 billion, to pay for their tax cuts and other special interest giveaways. Beneficiaries and hospitals in my district could lose up to $1 billion in Medicare losses.

I cannot support such massive cuts in these programs. The best way to save money in Medicare and Medicaid is to reform our total health care system. Otherwise, the rising cost of providing care to seniors will be shifted to working families already struggling to pay for the cost of medical care, forcing many more to drop coverage. With more than 53,000 citizens in my district and 40 million Americans around the country currently without health insurance, that outcome is unacceptable.

I also cannot accept placing huge new financial burdens on seniors by doubling the part B Medicare premium. Many seniors can barely afford paying for food and rent. We cannot ask low-income seniors to pay more for the cost of medical care, when most already can barely pay the current cost. We also should not chip away at the quality of health care seniors receive by pushing them into managed care, forcing small hospitals to close, and reducing regulation on doctors and health insurance plans.

Equally as troubling are massive cuts in Federal spending for nursing home care under the Medicaid Program and the elimination of crucial Federal protections for nursing home residents. Medicaid pays for the care of more than 64 percent of Pennsylvania nursing home residents. Pennsylvania will be forced either to raise taxes to make up for lost Federal assistance, or lower standards and deny care to the elderly and disabled. Seniors and their families must have the security that they will not be bankrupt by the health care system as they face old age and debilitating illnesses.

WORKING FAMILIES

Working families will also suffer under this budget. In addition to the possibility that they may be forced to bear a greater burden of paying for the long-term care of their parents, many will have their taxes raised immediately. The earned income tax credit [EITC], which rewards work over welfare, and which was strongly supported by Republican and Democratic administrations, is being cut back. In Pennsylvania, reductions in the credit mean a tax increase to over 455,000 taxpayers at an average rate of $137 per taxpayer.

In my district, the tax increase on almost 27,000 taxpayers receiving the EITC will total more $3.6 million next year, and $25 million over 7 years.

Another hit comes from $10 billion in cuts to Federal student loans. Interest rates charged to parents to take loans out on behalf of their children are increased, and students will have to begin to pay back loans sooner, regardless of the fact that it is taking longer and longer for graduates to find jobs.

CHILDREN

Pennsylvania is hit with one of the largest cuts in the Medicaid Program, 22 percent, a program which has children as its largest number of beneficiaries. More than 18 percent of Pennsylvania children rely on Medicaid for their basic health needs. Coverage may have to be eliminated for as many as 114,892 Pennsylvania children with these cuts.

Combining these cuts with budget cuts in appropriation bills levy a heavy toll on Pennsylvania children. Other budget cuts will, for example, deny important new Head Start education funding and cut nutrition assistance for 551,000 children just in my State of Pennsylvania. Cuts will deny child care to more than 17,000 children and reduce foster care and adoption assistance to our State by $390 million over 7 years. Child protection funds for abused and neglected children are cut by a full 21 percent by the year 2002.

TAX CUTS

Perhaps the most outrageous part of this budget is a $245 billion tax cut which benefits mostly the wealthiest Americans. At a time when the Republican majority in Congress is proposing to raise taxes on working families, cut health care for the elderly, cut education, and cut nutrition assistance and child care for children, this is no time to be providing a tax windfall to those who do not need tax relief.

The benefit of more than 52 percent of the tax cuts in the Republican plan will go to taxpayers earning more than $100,000 per year, only 1.7 percent of households in my district. Taxpayers earning more than $350,000 a year will get an average tax break of $18,925 per year. Astonishingly, taxpayers with incomes below $10,000 will get a tax increase of about 2 percent.

Some Republicans think that making almost $200,000 per year qualifies a taxpayer as lower-middle class; one member from North Carolina actually said so last week. In fact, he went on to claim that taxpayers making between $300,000 and $750,000 per year are middle class. I have news for him, there are precious few families in northeastern Pennsylvania that make that much; most earn only a small fraction of these amounts. This shows how out of touch Republicans are with the real world. At the very least, any tax cuts should be targeted to help truly middle-class, working Americans.

CORPORATE WELFARE

Large corporations, of course, are big winners under the Republican budget. Corporations would be allowed to more easily withdraw contributions made to employee pension funds. Some 22,000 pension plans, covering 11 million workers and 2 million retirees are at risk. This is nothing more than stealing from the pensions of working families. Companies will not even have to notify employees and retirees.

In the long run, the loss of pensions for workers will mean a lower standard of living for senior citizens and an even higher level of Federal spending on Medicare, Medicaid, and other programs if companies default on pension plans. Default could easily occur because present pension surpluses are based on inflated stock market prices. Government, and therefore taxpayers, will ultimately have to step in and make up for pension shortfalls resulting from corporate greed.

Corporations would also get relief from the repeal of the Federal alternative minimum tax, which currently makes sure that companies cannot take excessive deductions and credit to eliminate tax liability. At least 130 companies between 1981 and 1985 had years where they paid no Federal taxes. These companies included General Electric, Boeing, and Lockheed, some of the largest in our country. In eliminating the minimum tax, multibillion dollar companies can again use loopholes and accounting gimmicks to pay less in taxes than most working families.

Big oil companies would be allowed to drill for oil in environmentally-sensitive areas of Alaska, just 6 years after the worst oil spill disaster in our history in Valdez, AK. Grazing fees imposed in response to environmental degradation on public lands in the west will be reduced to the benefit of large, profitable cattle companies.

Foreign mining companies will continue to be permitted to reap billions of dollars off Federal lands, while paying taxpayers pennies. One South African firm is seeking to mine Jerritt Canyon in Nevada, a project with recoverable resources worth $1.1 billion, and the company will pay just $5,080. A Canadian firm will soon mine McCoy Cove in Nevada for just $1,000, even though the mine's recoverable resources are worth $1.4 billion.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

The Republican budget proposes to eliminate the Commerce Department, but in its place establish seven new bureaucracies. Somehow, Republicans think that this will save the Government money when independent studies of the proposal have concluded that it will actually cost more to take this action.

Worse, the budget decimates funding for important programs of the Economic Development Administration [EDA] of the Commerce Department which allocates some of the already very small amounts of economic development assistance this country spends each year. The EDA has helped my district tremendously in the last few years through grants to secure new jobs and industries that are economic development anchors in Nanticoke, Wilkes-Barre, and Hazleton. In May, the EDA provided an important grant for the expansion of Humboldt Industrial Park in the greater Hazleton area. The EDA is clearly very important to northeastern Pennsylvania and other regions struggling to create jobs and economic opportunity for their citizens.

WHAT MUST BE DONE

Mr. Chairman, I want to reiterate that this bill does not provide solutions to our Nation's problems. Few Americans understand that this budget does not even truly balance the budget—the primary goal of the bill. The only reason the Republican budget reaches a balance under budget scoring rules is that it borrows $115 billion from the Social Security trust fund. Even worse, it pushes the cost of much of the tax cuts off into the long-term future, worsening the budget after the year 2002.

This budget is a fraud and a disgrace. Americans should not have to rely on the President to stop these measures nor wait for Democrats to take control of the Congress to responsibly get our fiscal house in order. Yes, we must pass a budget. But we must pass a good budget, regardless of what party is in control. A good budget is balanced and fair, and this budget clearly fails in both of these respects.

Working together, I am confident that Republicans and Democrats can accomplish many great things in this Congress, including producing a budget plan that balances the federal budget. Working together with the Bush administration in 1990 the Democratic Congress averted disaster and put together a bipartisan deficit reduction bill. Because of our deficit reduction efforts both in 1990 and 1993, the deficit has fallen from $290 billion in 1992, to $165 billion this year. The deficit is at its lowest level as a percentage of the economy since 1979.

More must be done, and on this issue Republicans and Democrats agree. There is an alternative before us which shows that there is clearly room for compromise on many of the most difficult issues. I urge my colleagues therefore to reject the majority budget bill and work with the President and the Democratic minority to produce a good balanced budget.

Mr. LANTOS. Mr. Chairman, many of my colleagues have described the fundamental flaws of this disastrous bill—this bill makes huge cuts in Medicare, Medicaid, and other programs for low- and middle-income Americans in order to finance tax breaks for the wealthy. More than half of the $245 billion in Republican tax cuts will go to those who earn over $100,000 per year, and at the same time almost seven-eighths of middle-income families will actually pay more in taxes or will see no benefit at all from this disastrous plan.

The $270 billion cut in Medicare, which is included in this bill, is three times greater than the amount recommended by the Medicare trustees—and this provision will force American seniors to pay more, limit their choice of doctors, and lead to a reduction in health care quality. This legislation abolishes minimum quality standards for nursing homes. Another provision of this calamitous legislation allows corporations to take $40 billion out of worker pension funds and use them for any purpose those corporations choose.

Mr. Chairman, as I have just enumerated briefly, there are a whole host of fatal flaws in this ill-conceived piece of legislation. But in the interest of time, I would like to concentrate on a single problem in the bill. This one problem is only a single small example of the horrendous fundamental defects of this legislation. The problem I am talking about is the great pension fund raid of 1995.

Sometimes, Mr. Chairman, the Congress makes a decision which shows remarkable long-term foresight and wisdom. Sometimes, however, it makes a decision which shows awesome short-term irresponsibility. Today, we are about to witness such short-term irresponsibility. The Republican majority—first on the House Ways and Means Committee and now in the full House of Representatives—is marching in lock-step to approve a provision which clearly qualifies as one of the most mind-boggling examples of shortsightedness I have seen since I have served in the Congress.

The Republican's self-imposed deadline to balance the Federal budget by the year 2002 has run into the brick wall of no new taxes and constituent support for continuing existing Federal programs. Now, the Republicans are desperately searching for the magic bullet that will balance the budget without cutting Government programs.

In this atmosphere, some Republicans think they have found such a magic bullet. They have proposed a change in pension reserves that will raise an estimated $9.5 billion in tax revenue. The proposal does indeed sound too good to be true.

Companies which maintain their own pension programs are required to fund the programs at 150 percent of current liabilities. The Republican proposal would allow them to fund their programs at only 125 percent of current liabilities. The excess in the pension funds could be withdrawn by the companies for any purpose, and taxes would be paid on those funds. The $9.5 billion in revenues are the estimated taxes that would be paid on those funds that would be withdrawn.

The shortsightedness of that proposal is incredible, particularly because there is a massive potential cost to the Federal Government. If the companies are unable to fund their own pensions, the American taxpayers are left holding the bag. An agency of the Federal Government—the Pension Benefit Guarantee Corporation [PBGC]—is the ultimate guarantor of all of these private pension programs. If a pension plan goes belly up, for whatever reason, the PBGC has the obligation to continue funding those pensions.

As the former chairman of the congressional Subcommittee on Employment and Housing, I held a series of hearings on the ability of the PBGC to handle potential defaults in private pension programs. The conclusion of my subcommittee hearings and the thorough review we undertook—as well as the review by independent Government auditors of these programs—is that the PBGC could face potentially serious unfunded liabilities if there are major pension program defaults. A modest increase in pension plan defaults will overwhelm the PGBC's resources, and the American taxpayer will be left holding a very large bag.

How better to turn solemn warnings into dire reality than to reduce the corporate funding requirements of those pension plans. The short-term gain of less than $10 billion over the next 7 years—which will make a minimal contribution to balancing the Federal budget—could result in pension defaults which could cost the American taxpayer in the long run many times the minimal amount gained in the short run.

This is typical of the Republican social and economic legislation that we have seen this year. The beneficiaries of this program are the corporate fat cats, who will reap a windfall because they will put away considerably less for future pension needs. The little people are the ones who will suffer. When the PBGC assumes the increased burden that will follow as more pension programs go into default, pension recipients will be cut. If the PGBC cannot meet its increased liabilities, the taxpayers—again working American men and women—will have to foot the bill.

Mr. Chairman, the corporate pension windfall provision of this legislation is in and of itself amply reason for rejecting this entire budget reconciliation package. But this is only a small example of the short-term irresponsibility and reckless policy that this single bill contains. I urge my colleagues to reject this bill.

Mr. Chairman, I ask consent to include in the RECORD a statement issued yesterday by Secretary of Labor Robert B. Reich, who is also the Chairman of the Board of the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation. Secretary Reich's statement clearly and concisely identifies the problems with this horrendous provision of the budget reconciliation bill.

STATEMENT OF SECRETARY OF LABOR ROBERT B. REICH

The legislation that Congress is considering this week is exactly the wrong thing to do. At a time when there is widespread agreement that we need to strengthen pensions and increase the savings rate, this legislation sends absolutely the wrong signal.

I strongly support Congressman Matsui's proposal to strip this pension grab out of the reconciliation bill that will be on the House floor tomorrow. And I support efforts to do the same thing in the Senate.

I called this a pension grab and that's what it is, pure and simple. It's an attempt to turn the clock back to the 1980s, when companies raided tens of billions of dollars from the private pension system and undermined confidence in the system. During those years, there were no restrictions on pension plans and we saw the result—billions of dollars were taken out of the pension system, and much of the money went to pay for corporate takeovers.

The practice continued until Congress wisely put a stop to it with excise taxes. Now, Congress is about to remove the safeguards which have strengthened the pension system.

And let's remember whose money will be taken—it will be the money earned by America's working people to pay for their retirement, money they will need to take care of themselves.

The fact is simple and bears repeating: a plan which is overfunded today can quickly become underfunded next week. Changes in asset values and interest rates can reduce funding levels. Companies in financial trouble will have an incentive to strip assets from pension plans.

As Congress considers this legislation, one fact should be kept in mind—last year, the pension insurance system was already running a deficit of $1.2 billion.

When this administration took office, we moved quickly to address the serious problems we found with underfunded pensions. And last year, Congress acted on a bipartisan basis to pass our Pension Protection Act. This legislation would undo the protections in that legislation. This proposal should be rejected.

As chairman of the board of the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation, I'm worried about the pensions of 41 million Americans. For that reason, I urge the House and Senate to halt this pension raid—and I commend the members here today for protecting America's working men and women.

Mr. TORRES. Mr. Chairman, the effects of this budget on our Nation's children are disastrous. These cuts create a system that hits our children around every corner: in the classroom, in the home, and on the street.

When our children go to school, they won't find help through unique programs. And if your child has special needs or is disadvantaged, this budget says "sorry, we have nothing for you."

The tragedy does not end with education. Even the most basic health care and nutritional assistance will be denied to millions of children.

And why?

Because they had the misfortune of being born into poverty and this bill refuses to recognize their innocence.

My home State of California stands to lose more than any State in the Nation. Roughly a quarter of a million disadvantaged students will be denied special help with reading, writing, and math.

And let's not forget the 26 percent of California children who will go without basic health care with the reduction of Medicaid.

What kind of a foundation will our Nation's children have to grow from when this Congress refuses to give them stable ground?

Mr. Chairman, the proponents of this budget can sugar-coat the effects of these cuts and swindle the American public; the reality is, this budget puts a noose around the neck of every child in America. I, for one, will not keep it a secret.

Mr. DE LA GARZA. Mr. Chairman, there are many reasons to oppose the Gingrich reconciliation legislation. The most tragic aspects of the bill are those which are targeted to compromise the well-being of our Nation's children. The bill's cuts in Medicaid, Supplemental Security Income, education, housing, and nutrition assistance programs are terribly misguided. History has shown us that the short-term savings attained by undermining the health and well-being of our children will come back to haunt us in the future through lost productivity and increased health care costs.

The following administration analysis details the impact the Republicans' human services program cuts will have on children in the State of Texas.

IMPACT OF REPUBLICAN BUDGET CUTS ON CHILDREN IN TEXAS

IMPACT OF HEALTH CARE CUTS ON CHILDREN IN TEXAS

Eliminates Medicaid coverage for as many as 206,641 children in Texas and 4.4 million children nationwide in 2002. Currently, 20% of children in Texas rely on Medicaid for their basic health needs. Medicaid pays for immunizations, regular check-ups, and intensive care in case of emergencies for about 1,407,000 children in Texas.

The Republican budget cuts federal Medicaid funding to Texas by $7 billion over seven years and by 20% in 2002 alone.

Even if Texas could absorb half of the cuts by reducing services and provider payments, it would still have to eliminate coverage for 360,097 people, including 206,641 children in 2002.

Among the children in Texas who could be denied coverage, many are disabled. Medicaid often makes the difference between whether or not a disabled child lives at home with their parents. Medicaid provides valuable services for many disabled children, often making the difference that allows them to live at home with their parents. Medicaid provides for items such as wheelchairs, communication devices, therapy at home, respite care and home modifications. Without these services, parents may be forced to give up their jobs of seek institutional placement for children.

Jeopardizes immunizations for children in Texas. The Republican budget repeals the Vaccines for Children program, putting at risk at least $1.5 billion over seven years that would otherwise provide vaccinations for children in Texas and across the nation.

Cuts Dallas infant mortality project by 52% in 1996. This Healthy Start project provides vital prenatal and health care services to women in the Dallas community of childbearing age. Nationwide, the House cut would deny 1 million women services, affecting the births of 74,000 infants each year.

IMPACT OF CUTS ON CHILDREN WITH DISABILITIES IN TEXAS

Denies as many as 44,070 disabled children in Texas SSI cash benefits in 2002. The House welfare bill eliminates federal Supplemental Security Income benefits for as many as 54% of the disabled children in Texas expected to receive SSI cash benefits in 2002 under current law. Federal SSI cash benefits for children with disabilities in Texas will be cut by $1.2 billion over seven years, affecting as many as 755,000 disabled children nationwide in 2002.

TAX INCREASE ON WORKING FAMILIES WITH CHILDREN IN TEXAS

2.5 million children in Texas live in working families that will have their taxes raised by an average of $430 in 2002 under the Republican budget. The Senate has passed a $43 billion tax increase on working families by reducing the Earned Income Tax Credit.

Families with two or more children in Texas will face an average tax increase of $500.

IMPACT OF EDUCATION CUTS ON CHILDREN IN TEXAS

Denies Head Start to 12,512 children in Texas and 180,000 children nationwide in 2002, compared with 1995.

Denies 100,100 Texas children basic and advanced skills in 1996. The Republican budget cuts Title I by $1.1 billion—a 17% cut in 1996—denying Title I funding for 1.1 million students in the poorest communities nationwide, including 100,100 children in Texas. Title I funds in Texas will be cut by $97.8 million in 1996.

Cuts Safe and Drug Free Schools, which 1,043 out of 1,053 school districts in Texas use to keep crime, violence, and drugs away from 2.0 million children, their schools, and their communities.

Eliminates Goals 2000, denying improved teaching and learning for as many as 413,000 school children in Texas in 1996. By 2002, 949,800 children in Texas would be denied improved education, compared with the President's balanced budget.

Eliminates the AmeriCorps National Service program, denying 3,171 young people in Texas the opportunity to serve their communities in 1996.

Eliminates summer jobs for 42,491 youths in Texas in 1996 and 297,437 youths over seven years. The Republican budget eliminates the summer youth employment program which provides job experience and skills to 600,000 youths each summer.

IMPACT OF NUTRITION CUTS ON CHILDREN IN TEXAS

Cuts nutrition assistance for 1.4 million children in Texas in 2002. The House Republican budget cuts food stamp benefits for families with children in Texas by $3.1 billion over seven years and by 25.7% in 2002.

Jeopardizes child nutrition programs on which 2.7 million children in Texas depend. The House Republican budget block grants funding for the school lunch and WIC program. Nationally, their budget reduces funding for child nutrition programs by more than $10 billion over seven years and 11% in 2002, compared with current law.

IMPACT OF PUBLIC HEALTH AND ENVIRONMENTAL CUTS ON CHILDREN IN TEXAS

Allows sewage to flow into waters where children in Texas live and play. The Republican budget reduces new funding to keep water clean by 33% compared with the President's budget.

Texas will lose $16.7 million to treat waste water pollution and protect public health. The cuts mean that raw sewage will pour into local waters—waters that our children often swim and play in—from outdated treatments systems in Texas.

Jeopardizes the water that children in Texas drink. Republicans are cutting low-interest loans to cities and towns in Texas for drinking water treatment facilities by $42.9 million in 1996.

Pollutes the air that children living near 32 oil refineries in Texas breathe. These refineries emitted more than 27 million pounds of toxic air pollution in 1993, putting children in the surrounding communities at risk of serious health problems, including cancer and respiratory illnesses such as asthma. The Republican budget halts the President's effort to protect the health and safety of children living near these refineries.

Exposes children in Texas to hazardous waste. The Republican budget cuts spending on toxic waste cleanups by 36%—$560 million—below the President's balanced budget in 1996.

Nationally, five million children under the age of four live within four miles of a Superfund site. These cuts will stop or slow the clean-up of sites nationwide that pose a threat to public health and the environment.

The Republican cuts will stop or slow the clean-up of at least 4 toxic waste sites in Texas. The Republican cuts will stop or slow the clean-up sites near the following communities in Texas: Jasper, Houston, Texarkana, and Arlington

IMPACT OF CUTS ON SAFETY NET FOR CHILDREN IN TEXAS

Denies 30,540 children in Texas child care assistance in 2002. The House welfare bill block grants and cuts federal child care funding for low-income children in Texas by $222.6 million over seven years, cutting child care assistance to 30,540 children in Texas.

Cuts foster care and adoption for vulnerable Texas children by $359.5 million over seven years compared with current law. The House welfare bill cuts child protection for abused and neglected children in Texas by 24% in 2002.

Eliminates cash assistance for 5,260 children in Texas simply because they were born to unmarried mothers under 18, when the House welfare bill is fully implemented in 2005.

Cuts assistance for 222,000 children in Texas simply because their paternity has not been established, when the House welfare bill is fully implemented in 2005.

IMPACT OF ENERGY CUTS ON CHILDREN IN TEXAS

Eliminates home energy assistance for 22,325 children in Texas. The Republican budget eliminates $29.1 million that helps low-income families in Texas with their home heating and cooling bills. Lower energy bills allow families to spend more money on basic needs.

Denies about 1,472 children in Texas protection from bad weather conditions. The Republican budget cuts weatherization assistance for families' homes in Texas by $2.7 million in 1996.

IMPACT OF HOUSING CUTS ON CHILDREN IN TEXAS

Forces families of 204,700 children in Texas to pay more rent. The Republican budget raises rents by an average of $200 a year for the 1.4 million low-income families with children assisted by Section 8 nationally. The median income of these families is only $6,800.

Denies families of 5,092 children in Texas the opportunity to move from public housing to renting their own home. The Republican budget eliminates funding for new Section 8 certifications and vouchers, denying rental assistance to low-income families and children who wish to live in privately-owned housing.

Eliminates protection for 4,744 children in Texas from drugs and drug-related crimes in public housing. The Republican budget zeroes-out the Public Housing Drug Elimination program which protects more than 1 million children living in public housing nationwide from drugs and drug-related crimes. Funds will be eliminated for public housing tenant patrols, local law enforcement activities, security personnel, and physical improvements to improve security.

7,990 children in Texas will be forced to remain in poor and unsafe housing conditions. The Republican budget cuts public housing modernization in Texas by $12.9 million in 1996, severely hindering efforts by housing agencies to rehabilitate run down public housing projects and provide much needed security and anti-crime programs.

10,716 children in Texas will have to go without basic housing needs. The Republican budget cuts public housing operating subsidies in Texas by $13.3 million—a cut of 14% in 1996—forcing local agencies to neglect basic housing needs, such as fixing leaking ceilings and broken windows and providing security and social services.

Denies assistance to 1,143 homeless children in Texas. The Republican budget cuts homeless assistance by 40% in 1996, cutting funding for the homeless in Texas by $30.3 million in 1996.

Mr. LAFALCE. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the reconciliation bill.

Balancing the budget and reducing the Federal deficit are worthy goals—goals the Clinton administration is aggressively pursuing. But there are many ways to achieve those goals, and the Republican package before us today chooses the wrong path.

Any effort to balance the budget must be crafted carefully so as to place any new burdens where they can best be borne. The proposal before us does precisely the opposite. It is filled with instances in which programs which aid working Americans and assist local communities are being sacrified so that tax breaks or other advantages can be given to the well-off and the privileged.

I will confine my remarks at this point to the banking portions of this bill. But I would note that these provisions are symptomatic of what has occurred in the bill overall. The thrust of these provisions is to serve the interests of the banks, not the interests of the local communities and small businesses those banks are supposed to serve.

The Community Reinvestment Act [CRA] has been an important means of ensuring that lenders make a real commitment to meeting the credit needs of the local communities from which they draw their funds. Provisions in the banking portion of the reconciliation bill totally undermine the CRA program by effectively exempting the vast majority of banks from the law's coverage; largely eliminating the only enforcement mechanism available; and insulating the vast majority of the Nation's banks from public comment on corporate plans that can adversely affect the community.

As ranking Democrat on the Small Business Committee, I particularly object to the unnecessary and unjustified prohibition on small business data collection included among the CRA provisions. The development of locally based small businesses is critical to the economic growth of our communities. Yet we are all aware of the problems local small businesses have obtaining capital, and smaller firms have always been underserved by traditional lenders. We badly need better information in order to objectively assess banks' claims that they are adequately serving local businesses and to press for greater outreach.

The gutting of the CRA program was totally unnecessary. The Republican proposal actually effected savings substantially in excess of the savings required under the Budget Resolution requirements. Yet the package then gratuitiously proceeded to gut the Community Reinvestment Act program, which brought about only the most minimal additional savings.

This issue simply does not belong in this reconciliation package. Some reform of the CRA program has certainly been in order to reduce unnecessary regulatory burdens on our smaller financial institutions. But we have new CRA regulations that meet the need—they streamline bank reporting requirements without eliminating the obligation for banks to comply with this important program. The CRA provisions in the budget reconciliation bill are simply a gratuitous effort to effectively eliminate the program through the back door before recent reforms are even given a chance to work.

This package has the right goal, but the choices made reflect values I cannot accept. I would urge my colleagues to vote against this legislation.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Chairman, I rise today in strong opposition to this Republican assault on our Nation's children. It is cruel, it is shortsighted, and it is just plain wrong.

This Republican budget which rewards the rich in our society, cuts Medicaid by $182 billion over the next 7 years, and ends its entitlement status, leaving it up to the States to decide whether or not they want to provide basic health care to children, the disabled, and the low-income elderly. Medicaid is a safety net for America's children. Although most people view Medicaid as a welfare program, nearly 60 percent of Medicaid children are from low-income working families. Medicaid actually supports employment since low-income working families don't have to choose between working and ensuring that their kids receive checkups, immunizations, and basic health care. The Medicaid Program gives parents an incentive to stay in the work force and not go on welfare in order to qualify for Medicaid. Even Presidents Reagan and Bush thought this was a good idea, and expanded the program to working families. But today, Mr. Speaker, we are cutting this important safety net from America's children. My Republican colleagues keep talking about priorities and securing a better America for our children and grandchildren, but this bill does nothing of the sort. This budget will cripple the future of our children and grandchildren.

My State of Massachusetts, where we have some of the finest hospitals, physicians, and research facilities in the world, will lose $4 billion over the next 7 years. These cuts will eliminate Medicaid coverage for 113,644 children in Massachusetts by 2002. It will deny 12,370 disabled children from receiving benefits by 2002. Kids with severe disabilities will be denied access to specialty care and their parents will not be able to afford to pay for their expensive health care bills. 227,000 children in Massachusetts will not receive food stamps by 2002, and 582,000 children who depend on WIC will be vulnerable when the State decides to use the resources for other purposes than ensuring kids get good nutrition. And I could go on and on and on.

But as we debate this draconian budget package and as I listen to the Republicans blame the poor, the disabled, and children for our country's dire financial straits—I remain confused. How come we can still afford a $245 billion big fat juicy tax break and throw the Pentagon an extra $7 billion that they did not even ask for? Mr. Speaker, this clearly represents the priorities and the tough choices of the Republican party. Reward your wealthy friends and step on the little guy.

I urge my colleagues to reject this stealth attack on America's children and defeat this budget.

Mrs. KENNELLY. Mr. Chairman, I am very concerned that section 936 is phased out in reconciliation. Section 936 has played a critical role in economic development in Puerto Rico—creating and keeping good, high-quality, well-paying jobs on the island. Many of my constituents in Hartford, CT, have friends and relatives employed by section 936 companies in Puerto Rico.

I am also greatly concerned that we consider this drastic measure just 2 years after dramatic reform of the 936 program and without consultation with the Puerto Rican Government. We have barely had time to examine the impact of the 1993 changes and yet we are poised to eliminate the program. Such actions surely don't facilitate business planning.

I am concerned about the impact on the island as 936 disappears. Poverty is already very high and good jobs scarce. What will remain for the people of Puerto Rico? I'm afraid that we will only fully realize just how effective it has been when the companies that have enjoyed section 936 begin to leave for other parts of the Caribbean or Ireland.

It is because of these concerns that I am supporting Governor Rossello's new proposal for economic development in Puerto Rico. The Governor has proposed an economic incentive program that would replace section 936 with a wage credit to help spur job creation on the island. This proposal was presented after the committee mark was drafted, and thus was not considered by the Ways and Means Committee. It is my hope that Governor Rossello's proposal will be given serious consideration in conference and ultimately adopted.

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong opposition to H.R. 2491, the so-called Seven Year Budget Reconciliation Act.

It never ceases to amaze me that, just when you think you've heard it all—you hear just one more piece of rhetoric that again, you think caps everything else you've ever heard.

Now as if the changes and cuts in Medicare were not bad enough, I read in this morning's Post that just yesterday, Senate majority leader and Presidential candidate DOLE expressed his pride in his vote, 30 years ago, against Medicare's enactment. He says he knew even then it would not work. He bragged about fighting the fight against Medicare. DOLE said: "I am against Government-run health care."

So as not to be upstaged and left out of the Presidential hopeful limelight, Speaker of the House GINGRICH spoke right up about his round of massive cuts to Medicare by stating:

> "Now we don't get rid of it (Medicare) in round one because we don't think that's politically smart and we don't think that's the right way to go through a transition. But we believe it (Medicare) is going to wither on the vine because we think people are voluntarily going to leave it."

People—seniors—are not going to voluntarily leave the program, they are going to be starved out of their fee for service plans they are now in due to a lack of funding, and forced into managed care—and boy, wait till seniors find out about managed care. It would be helpful if the Republicans would just say what they mean. Not managed care—but rationed care for the elderly.

H.R. 2491 is, without a doubt, the most onerous, burdensome, hurtful bill I have ever witnessed in this House in my 19 years service here. There are more than 30 major-major changes in existing laws in this bill—major-major-changes—reforms that will change the face of how this Nation treats children, women who are pregnant and poor, senior citizens who are tiresome because they are old, the unemployed and the underemployed who are desperately seeking work and a dignity of life; young people in search of a college education and a better life for themselves and their children; children in need of day care, and their parents who would work if it could be found instead of taking welfare; for the disabled child and adult—losing coverage under Medicaid and Medicare.

I am deeply concerned for the hundreds of people in my district who have written to me about a 40-percent cut in Medicare reimbursement for home-delivered oxygen therapy—without which they would not be able to breathe. There used to be a joke about taxes—that if it keeps up, folks said, first thing you know they will be taxing the air we breathe. Well, today's the day.

As I said, there are over 30 major changes in current law in this bill, not the least of them is the decimation of the Earned Income Tax Credit for working families with children. Not the least of them is a provision that invites, encourages corporations to raid workers' pension funds. Let us hope that, when those workers retire, the money will be there to pay their pensions—but do not hold your breath. Just one investment gone bad can wipe out a company's pension plan overnight.

And lest anyone forget—veterans are also mistreated under this so-called budget reconciliation bill—let me just say that cutting $6.5 billion from veterans health, housing, education and other programs is no small amount.

This bill codifies into law the massive cuts in Medicare and Medicaid, and it codifies into law the so-called Welfare reform bill passed by the House earlier this year.

There will be no cash assistance to teens who have babies—and this is an unacceptable encouragement and incentive for these young women to get abortions—to kill their unborn babies. This is unconscionable.

Mr. Speaker, this bill decimates at least 30 major programs. I call this the Republican Judas bill. Republicans have brought this bill to the floor for 30 pieces of silver.

The bill specifically does the following things, and I am providing estimated impacts on various programs and populations in West Virginia and in my Third District as available to me:

1. Cuts $270 billion from Medicare (but we still have not seen the language—text to be supplied they say—325,000 seniors in West Virginia will be hurt by this cut, paying up to $1,800 more per individual and $3,600 for couples for health care by increasing premiums to $93 a month; requiring a 20 percent copayment for home care; by increasing the $100 deductible to $150 and above in the out years; by starving the fee for service program, forcing seniors into managed care plans.

2. Cuts the wealthiest Americans taxes by $245 billion—giving them a tax break of up to $20,000 a year, but only approximately $159 for families with incomes between $20,000 and $30,000 a year (while increasing taxes by up to $2,600 a year for families earning $28,500 or less by repealing the EITC).

It is important to note here that this bill also repeals the Alternative Minimum Tax [AMT] for huge corporations, which means that more than 130 of largest U.S. companies in the United States will not have to pay any taxes.

3. Cuts $182 billion from Medicaid and block grants it, hurting children, the elderly, the poor and the disabled (West Virginia's Medicaid cuts by 2002 will amount to 42 percent of its funds, terminating benefits by 2002) for an estimated 140,000 out of current 367,000 recipients of Medicaid for a total of $4.5 billion over 7 years (and out of approximately 548,958 seniors who will be eligible in WV by 2002). It includes terminating benefits also to children and disabled persons, and will deny long-term nursing care to 26,000 seniors.

4. Reduces the Earned Income Tax Credit by $23 billion, raising taxes on the most vulnerable among us (there are 38,500 families eligible for EITC in WV's Third Congressional District, and 93,834 families throughout the State). Eligible families can lose up to $2,600 per year depending upon income and number of children.

5. Allows corporations to raid worker pension funds to the tune of $40 billion; (bad investment of pension funds could wipe out workers' pensions overnight; the plan raises revenue for first few years but is estimated to increase the deficit by $32 billion in the out years of the 7 year budget). Welcome to the revolution all corporate raiders.

6. Terminates the low-income housing tax credit (to save $3.5 billion).

7. Eliminates the student loan interest exemption, costing students $3.5 billion (in West Virginia 39,500 students will pay as much as $2,111 more for college loans, and as much as $9,424 for 5,600 graduate students; it denies Pell grants to 2,600 students in our State in 1996 alone).

8. Cuts $1.1 billion from the title 1 education program for poor elementary school children in need of remedial instruction in reading and math (5,999 West Virginia children will be cast aside when the State loses more than $12 million in title funds).

9. Cuts $6.4 billion in veterans benefits by rounding down their COLA's repealing automatic compensation, and increasing copayments for their drugs. (This will affect 62,700 veterans in the Third Congressional district in WV).

10. Terminates the Federal Direct Student Loan Program, eliminates service improvement and costing schools already in the program additional money. (There are 25 colleges, universities, and trade schools currently in the direct lending program, six of which are in the Third District).

11. Raises interest rates on education loans to parents.

12. Cuts $1 billion in funds to oversee the Federal Student Loan Program.

13. Dismantles the Commerce Department, replacing it with 7 new agencies (new costs of 7 new agencies to be supplied according to the Republicans).

14. Increases HUD rental payments by $4 billion.

15. Increases contributions for GI bill benefits by $1 billion.

16. Block grants and cuts welfare spending by $102 billion (WV would lose approximately $90 million, affecting 17,000 children who will be dropped because they are current recipients of AFDC, and 47,000 children because they are in families who have been on AFDC more than 60 months; $134 million in food stamp assistance affecting 62,500 persons; a loss of $17 million in child protective/foster care services; loss of $10 million for WIC services to pregnant women).

17. Repeals the school lunch/breakfast programs (WV loses $4.2 million a year, affecting 195,130 West Virginia children).

18. Open Alaska's Arctic National Wildlife Refuge to oil exploration for $2.3 billion.

19. Giveaways to western mining companies that pay for land but not silver and gold beneath it.

20. Allows ranchers to pay less for grazing fees.

21. Weakens community reinvestment act by allowing banks to self certify that they are in compliance with CRA.

22. Eliminates Federal Housing Administration's foreclosure relief program.

23. Eliminates affordable housing programs run by the RTC and FDIC (reduces spending on public housing capital 46 percent below the President's request, by cutting $2.7 million in 1996 alone, and cuts 40 percent from assistance to homeless persons at a cost of $1.4 million in West Virginia).

24. Extracts $10 billion from Federal worker retirement.

25. Repeals Service Contract Act giving prevailing wages to workers such as janitors, laundry helpers, and security guard personnel creating a real underclass of working Americans who already earn very low wages.

26. Makes $13 billion in unspecified agriculture savings (text to be supplied, they say) (from what we know, West Virginia loses $3 million in farm spending along with drastic reductions in support for commodity programs).

27. Taxes innovation by diverting fees paid by users of the Patent and Trademark office.

28. Increases electric rates for rural consumers by selling power marketing administrations.

29. Exempts special tariffs for imported Timex watches—competing against our own industry and its workers.

30. Summer jobs are elminated, cutting West Virginia by $9,342,000 affecting 6,460 youths; dislocated worker training cut by $3,646,000 affecting 1,490 West Virginians; adult training dollars cut by $1,848,000 in WV affecting 690 adults; older American employment programs in WV cut by $330,000 affecting 80 senior citizens; safe and drug-free schools funding in WV cut by $1,812,000 affecting 52 out of 55 county programs; senior nutrition programs in WV cut by $189,000 affecting 122,900 seniors; Head Start is cut by $1,073,000 affecting 420 Head Start children (if not more), denies 6,850 disabled children SSI cash benefits in 2002 (55 percent of those now eligible) by cutting $195 million.

Mr. BORSKI. Mr. Chairman, I rise today to express my deepest opposition to H.R. 2491, the Republican Budget Reconciliation Act. This legislation robs retired and working Americans of their hard-earned benefits and pay in order to lavish huge tax breaks for the wealthiest Americans.

The majority's plan cuts $270 billion from Medicare and $170 billion from Medicaid over the next 7 years in order to pay for $245 billion in tax breaks for the wealthy.

In Pennsylvania, the second oldest State in the Nation, one out of six residents is a Medicare recipient and one out of seven is a Medicaid recipient. In the third congressional district, the 20th oldest district in the Nation, approximately 100,000 residents rely on Medicare. Not only will the senior citizens in my district suffer, but all citizens, our health care system and the entire Philadelphia economy will be endangered by these insidious cuts. As a result of the majority's plan to gut Medicare and Medicaid, an astounding $531 million in revenue will be withdrawn from the hospitals in the third congressional district over the next 7 years. Hospitals in Philadelphia will lose over two billion dollars, and across Pennsylvania, seven and a half billion dollars will no longer be available to protect the health of our citizens.

Let me give you an example of one particularly vulnerable hospital. At Episcopal Hospital in Philadelphia, 88 percent of the people who enter the hospital are Medicare or Medicaid beneficiaries. This puts Episcopal Hospital at the top of the critical list, a record of hospitals in danger of closing due to these cuts. Eleven hospitals in Philadelphia, including three in my district, are on that dreaded list. In Pennsylvania, a total of 54 of our 238 hospitals have the misfortune of making the list. If these cuts are approved, I don't know how Episcopal Hospital, or the other endangered hospitals, will survive.

The closing of these local hospitals would cause some 348,000 patients across Pennsylvania to lose access to vital health care services. Health care workers—as many as 40,000 in Pennsylvania, over 25,000 in Philadelphia and up to 6,000 in the third district alone, will be at risk of losing their jobs. This devastating job loss means pain for individuals, as well as ruinous economic consequences for their communities.

Will these cuts improve Medicare for senior citizens. The answer is a resounding, "no". Senior citizens will pay more for their health care, have less choice regarding their doctor, and receive a lower quality of care. Balance billing protection, which prohibits healthcare providers from charging seniors more than 15 percent above the Medicare reimbursement rate, will be eliminated. Seniors who enroll in HMO's because it has become financially impossible to remain with their family doctor and will have no protection against additional charges once they are locked into an HMO. That's the bad news. There is no good news in this Republican plan for Medicare.

But what this plan does to Medicaid is even worse. Everyone knows that Medicaid is primarily for those who are less fortunate. But what people across America don't realize is that Medicaid also pays for nursing home care of senior citizens. In Pennsylvania, 65 percent of all long-term care costs in nursing homes are paid for by Medicaid.

What happens to a senior citizen who needs to go into a nursing home? First, you learn that the cost of a modest nursing home averages about $4,000 a month. Then, you learn you must exhaust all your savings, which you have worked so hard to accumulate over your lifetime, to pay for nursing home care. Then, when your savings are gone, Medicaid provides the nursing home care and safety net you so desperately need.

Under this Republican plan, this critically needed safety net that Medicaid provides is gone.

The loss of the Medicaid safety net will harm not only seniors, but their families as well. Medicaid has always made sure not only that seniors would be cared for, but that their grown children, struggling to provide for their own families, would not be financially devastated by exorbitant nursing home costs. As a result of these cuts, this safety net for families is gone, too.

Certain laws that enable the Government to stop fraud, waste, and abuse are gone as well. For those who are still able to afford nursing home care, the guarantee that they will receive quality care is now gone, because the Republican plan eliminates standards for nursing homes, formulated in 1987, which protect nursing home residents from negligence and abuse.

In America, 40 million Americans, many of them working people, have no faith insurance. Our goal should be to help all people—especially our seniors, children, the disabled, and those who go to work each and every day—obtain health care coverage. Under the Republican plan, the only thing we are guaranteeing is that the number of uninsured Americans will grow by at least 8.8 million.

These exorbitant and heartless cuts are not designed to fix or save Medicare. They are being enacted in order to give $245 billion in tax breaks to the country's wealthiest individuals. Despite all the rhetoric from the majority, one fact is clear: the savings from Medicare will not go back into the Medicare trust fund. They will pay for tax breaks for the wealthy. Our senior citizens on fixed incomes cannot afford these increased costs. The Medicare system cannot afford these excessive cuts.

I have traveled my district and asked hundreds and hundreds of my constituents if they support $270 billion in Medicare cuts and $170 billion in Medicaid cuts in order to provide $245 billion in tax breaks for the wealthiest in our country. The answer is always the same—No.

Mr. Chairman, the Republican majority is not content with their attack on America's senior citizens. They have expanded their assault to include our Nation's hard-working families. The majority has proposed drastic cuts and allocation formula changes in the highly successful earned income tax [EITC] program. This program provides a refundable tax credit to lower income, working Americans in order to keep them off welfare and in the work force.

At a time when the real earnings of the American working class are sinking to historic lows, these EITC changes in the Republican budget reconciliation effectively raises taxes by $22 billion for more than 14 million hard-working families. In my congressional district alone, 21,000 individuals will be impacted by the cuts at a loss of over $31 million.

Under the measure, non-taxable Social Security benefits and retirement income would be counted for purposes of determining if someone is eligible for EITC, effectively limiting the possibility of a great number of American families from participation in the EITC program. In addition, this proposal phases out the earned income tax credit faster than under current law, so that certain families eligible under current law would be denied the credit because their income would be too high, while other families would receive a smaller credit than they would under current law. For example, a working family of four making approximately $27,000 a year will no longer be eligible for the EITC credit, effectively raising taxes on hard working families.

For two decades, the EITC program has enjoyed strong bipartisan support. It has been the most effective work-promoting program of the Federal Government. Although the Republicans praise the virtues of self-reliance, their actions in this bill will severely reduce work incentives for the segment of the work force that must struggle to maintain stable work and family lives.

Mr. Chairman, the Republican majority speaks about building a secure future for our children, yet their budget reconciliation proposal will slam the door of educational opportunity on young people across the country. This proposal unfairly targets middle-class American families by eliminating over $10.2 billion from valuable Federal student aid programs.

In this modern day, where an advanced educational degree is essential for success in the global marketplace, the Republican budget proposal would effectively take a college education out of reach for middle and working class families.

The majority's proposal would terminate the Federal direct student loan program and eliminate the provision of current law under which the Federal Government pays the interest costs of student loans during the first six months after graduation. As a result, the cost of a college education would rise by as much as $3,100 for undergraduate students and $9,400 for graduate students.

In addition, this proposal would increase the interest paid by parents on Parents' Loans for Undergraduate Students [PLUS] that they take out to help finance their children's education. In Pennsylvania's Third Congressional District alone, over 10,000 PLUS loan recipients would be forced into higher interest rates, while at the same time, the Republican proposal caps the amount which American families can borrow from the Federal Government to pay for the education of their children.

At a time when we should be placing great emphasis on the education of our children, who are our Nation's future, the Republican budget reconciliation will make it harder for American children to succeed in the global marketplace.

Mr. Chairman, we all want to balance the budget. But there is a right way to do it and a wrong way to do it. The Republican reconciliation bill is the wrong way to do it. The Republican majority is inflicting this pain on the American people not just to balance the budget, but also to allow them to enact the crown jewel of their Contract With America's wealthy and corporate interests—tax breaks for the wealthy.

The majority speaks of family values, but, it is clear that the only families the majority really values are wealthiest ones. Most American families—those earning under $50,000 a year—will lose $648 or more under the GOP plan. Meanwhile the wealthiest American families—who earning over $350,000 a year—will gain over $14,0000 under this plan.

Mr. Chairman, where I come from in Philadelphia, anybody earning $350,000 a year is a very wealthy person. They are in the upper class, not the middle class. And they do not need a huge tax break.

And Mr. Chairman, in Philadelphia, where the large majority of the people are in the hard-working middle class, struggling to make ends meet, the last thing they need is to see their taxes increase in order to benefit the wealthy. What the workers and families of my district need is fairness and equity and compassion—not more taxes to finance tax cuts for the rich, and not devastating cuts in education and Medicare and Medicaid.

I will vote against this mean-spirited legislation and I urge my colleagues to do the same.

Mr. QUINN. Mr. Chairman, as a leader in the movement to eliminate wasteful government spending, I rise today in support of H.R. 2491, the Seven Year Balanced Budget Reconciliation Act.

This measure will achieve the first balanced budget in more than a quarter of a century, and is the right thing for America's families. This is a historic vote and one that will be remembered as the first step to ensuring the future of our children and our grandchildren.

I promised in my first campaign more than 3 years ago to fight for reform and to balance the budget. This bill goes a long way in accomplishing both those goals. We have reached a crisis point. The current Federal debt is approximately $4.9 trillion, amounting to $19,000 for every man, woman, and child in America.

This bill means real money for America's families. It allows the working men and women of this country to keep more of their hard earned money in their own pocket, instead of sending more and more of it to Washington.

It simply boils down to doing the right thing for America and its families. By balancing the budget, we'll go a long way toward ensuring that the American dream—the dream that our children will be better off than we are—will continue for generations to come.

The Seven Year Balanced Budget Reconciliation Act overhauls nearly every major Federal spending program except Social Security. The measure also includes a plan to preserve, protect and strengthen the Medicare Program which still allows Medicare spending to increase for every senior, every year.

The bill also includes genuine welfare reform which emphasizes work, families, and hope for the future. Under welfare reform, States are given the authority to punish food stamp traffickers. We finally will be able to protect our innocent children from criminal activity that threatens their health and well-being.

As a strong advocate for reforming the Medicaid Program to allow States like New York to reinvent Medicaid, with other members of the New York delegation, I was able to obtain significant improvements for the State. In a move that will literally mean billions of dollars for New York, congressional leaders agreed to change the provision and gradually reduce the rates of growth so that the State has more time to reform its system. An additional $5.8 billion will be made available for Northeastern States, particularly New York and New Jersey.

Although I see this improvement as a step in the right direction, I'll be working for additional improvements in the Medicaid formula.

We cannot turn our backs on the future to continue the failed policies of the past. The most significant gift we can leave our children is a legacy of sound government.

Mr. MONTGOMERY. I want to commend the Ways and Means Committee for reporting legislation which ensures that employers who reemploy veterans after military service are not penalized for restoring their pension benefits. Last year, the Congress enacted the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994 [USERRA]. This law guarantees that reservists and other persons who go on active military duty will be restored to their civilian jobs without any loss of seniority.

This law originated in 1940 and has been the subject of a number of Supreme Court decisions. The Supreme Court has held that one of the most important benefits of seniority, the right to a pension, is a protected benefit to which a veteran is entitled.

In discussions with various pension experts last year, it was pointed out that technical amendments to the Internal Revenue Code were needed. The existing law limits employer and employee contributions to tax-favored pension plans as well as benefits payable to reemployed veterans. Other requirements for which there is no special provision for contributions with respect to a reemployed veteran include the limit on deductible contributions and the qualified plan non-discrimination, coverage, minimum participation, and top-heavy rules.

Earlier this year, I introduced legislation, H.R. 1469, to allow employers who reemploy veterans to comply with both USERRA and the Internal Revenue Code when they endeavor to restore veterans' pension benefits as required by USERRA. The bill would provide assurance to employers that such contributions would not in any way disqualify a tax-favored plan. I am pleased that the bill before the House today includes the text of H.R. 1469.

It is very important to note that the legislation before the House today would allow employers and pension plans to make contributions for any veteran—World War II, Korea, Vietnam, as well as Persian Gulf. In essence, this provision corrects an oversight contained in the 1974 ERISA legislation which failed to take into consideration the rights of reemployed veterans, and is a good measure for employers as well as veterans.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the Republican budget reconciliation bill. The bill makes unprecedented cuts in the Federal Government's investment in education, health care, and job training in order to give wealthy Americans a very big tax break.

Over the next 7 years, the Republicans will cut funding for education programs by 33 percent. That means 2,622 students in Massachusetts will be denied Head Start, 16,200 Massachusetts students won't get remedial education for basic and advanced skills, 98,900 schoolchildren in Massachusetts will not benefit from Goals 2000, and 12,100 students in Massachusetts won't have summer jobs.

The Republicans want to cut funding for the Safe and Drug Free Schools Program. This reduction will cripple our efforts to curtail drug use and keep drug related violence out of our schools. Nearly every school district in my home State of Massachusetts reaps the benefits of this program.

Despite several decades of Federal investment in elementary and secondary education, many classes are still overcrowded, many school buildings are deteriorating, and many classrooms don't have books, pens, and paper. Clearly, this is not the time to cut Federal funding for education.

In terms of higher education, the Republicans propose to eliminate and scale back many Federal financial aid programs. Many parents in my congressional district work very hard to send their children to college in the hopes of attaining a better life. Without Federal financial assistance, the cost of higher education would be prohibitive. Do my colleagues understand that the cutbacks in the Republican budget will betray the hopes and dreams of millions of high school seniors?

I cannot in good faith vote for a bill that cuts funding for education in order to pay for a very big tax break for the wealthy. These cuts are short sighted and will lead to embarrassingly low educational standards, higher property taxes, and many social problems caused by a poorly educated society.

Mr. BUYER. Mr. Chairman, we have kept our commitment to the American people and brought an end to the Washington tax and spend practices of old—which have saddled our Nation with almost $5 trillion of debt.

The question about balancing the budget is not simply about financial practices, but rather a question of fiscal morality. We cannot continue to spend money that we simply do not have and pass the bill on to our children.

On October 20, 1995, the Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, Alan Greenspan, again called for Congress to balance the Federal budget. He said doing so would have a positive effect on America's economy. A balanced budget will mean lower mortgage rates and lower interest rates. It means lifting our children from their growing share of the national debt. In fact, a child born today will pay and average of $187,000 in interest alone on the debt.

We have put America on the path to a balanced budget by eliminating wasteful and bureaucratic programs. We have returned programs back to the State and local governments where they can be run more efficiently and effectively.

The debate is clear: Those who think wasteful Government programs should be cut or eliminated, inefficient programs reformed, and Americans given tax relief, will vote for this balanced budget. Those do not, will vote against this historic balanced budget plan and continue the status quo.

Ms. KAPTUR. Mr. Chairman, I rise today in strong opposition to the Gingrich budget reconciliation bill.

First, let me state at the outset that I support a balanced budget. I voted in favor of the balanced budget amendment that passed in January 1995. I am committed to putting our fiscal house in order by supporting further cuts in spending to reduce the deficit. However, I cannot in good conscience support this budget bill, which would unfairly place the burden of deficit reduction on the backs of our Nation's seniors, children, disabled citizens, students, veterans, and working families, in order to provide a tax cut to the privileged few.

Overall, middle-income working families earning less than $50,000 will lose $648 a year as a result of the tax provisions and cuts in programs under this bill, while wealthy families will receive an average tax cut of $14,050 per household. This bill imposes a $23.3 billion tax increase on 14.2 million working families with incomes under $28,553. Two-thirds of the $900 billion in program reductions in H.R. 2491 come from programs that are absolutely vital to the health, welfare, and safety of working men and women, their children and families—$270 billion from Medicare; $170 billion from Medicaid; and $200 billion in education, health and safety, and job training programs.

MEDICARE

Medicare Program, which provides medical insurance to more than 36 million older and disabled people in our country. This body should have held comprehensive hearings on how best to structure the most extensive changes to the program since its inception 30 years ago—but did that happen? No, it did not. The legislative process used to move the Republican Medicare plan is a disgrace. Their plan was introduced on September 29, and one day of hearings was held before it was even distributed to Members. The House then left town for a 10-day recess. Upon returning on October 9, around-the-clock markups in two committees proceeded quickly. The very people who will be affected the most by these cuts, our Nation's seniors, were subject to arrest and silenced as the Republican leadership rushed their plan through the committees. We have spent 48 days holding hearings on Whitewater, Ruby Ridge, and Waco; why couldn't we manage to hold more than 1 day of hearings on Medicare?

The trustees of the Medicare Program signalled earlier this year that reform is needed. I agree. There is a short-term financing crisis in the part A hospital insurance trust fund and a long-term financing challenge that needs much more careful consideration. But, for starters, the Republican proposal makes three times more in cuts than are immediately necessary to make Medicare solvent in the short term. Thus, premiums will increase by about $400 per senior. One-third of all senior citizens in our Nation basically live on Social Security. If costs go up, they will have to choose between health care and other essentials. Seniors will have to give up their own doctors as they are herded into HMO's with which seniors have little experience, as only 9 percent of current seniors participate in HMO's. Seniors will be kicked out of nursing homes, or their families will be bankrupted paying their $40,000 a year tab, due to deep cuts in long-term care.

The Gingrich plan makes Medicare solvent only until 2006—the same as Democratic plans that cut only one-third as much. This much is clear: The Republicans had to slash Medicare to pay for their $245 billion tax break for the privileged few—but not a single penny goes to shore up the Medicare trust fund.

One of the most unsettling aspects of the Republican plan is its utter failure to address waste, fraud, and abuse. Their plan will make it easier for unscrupulous medical practitioners and insurance providers to beat the system, and harder for prosecutors to convict them. It will weaken existing laws that punish fraud and abuse, and raise the burden of proof that the Government would have to meet in order to prove such cases. This bill would weaken the law that currently requires providers to ensure that the claims they submit to Medicare are true and accurate. It also creates new exemptions for those who offer incentives to physicians for patient referrals. Moreover, this bill would mean an even larger decrease in the already-insufficient number of fraud inspectors at the Department of Health and Human Services, at a time when over half the States in our country have no fraud inspectors whatsoever, and 11 States have only two.

I recently met in my district with a group of citizens representing health professions, business, labor, retirees, insurance, and hospitals. The consensus of that group was that these cuts are draconian. They told me that any changes in Medicare that result in savings should be used for the preservation of Medicare, not tax cuts for the privileged few. They said we must fight waste, fraud, and abuse, as well as the spiraling costs of prescription drugs, labs, dental care, and durable medical equipment. Based on their assessment, it is clear that the Republican plan does not address the needed reforms in Medicare.

MEDICAID

The Republican Medicaid plan is shocking. Not only does their plan slash $170 billion from the program, eliminating health care coverage for millions of children, elderly, and disabled people in our Nation. But it also completely abolishes national standards for nursing homes and institutions caring for the mentally retarded. The Republicans want to leave this matter up to the States. The majority party must have forgotten why these Federal standards were created in the first place. It was because the States had failed so miserably in maintaining decent conditions and health care in many of these facilities. With their plan, we are faced with the prospect of returning to the days when patients' basic nutritional and medical needs were not met and when caregivers regularly abused patients with inhumane practices, such as tying them down or drugging them up. Their plan also eliminates spousal asset protection in the law, which means that States could require spouses of nursing home residents to sell their homes and cars to pay for their spouses' care. This plan will force spouses into poverty. It will also allow States to require adult children to pay for their parents' nursing home bills, forcing families to make the impossible choice of nursing home care for their parents or education for their children.

VETERANS

This bill would be a major blow to America's veterans and their families. It would force veterans to pay more for health care benefits through the year 2002, by raising prescription copayments, tightening collection procedures, and increasing per-diem charges for nursing home and hospital care. And the Republican bill would limit to $90 per month need-based pension benefits paid to nonservice connected veterans and surviving spouses who do not have children and who are in Medicaid-participating nursing homes.

EARNED INCOME TAX CREDIT

I strongly oppose the provision in this bill that would raise taxes on working Americans earning under $50,000 a year by cutting the earned income tax credit by $20 billion. Millions of working Americans who are playing by the rules and paying taxes, but still earning so little that they and their families struggle to make ends meet will be hurt by this legislation. The ironic tragedy is that their sacrifice will go to pay for tax benefits for those who do not need them, to the wealthiest corporations and individuals of our Nation. It is the height of dishonesty to propose a $20 billion cut in a program intended to reward honest labor—to make sure that work is more profitable than welfare—and then to hand the benefits of those cuts to multinational corporations and the privileged few.

EDUCATION

The Republican bill jeopardizes the ability of young people in our country to invest in their own future. This bill would repeal the direct student loan program, and would cut other student loan programs—which are so vital to the educations of children from working families—by a total of $10.2 billion, in order to finance tax breaks for the well-to-do. The bill eliminates the interest-free grace period for new student loans, increases loan origination fees, adds new rebate fees, reduces the loan guarantee to 95 percent, and increases the interest rate for PLUS loans. Their bill also eliminates the direct student loan program at the request of the banking industry. This program is popular with students because they get their money faster, and with college administrators because the loans are simpler to administer. In short, this program works. Banks, however, preferring the profits and low risk of the guaranteed student loan program, demanded that the competition from the direct student loan program be eliminated. The Republicans have delivered a handout to the private financial institutions at the expense of students and colleges across our Nation.

CORPORATE WELFARE

Tempted by the cover that this massive, multibillion-dollar bill gives them, the Republicans have added special interest corporate welfare provisions that would have little chance of becoming law if considered on their own, and have missed an opportunity to end $800 billion in already-existing corporate welfare programs. In fact, this reconciliation package doles out more new corporate welfare than it cuts.

The repeal of the alternative minimum tax.—One new form of corporate welfare that can be found in this bill is the repeal of the alternative minimum tax, created in 1986 at the behest of President Reagan when it was learned that about half of large profitable United States and foreign companies avoided paying any taxes through loopholes. The Republican plan to repeal the alternative minimum tax would add an estimated $36 billion to the budget deficit, according to the GOP's own estimates.

Currently, the alternative minimum tax levies a 20-percent tax on profits, before adjusting for certain tax preferences, to help ensure that all businesses and individuals earning substantial profits cannot entirely avoid paying taxes by using various deductions, exemptions, and exclusions. If the alternative minimum tax is repealed, it is estimated that 76,000 profitable corporations would pay no taxes by the year 2005.

Corporate raids on workers' pension funds.—Perhaps the most egregious example of the Republicans putting corporate interests ahead of the interests of workers and taxpayers is the measure in this bill that would allow corporations to raid billions of dollars from workers' pension funds, jeopardizing the futures of millions of Americans. This legislation would remove steep tax penalties that currently discourage most companies from draining employees' pensions. Under this measure, businesses with pension plans holding at least 125 percent of the assets needed to meet anticipated pension liabilities would be able to drain their employees' pensions—for any purpose, for mergers or even to pay for perks like executive limousines—without even giving workers advance notice.

The new plan would undo most of those restrictions—which were passed because in the 1980's, about $20 billion was drained from private pensions as corporate executives tapped them to finance takeovers and leveraged buyouts. Congress put a stop to such raiding in the late 1980's with a 50-percent tax penalty and other restrictions.

At a time when our Nation's private pension plans are underfunded by $71 billion, we simply cannot afford to allow big business to raid the pension funds of working Americans, jeopardizing their retirement security and those of their families. Who will be left holding the bag when these pensions go belly-up? American taxpayers.

WHAT SHOULD BE DONE

I support tax fairness and a balanced budget. In fact, I wanted to support the alternative budget proposed by a coalition of my colleagues. However, three sections need further refinement. First, we need an entirely reformed medicare financing system. We do not need to force all these savings from seniors. Second, this alternative does not do nearly enough to close loopholes for corporate welfare. Third, the changes to Consumer Price Index need further study as to their effect nationwide and on seniors in my District and State.

Furthermore, any reasonable budget bill should begin with closing existing tax loopholes that allow billionaires to avoid paying a significant portion of their U.S. tax liability by renouncing their U.S. citizenship and relocating to foreign countries. This is a loophole that benefits only about two dozen people a year; however, the Joint Committee on Taxation estimates that ending this practice could provide our country with an additional $3.6 billion over 10 years—which I believe should be applied toward deficit reduction. Furthermore, if the majority is serious about balancing the budget, then it should get serious about weaning big businesses off corporate welfare and tax subsidies financed on the backs of American families. We should dedicate all of the spending cuts we have been making toward deficit reduction, not tax breaks for the well-to-do.

I cannot support the mean-spirited cuts in this budget bill that would realize the most vulnerable in our society—like the elimination of low income energy assistance—while continuing tax policies that encourage multinational companies to move overseas and provide foreign companies doing business in the United States with tax breaks. Let us eliminate the transfer pricing loophole that allows foreign-owned corporations to move profits earned in America overseas to avoid U.S. taxes. That could save up to $143.5 billion.

Let us eliminate the foreign tax credit. Why should corporations get a credit for taxes paid to a foreign country but only a tax deduction for State taxes paid in the United States? Why not save $82.5 billion and put our States on an even playing field with foreign countries?

Let us repeal the U.S. territorial possessions tax credit that entices our companies offshore. That would save $19.7 billion. With that we could avoid Gingrich's tax increases on working families through cuts in the earned income tax credit.

Above all, let us pass comprehensive campaign finance reform, so that America will know that its elected representatives are acting in the best interests of American citizens rather than at the beck and call of multinational corporations, megabanks, and special interests. To that end, I have introduced House Joint Resolution 114, a constitutional amendment that would, for the first time, allow Congress and the States to enact reasonable limits on Campaign spending in Federal, State and local elections, ending the current practice of allowing elections to be bought by the highest bidder. I have also introduced H.R. 2499, the Ethics in Foreign Lobbying Act of 1995, which would ban campaign contributions by foreign corporations so that they could no longer purchase favorable influence with legislators, selling the future of America's working families overseas. In addition, I have introduced H.R. 2498, the FACE-IT bill, which would close the revolving door that currently exists between government service and foreign lobbying.

Let us achieve a balanced budget by having everyone pull their load in ways that strengthen America and our ability to create good jobs. Let us secure a better economic future for working Americans, not put an even heavier burden on the middle class. NEWT GINGRICH and his allies are looking for cuts in all the wrong places.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong support of this package.

Balancing the Federal budget is critical to the future of our country. As a direct result of decades of deficit spending, each child born in America today will be burdened with a tax bill for $187,000, just to pay for the interest on the national debt over his or her lifetime.

By leading directly to lower interest rates, this package will lower housing costs, reduce car expenses, lower college costs, cut taxes, and provide more jobs for all Americans. For those of us who represent rural communities, lower interest rates will save family farmers nearly $15 billion during the next 7 years by reducing farm debt.

Mr. Speaker, I ran and was elected on a pledge to balance the budget in 7 years. That was my promise to the people of Washington State's Fourth Congressional District. I am proud to cast my vote today to keep our commitment to the American people and urge each of my colleagues to do the same.

Mr. BALLENGER. Mr. Chairman, this week, I joined my Republican colleagues in taking another step toward delivering a balanced budget and fulfilling yet another campaign promise. This week's action centered on the Seven Year Balanced Budget Reconciliation Act of 1995, which contains real world solutions toward cutting overall Federal spending, providing much needed tax relief for all Americans, and of course setting the pace for a balanced budget within 7 years.

As you know, Mr. Chairman, budget reconciliation is the final part of the budget process where all spending recommendations made by the various House committees are combined into one giant budget proposal compiled by the House Budget Committee. This legislation is designed to meet the spending blueprint laid out in the budget resolution we passed in May. The budget resolution is a viable 7 year plan that will culminate with a balanced Federal budget by the year 2002.

The overall spending cap for fiscal year 1996 was set at $1.59 trillion. Although this cap is the bottom line, specific cuts in Federal programs were based on the recommendations made by the individual House committees, with the final decisions being made by the House Budget Committee.

Mr. Chairman, preparing a budget this size is a monumental task, certainly more complicated than almost anything I have done since coming to Washington. But, let me say that this budget is the right remedy for what ills our Nation. The budget crisis we have endured for so long is the result of out-of-control Federal spending, bloated Federal programs, and tax increases created by the Democrat leadership. These irresponsible practices have left us nearly $5 trillion in debt, or more than $19,000 for every man, woman, and child in America. But, since January of this year, Republican Members of the House have been bound and determined to correct the poor spending habits of the Government and get us out of debt.

The unmistakable message of last year's election was that it was time to reduce the size, scope, and cost of the Federal Government. We heard the message. This year's budget will produce overall savings of nearly $1 trillion over 7 years. These savings will come by eliminating hundreds of Federal programs, closing or combining several Federal agencies, and eliminating many no longer needed commissions. Under our proposal foreign aid alone will be cut by $29 billion over 7 years. The current welfare system will be reformed, producing many more savings, specifically by providing block grants to the States. However, no cuts in Social Security appear in this bill and Medicare will only be preserved, protected, and strengthened by this legislation.

Mr. Chairman, balancing the budget is critical to the economic future of this Nation. But, listening to the Democrats may leave Americans concerned how this balanced budget will affect them. Let me put it this way. If a man or woman plans to purchase a house, a balanced budget will provide him or her with lower interest rates. In most cases, these interest rates will be 2.7 percent lower than today's rates. That means, taking out a 30 year mortgage of $50,000 at an annual rate of 8.23 percent, will save more than $32,000 over the life of the loan. Likewise, a loan of $100,000 will allow a borrower to save almost $65,000 over 30 years. The money saved could be better used for college, retirement, a new car or home improvements. Interest rates on car loans will see similar reductions.

Under this bill American students will find it easier to get education loans and even more importantly make them easier to pay off. A balanced budget would reduce interest rates on student loans by 2 percent. A college student who now borrows $11,000 at the new 8 percent annual interest rate will save $2,200 over the life of the loan. Students can apply these savings toward another semester of school or for other future expenses.

By balancing the budget and lowering the interest rates, businesses will be more likely to invest in new equipment, new factories, and office buildings. Within 10 years, the more attractive business climate will help to create 6.1

million new jobs over 10 years. People from all educational and skill levels will be given new economic opportunities, benefiting the Nation overall. Lower interest rates will also help our farmers retire the farm debt. By decreasing the farm loan interest rate by 1.5 percent, farmers will save $15 billion over 7 years, allowing a faster debt retirement.

Mr. Speaker, last week President Clinton admitted that he raised taxes too much in 1993. That shouldn't be news to anyone. High taxes have left the American taxpayer with fewer dollars to buy a house, save for college, build a nest egg for retirement, or start a new business. Critics of our reconciliation bill are saying that the tax cuts contained in our bill will only benefit the wealthiest Americans. How untrue this is. Mr. Speaker, the reconciliation bill calls for tax cuts for all Americans, from all income levels, including individuals, couples, and families with children. The tax cuts we Republicans have made will not benefit one group at the expense of another. All Americans will benefit, especially the middle class. Families with children will receive a $500 per child tax credit and families who care for an elderly relative at home will also receive a tax credit, just like we promised in the Contract With America.

Mr. Speaker, the Democrats have claimed that this bill will hurt our senior citizens, but the truth is the Clinton tax hike of 1993 raised taxes on Social Security benefits by 70 percent for seniors making as low as $34,000 a year. Our reconciliation bill repeals this unfair tax by reducing this tax liability for seniors by an average of $662 a year by the year 2000. In addition, reductions in the capital gains tax will further benefit seniors when they begin to cash in their nest eggs during their retirement years.

Tax cuts for American businesses will mean much needed upgrades in equipment and other new investments leading to unprecedented growth. Business expansion will lead to new jobs and economic opportunities and increased wages for millions of Americans. New businesses will spring up all around the country, and our now stagnating economy will once again start to move in many new and prosperous directions.

I would like to add a few comments about two labor provisions: The Davis-Bacon Act and the Service Contract Act.

The Davis-Bacon Act has long outlived any usefulness that it may have had, yet it remains law, adding billions to Federal construction costs and wasting precious taxpayer dollars. The Congressional Budget Office estimates that repeal would save taxpayers $2.7 billion over 5 years. For example, electricians in Chicago who are working on a Davis-Bacon project are paid about $31.32 an hour compared with electricians on a private contract who are paid an average of $18.72 an hour. Companies can't stay in business paying $12 an hour more than the market demands, and neither can government

An investigative report by the Oklahoma Department of Labor uncovered fraud, abuse, fictitious employees, and ghost projects. The Oklahoma report uncovers a systematic problem with the Davis-Bacon Act which must be addressed. As a recent TV report entitled "The Fleecing of America," there is "growing concern that the system of setting wages on U.S. government construction projects is so flawed that it's fleecing taxpayers of hundreds of millions of dollars." Scandals like this only serve to erode public confidence in the Government procurement process.

Much to my regret and disappointment, the reconciliation bill before us today fails to repeal the Davis-Bacon Act. However, let me assure the taxpayers that it is only a matter of time before this special interest subsidy that has been fleecing them for years is removed from the books.

The reconciliation bill does include repeal of the Service Contract Act. The Service Contract Act, like the Davis-Bacon Act, inflates the cost of services procured by the Federal Government. The Service Contract Act requirements add millions per year to the cost of Federal contracts for services such as computer programming, building security, travel services, or university research. Although it began modestly, today the Service Contract Act impacts a broad spectrum of businesses and employees ranging far beyond the original intent of the law. Repeal of the Service Contract Act saves over $3 billion over 5 years according to the Congressional Budget Office.

Mr. Speaker, It is not so difficult to see how important this legislation really is to our Nation and to future generations. I know that opponents of this bill have been telling the American public how Republicans are taking away their future, but, let me assure you, this historic piece of legislation only cuts out the fat of Government, reduces unneeded spending, and sets the pace for reaching a balanced budget. Passage of this bill only means a better Government and a brighter future for all Americans.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to revise and extend my remarks.

Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong support of H.R. 2491, which will make the changes necessary to balance the Federal budget by the year 2002.

I believe the rising national debt and interest on that debt have created a crisis which Congress must face now.

I supported the balanced budget amendment because it is truly a matter of saving our country from financial ruin.

Our children and grandchildren will either inherit a declining standard of living caused by congressional irresponsibility—or gain freedom from the financial excesses of current generations.

Mr. Chairman, America is culminating a 5-year commemoration of the 50th anniversary of World War II.

The World War II generation's legacy to our Nation includes victory over tyranny, winning the cold war to make the world safe for democracy, and creation of world's greatest industrial power.

As a World War II veteran, I cannot imagine my generation allowing history to also record that we mortgaged our grandchildren's future for the sake of our own comfort.

Mr. Chairman, as chairman of the House Committee on Veterans' Affairs, I want to assure Members on both sides of the aisle that H.R. 2491 balances the Federal budget over 7 years, while maintaining our Nation's commitment to veterans of military service.

As in previous years, veterans' programs have been included in the reconciliation process.

The VA Committee met its targets on a bipartisan basis, without unfairly singling out veterans for any new cuts.

In fact, we substantially met the target by taking provisions from the 1993 reconciliation bill and extending them through the year 2002.

President Clinton signed the 1993 bill and this year included many of those provisions in his fiscal year 1996 budget proposal.

Members who are overly concerned with the veterans' portion of this bill should note that the Clinton 10-year plan would take nearly three times as much from veterans' programs, without balancing the budget.

The Clinton plan cuts $17.1 billion from veterans over 10 years, H.R. 2491 only requires savings of $6.4 billion over 7 years.

According to the House Budget Committee, veterans' spending increases from $36.9 billion in fiscal year 1996 to $41.8 billion in fiscal year 2002.

During the next 7 years, more than $275 billion will be spent on veterans' programs—$40 billion more than during the previous 7 years.

This increased spending will occur during a time when the veteran population will be declining by 6 million or 23 percent between 1995 and the year 2010.

Yet top VA officials and numerous veterans' publications have scared veterans with dire predictions about attacks on veterans' benefits and breaking our Contract With America's veterans.

Those predictions have claimed that Congress would either means test all service-connected benefits, or cut compensation for disabled veterans, or tax veterans' benefits.

Mr. Chairman, this bill does none of those things.

It is hypocritical for administration officials to demagogue the Republican budget when their own budget is worse.

The administration has predicted numerous VA hospital closures resulting from the Republican budget proposal.

However, the GAO has stated that during the next 5 years: "Under the President's budget proposal, total VA medical care funding would be $336 million less than the amount provided in the House proposal."

In fact, the House fiscal year 1996 VA/HUD appropriation bill contains a $563 million increase over the fiscal year 1995 level for VA medical care.

Additionally, H.R. 2491 includes provisions to reform VA health care eligibility.

The bill would move VA from an expensive inpatient model of health care to a modern ambulatory and primary care approach.

It greatly improve VA's ability to provide better quality and access to care within available resources.

These provisions are strongly supported by the major veterans organizations.

Mr. Chairman, without a balanced Federal budget, rising interest payments on the debt will soon crowd out ability to continue providing for our Nations' veterans and other high priority programs as well.

Mr. Chairman, I want to commend the chairman of the Budget Committee, Mr. KASICH, for all his work on this bill.

Contrary to those who would demagogue these matters, Mr. KASICH and the members of the Budget Committee have acknowledged the high priority Congress traditionally gives to veterans' programs.

The Budget Committee set a deficit reduction target that the Veterans' Affairs Committee could reasonably reach.

We have done so, and the Budget Committee members, who have had to make extremely difficult decisions about Federal spending priorities, should be given credit for protecting veterans' programs while achieving a balanced budget.

Mr. Chairman, I urge all my colleagues to vote "yes" on the bill.

Thank you Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GONZALEZ. Mr. Chairman, I am compelled to comment on some of the provisions in this ill-conceived bill that embody recommendations of the Committee on Banking and Financial Services.

THE COMMUNITY REINVESTMENT ACT

The bill before us contains a gratuitous and needless attack on the Community Reinvestment Act [CRA]. Without directly repealing the CRA, the bill nonetheless wipes out the CRA. It is clear that the less than $30 million in savings achieved by these amendments to the CRA is not the reason they were contained in the Banking Committee's recommendations—in fact, the committee exceeded its budget targets by billions of dollars—the amendments' inclusion in the reconciliation package was part of a failed scheme by the chairman to free another, wholly unrelated piece of legislation from these gutting amendments because they were sure to incur a veto.

The CRA is a law that simply requires regulated financial institutions to help meet the credit needs of the communities they are chartered to serve, including low and moderate income communities. It is reported that this law has resulted in the infusion of $60 billion into credit-starved communities across our nation.

As a result of complaints from the banking industry about the burden of demonstrating compliance with the CRA, President Clinton ordered the regulators to revise CRA regulations, with an emphasis on performance over paperwork. After a nearly 2 year effort by the Federal Reserve Board, the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, and the Office of Thrift Supervision the regulations have been issued and have just gone into effect. Each of these regulators have objected to the committee's action to destroy the CRA. Clearly, we should give these regulations a chance to work before we reevaluate the CRA.

Most importantly, at a time when this Congress is slashing the funding that has assisted low and moderate income Americans, it is critical that we save a tried-and-true program that relies on private dollars. To do otherwise would be tragic for communities across this country. Moreover, to dismantle the CRA under the ruse that it is a necessary measure to save money is simply shameful.

HOUSING PROVISIONS

The lion's share of the committee's savings comes from affordable housing programs in the Republican majority's relentless political pursuit of savings at the expense of our nation's low income families.

The bill before us gratuitously wipes out the Resolution Trust Corporation [RTC] Affordable Housing Programs for a paltry $31 million savings—again a savings that completely unnecessary to meet the targets of the Banking Committee for budget reconciliation. This home ownership program has been a real success story for the RTC. More than 104,000 dwellings have been sold at a value of $1.5 billion under the RTC Affordable Housing Program, providing shelter to hard-pressed working families of modest means. Although the RTC shuts down after this year, there will still be property to dispose of after December 31. Once the RTC is shut down, these properties and the Affordable Housing Program will be transferred to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. To wipe out this program will have serious consequences for low income family home ownership opportunities far beyond the meager savings gained, particularly as direct Federal spending for affordable housing dwindles.

The bill also will permit HUD to sell all HUD owned multifamily property without providing tenant protections or making any effort to preserve affordable housing. Last year we made significant reforms to the multifamily property disposition program with an overwhelming bipartisan vote of 413 to 9. The reforms balanced the need to preserve affordable rental housing, protect low income tenants from displacement and outlandish rent increases, accelerate the property disposition process and save the Federal Government as much as $475 million. Nothing has changed since then. The committee's contribution to reconciliation saves more than enough money without including the virtual repeal of the Multifamily Property Disposition Reform Act and without harming low income families who will surely be displaced with no assistance and no place to go.

Finally, the bill requires section 502 single family rural housing borrowers to repay Federal subsidies at the time a home is refinanced. While I concur with the requirement that borrowers repay Federal assistance at the time of sale, I believe that the provision in the committee recommendations provides the best evidence yet that we are engaging in policy by the numbers. Simply to raise $39 million from low income families, this bill would discourage families from graduating from a Federal loan program. A low income family which has scrimped and saved to purchase a home in our rural communities may be forced to pay not only the principal and interest on a refinanced first mortgage, but would have to pay at least interest on the interest credit subsidy that would now be recaptured upon refinancing.

Like so much else about this bill, much of what is in the Banking title makes no sense and is indefensible from any reasonable point of view.

Mr. FRANKS of Connecticut. Mr. Chairman, today is an historic day which marks the end of the tax-and-spend ways of the Democrats and heralds in the pro-taxpayer ways of the Republicans.

The Seven Year Budget Reconciliation Act provides less spending, less taxation, and less government. It provides real welfare reform and it protects our Medicare system for today's and tomorrow's seniors. It strives to better manage our Medicaid system and it works toward strengthening families.

A balanced budget will lower the interest rates for all Americans by at least two percentage points and will thus allow all Americans to improve their standard of living.

Mr. Chairman, I am pleased to rise in support of a balanced budget plan, in support of fiscal responsibility, in support of tough choices, in support of keeping promises, and in support of H.R. 2491.

For years, Mr. Chairman, there has been something of a racket going on for some elected officials in the Nation's Capital to play games with the budget process. These officials would tell their constituents that they were for a balanced Federal budget but then they would turn around and vote against resolutions which would provide a constitutionally-imposed balanced budget.

When asked why they took such action, they would reply that they did not need a balanced budget amendment to make the tough choices.

However, when the time arrived to make those tough decisions, the same people would balk on their previously stated commitments. Rather than support efforts to reduced spending and taxation, past members of Congress have let our Federal deficit balloon up to a point to where a person could stamp the word "GOODYEAR" on it. Rather than support fiscal austerity, many of my colleagues have opted to promote initiatives which would saddle a newborn infant, circa 1995, with $187,000 in taxes to pay the interest on the national debt. Mr. Chairman, the way the Congress goes about its fiscal business must change.

Mr. Chairman, make no mistake—H.R. 2491 provides the innovative harbinger of change in American government that many citizens have been clamoring for years.

This reconciliation bill will reform Medicare to ensure its solvency well into the 21st century and give our parents the enhanced opportunity of health care and insurance choices they deserve.

H.R. 2491 will also provide Americans with much-needed tax relief and reform. This bill will reduce taxes by $245 billion over the next 7 years—a figure which would include a reduction in the capital gains tax, a $500-per-child tax credit and a repeal of President Clinton's confiscatory tax increase of 1993 while closing over $30 billion in corporate tax loopholes.

We will change our welfare system to ensure that no more of our children are forced to grow up in wretched squalor of the welfare state of 1995 America while providing help to the States to implement their own health care assistance program. Candidate Bill Clinton promised to "end welfare as we know it" in 1992, the Republicans are delivering on that promise.

We will also abolish, privatize or sell wasteful agencies and bureaucracies which have acted like a fiscal albatross around the neck of American taxpayer of the past two decades.

Will this reconciliation plan be totally painless? No, in fact there will be meritorious programs which will certainly be effected by this reconciliation bill. However, we have reached a point in our history where we need to show great care in our budget and fiscal priorities. We need to ask ourselves "Do we need that agency or program or is there a better way?" And, Mr. Chairman, that is the point of H.R. 2491. A vote for this bill is a vote to guarantee a future in which our children do not have to live under an inherited mountain of debt or within a governmental system which deems itself more important then the people it is supposed to serve. A vote for H.R. 2491 is a vote to make the hard choices and to find a better way for our children.

I consider this an extremely positive action which will benefit all constituents in my district as well as all Americans.

I encourage my colleagues to vote for H.R. 2491.

Mr. ALLARD. Mr. Chairman, today I am introducing legislation designed to reduce the regulatory burden on America's farmers and ranchers. This Congress has for too long cut commodity programs while not providing any regulatory relief. This year agriculture is once again taking spending reductions, but for a good purpose—balancing the budget and reducing the tax burden on rural America. But this year we are going to provide relief from rules regulations, and mandates that have grown while Government benefits have shrunk.

This legislation will continue to protect the environment, but will provide the necessary flexibility to meet environmental goals. This legislation will not rely upon one size fits all mandates that stifle a producers ability to wisely use the land to earn a living.

Specifically, in this legislation we will reform the current highly erodible land provisions created in the 1985 Food Security Act. While these provisions were well intended they have not manifested themselves in a farmer friendly manner. All of us who have districts that include rural areas have heard the stories of how this has become a law spinning out of control. In some areas practices required to reduce erosion on the land are more expensive than the land itself. The law itself did not require the Department to take into account local resource conditions, the economic or technical feasibility of practices they require. The legislation I am introducing today recognizes that these are realities in the real world. They should be requirements placed on the Department in the law and in the field guides NRCS employees use when assisting a farmer.

In this legislation I would also like to ease back on requirements because we are reducing Government benefits. Acres that are designated nonpayment will not be subject to Government mandates. When these programs were created there was a clear linkage, payments for compliance. However, in subsequent years when payments were reduced, regulations were not. This legislation would also create a new cost share program aimed at water quality. This program would assist livestock operations that are facing Federal and State mandates that are very expensive. This program would attempt to assist them in meeting those mandates and other practices to improve water quality. In order to pay for this program we are changing the Wetland Reserve Program to 15 year contracts from permanent easements.

I would also like to consolidate various cost share programs that have been authorized and appropriated for separately over the years. Most of these programs have been cut dramatically recently. It's my hope that by consolidating and refocusing we can have one program to support in appropriations. This will also reduce paperwork on those who apply. Instead of filling out two sets of application forms if they want money from two different programs, they will only have to fill out one form to receive assistance.

I would also like to consolidate the Natural Resource Conservation Service into the consolidated farm service agency. This move will streamline the policy making process and return NRCS to its main function, providing voluntary technical assistance to farmers.

As many will notice this legislation does not deal with swampbuster. It is not included because reaching agreement with interested parties has been difficult. I feel that repealing swampbuster is a better alternative than many of the "reforms" that have been placed before me. Between now and subcommittee markup I will continue to try and work with all interested parties. However, they need to understand that it must be a common sense proposal for me to take it seriously.

Finally, this legislation would protect the interests of private water users from the extortion of Federal agencies. This legislation outlines that Federal agencies cannot, as condition of permitting, require water users to give up a right in their property. It's my belief this will end a long standing controversy.

While all of these proposals are important to me, I am willing to work with everyone to make them better. They are my best attempts at reform. However, I am willing to listen and adopt better ideas.

Mr. KENNEDY of Rhode Island. Mr. Chairman, today the race to the bottom begins, and soon what it means to be an American will change. We have before us a plan from the other side of the aisle for balancing the budget.

Why do we want a balanced budget? What is intrinsically good about a balanced budget per se? It is important to note that there was a year when the budget was balanced. The year was 1930, and it marked the greatest depression this country has ever known.

So balancing the budget for the sake of balancing the budget is not the goal. We want a balanced budget because of what we hope it will do for us in terms of spurring our economy, growing our prosperity, and servicing the people rather than servicing the debt.

The approach that this balanced budget reconciliation act takes will send the country into the opposite direction from where a balanced budget should take the country. Instead of growing the economy and serving the people, the abrupt and vicious nature of this budget threatens these goals.

The scope of these cuts are so dramatic and the timetable so short, it begs the question of whether we want the positive results which we expect a balanced budget to bring us, or are we just happy with the politics of saying we have a balanced budget?

Just take one of many examples of where the reality of this so-called balanced budget belies their stated intent. They say they want to balance the budget in order to ease the interest payments that young people pay on the national debt, but to do so they propose to raise the interest payments on student loans so that the same young people will have to pay more to open the doors of opportunity.

When you look at where the cuts are coming from, there is nothing balanced about this budget. In fact, the poorest fifth of American families will shoulder half of the total cuts in benefit programs, and would receive no tax cut.

We face serious choices over what should be our priorities when we set out to bring our budget into balance.

Are we going to take a path that looks after the most vulnerable in society, that keeps promises, that invests in our future, that calls for shared sacrifice, and does not provide favors to people who already amply enjoy the rewards of this great country?

Or are we going to take a path that ignores the needs of senior citizens, children, and working families, that calls for sacrifice from the vulnerable while handing out tax cuts we can't afford to people who don't need them, that cripples our ability to prepare for tomorrow, that threatens the environment through underhanded deals, that takes the tax dollars of immigrants we have welcomed but denies them the very benefits their tax dollars have gone to support, and walks away from promises made to the American people?

This is a debate about numbers—cuts, slowed growth, caps, tax cuts, subsidies, and every other way we have to count money—but more important than any numbers are the principles at stake. American values should be reflected in the budget. But with the haste to only count cost in numerical terms, we've lost how to measure the cost on our society in human terms.

And that is where this bill fails. It fails seniors. It fails working families. It fails children. It fails the disabled. It fails the working poor. It fails students. It fails the environment. It fails our constituents. It fails to prepare America for tomorrow.

We have spoken about and debated the impact the Medicare provisions will have on senior citizens, and last week this Chamber voted to take a devastating $270 billion out of the Medicare Program, double premiums on seniors, and shred a program that has kept millions of seniors healthy and out of poverty since its inception in 1965.

Today we have before us the other half of their assault on health care. Faster than you can say block grant, the Republicans have killed a program that takes care of children when they are most vulnerable and seniors when they are most in need.

Now with their plan, all of the decisions and all of the responsibility will be handed over to the States without enough money to do the job. My own State of Rhode Island will suffer grievous harm under the Medicaid proposal. Over the next 7 years, Rhode Island will receive $1.6 billion less to take care of its poor children, mothers, and senior citizens. In the year 2002, Rhode Island will receive 42 percent less Medicaid assistance than it would under current law. Only two other States stand to be hit harder than Rhode Island.

Let's remember what Medicaid is all about and why it was created as a national program.

Medicaid simply told people: You are citizens of the United States and have a common right to basic health care that you share with your fellow citizens. Now that common ground is lost. Soon it will not matter that you are an American. It will matter more what side of the State line you live on. Will you get preventive care? Will your nursing home require well-trained staff and forbid the use of restraints and drugging patients? Will your disabled child get the care to live a fulfilling life? These decisions will be made in 50 different States in 50 different ways.

In the DisUnited States created by this proposal, it will not matter that you are an American. We have taken an entitlement to basic care and replaced it with a lottery system. Well, everyone who plays the lottery knows—most people end up losing.

The 127,306 Rhode Islanders on Medicaid will lose under this lottery. It is possible that almost 22,000 Rhode Island children will lose coverage.

More than 7,000, or three-quarters of the more than 9,300 elderly Rhode Islanders in nursing homes, rely on the Medicaid Program to pay for their care. Rhode Island nursing homes will lose more than $400 million over the next 7 years under this plan.

This cannot be made up by my State, which already is experiencing financial difficulties. This is not a hole that seniors can fill. And to look to the next generation, as the Republicans propose through their repeal of the adult child exclusion, is to cut off our hope for the future before it has even begun to take shape.

The opposition likes to say this bill is about the future. But a look at the fine print shows that it will produce an America of less opportunity and less promise.

This bill will put an empty plate in front of school children at breakfast and lunch. We all know students can not learn if they are hungry, if they are distracted by wondering where their next decent meal is coming from.

Our children are a national resource. But with this bill we wash our hands of our commitment to feeding hungry children, tell States to pick up the slack, and don't give them enough money for even one more glass of milk when new poor children show up at the classroom door each morning too hungry to learn.

Students who make it to college are having the rug pulled out from under them. Due to more than $10 billion in student loan cuts, undergraduate students will see their loan payments increase as much as $700, and costs for graduate students will jump by as much as $2,500.

This will construct an insurmountable barrier for thousands of Rhode Island students who will have to give up on their dream of attending one of the fine institutions of higher education in Rhode Island. Higher education will sadly become a privilege only enjoyed by the very few.

Borrowers in the Parent Loans for Undergraduate Students will face a $5,000 increase in loan repayments.

In Rhode Island as many as 1,600 students will lose some or all of their Pell Grant benefits due to the cutbacks. The 6-month interest exemption grace period for all borrowers of student loans is ended.

And from the people who often trumpet the fact that this bill will lower interest rates, there is a hike on interest rates on student loans.

Is this how you help the next generation? Is this a budget about tomorrow? No. It is all about paying for $245 billion in tax breaks today, tax breaks that will overwhelmingly benefit those who are already doing very well.

Fifty-two percent of the benefits of the tax cut in this bill go to families making $100,000 or more. The top 1 percent, those earning $350,000 and over, will get a tax break of almost $20,000. This injustice, this blatant favoritism of the fortunate few, is compounded by the fact that those at the bottom will actually see their taxes rise.

Almost 37,000 working poor Rhode Islanders will see their taxes go up. They will shoulder the burden of a $5.1 million tax increase on working families in my State. Nothing reveals the motives of those who have crafted this budget more clearly than the war they have waged on the earned income tax credit.

Mr. Chairman, the damage caused by this bill is so great one hardly knows where to begin. I have highlighted some of the most egregious measures. But as I said before, this vote is not about numbers. It is about who we are as a nation. And that is why I am so dismayed.

Mr. VENTO. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong opposition to the Republican budget reconciliation legislation. The bill we have before us today represents a reckless restructuring of national priorities and advocates a shift of resources and commitment taken from working American families and granted to the most affluent segments of our society.

I have supported in the past and will continue to support responsible deficit reduction policies. Over the past two years, we have made steady progress in cutting the deficit with nearly $600 billion in deficit reduction over a five year schedule beginning in 1993. We passed the deficit reduction bill last session without a single Republican vote. As a result of these initiatives, the latest figures on fiscal year 1995 show that this is the first time since 1948 that the deficit has declined for 3 years in a row. The $164 billion deficit is much too high, but it's below the 1993 projected numbers on performance and nearly half the 1993 annual deficit.

This year, Republicans are trying to sell their budget plans, including this reconciliation bill and the various appropriations bills, in terms of deficit reduction, but when you look at their plans you see through the transparent goals the real effect of the Republican actions.

The Republican budget scheme and true goals are to pull back from proven policies for health care, housing, education and the environment, in order to give tax breaks to corporations and affluent Americans, increase defense spending, and give assorted benefits to special interests.

Policy makers who are serious about deficit reduction do not push a package which includes $245 billion in tax breaks, benefiting mainly the wealthiest of our society. Not only is it unwise to reduce revenues in this time of fiscal constraints, but it is unfair to dole out benefits to the well-heeled when everyone else in society is being told they must sacrifice. The Republicans continue to insist on a cut in the capital gains tax rate, a repeal of the alternative minimum tax for corporations, a limited child tax credit which is denied 34 percent of the kids, and many lavish tax breaks for upper-income individuals and corporations.

One of the most convincing pieces of evidence that shows the Republican claims of tax breaks for all Americans is all smoke and mirrors came out of the non-partisan Congressional Joint Committee on Taxation last week. The Joint Committee on Taxation incredibly reported that the effect of the Republican budget scheme actually will be a tax increase on workers earning less than $30,000 a year. This is principally because the Republican proposal drastically cuts the Earned Income Tax Credit [EITC], a working family benefit program that has been praised for its effectiveness in assisting low-income families and rewarding work and the denial of the child credit to low-income families. By 2002, 172,000 Minnesota households would pay more taxes due to cuts in the Federal EITC existing law and the resulting cut in Minnesota's matching credit. With the EITC, participants receive a reduction in their Federal Income Tax liability or rebate in order to raise their income above the poverty line. The EITC gives working families living in poverty an alternative to entering the welfare system, an incentive to remain in the workforce, and assists them as they work to lift themselves out of poverty. These families should be encouraged to continue their efforts to achieve self-sufficiency and not be forced to choose between welfare and poverty.

One of the most shameful aspects of the reconciliation legislation is the treatment of Medicare and Medicaid. The new Republican majority in the House has made the Medicare and Medicaid programs its target for nearly 50 percent of its total spending cuts. Medicare is one of our nation's most successful programs. It was established over 30 years ago as a national commitment to assure seniors health care coverage. The Republican scheme is going to destroy seniors' health care security. With $270 billion in cuts, overall Medicare spending will be cut by a cumulative $6,795 per senior over the next seven years, meaning that in 2002 there will be $1,747 less in Medicare dollars per senior in that year itself! Republicans' excuse for slashing Medicare is to save the Medicare trust fund, but even the trustees of the Medicare trust fund strongly oppose the Republican plan because the extensive cuts go far beyond program reform or deficit reduction. The Republicans' proposed changes include raising premiums, cutting payments to providers and shifting seniors into untested forms of care. The bottom line is that seniors are going to pay more for less health care coverage.

Republicans are going to turn over complete control of the Medicaid program to the States, stripping away assurances that guarantee coverage to children, the elderly, and the disabled. The Republican Medicaid scheme cuts the program by $170 billion in 7 years, nearly a 20 percent reduction. Minnesota was one of the biggest losers in the restructuring of the House Medicaid formula and is projected to lose $3.4 billion over the next 7 years under the House formula. This is a cut of over 21 percent! Illustrated as to the impact on people, these cuts would mean loss of health coverage for 80,000 Minnesota children, loss of eligibility for 5,900 nursing home residents, and loss of health care coverage for over 100,000 Minnesotans by the end of the decade.

The Republicans proposed Medicaid plan eliminates nursing home regulations, taking us back to a bleak history of institutionalization without consumer protections from abuse and neglect. It eliminates provisions for home and community-based services. People with disabilities who are now able to remain at home with their families because of home and community-based care could have to enter costly institutions under this plan.

What a difference a year makes. Last fall 1994, the Congress was struggling to expand health care to those without Medicare, Medicaid, or private coverage. However, in 1995 Congress has designs to renege on existing Medicare and Medicaid programs. Then there were 40 million uninsured Americans from working families but today the number has jumped by another 1.4 million people in the past year. Congress is not even addressing the issue of those without health care, but pulling back and punching holes in the American health care programs, Medicare, and Medicaid, that help well over 60 million Americans. What a shame and what a disgrace that the modest programs that provide dignity to the elderly and the disabled, and compassion and empathy for those without means, in fact 18 million children, are being bled of their health benefits as the Republicans prioritize tax breaks for the wealthy ahead of health care for the needy.

These changes will affect every person in this Nation, whether indirectly through their health care costs increases due to the rising number of uninsured people, or directly if they have to deal with the cutbacks in their coverage or their parents', spouse's or child's coverage.

Medicare and Medicaid represent our nation at it's best. They represent the desire on the part of the American people to pull together and care for those who otherwise might not have enough resources to have access to health care. Instead of building upon this success, by responsibly managing Medicare and expanding health care coverage to all Americans, this Republican bill rolls back on the progress that has been made.

At the same time they are working to shred the health care safety net and destroy retirement security, Republicans are pushing a measure to jeopardize the hard-earned pensions of working Americans. The reconciliation bill includes a devious provision allowing corporations to de-fund and transfer money from pension funds to be used for any purpose the corporation may choose. According to the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation, the Republican fund raid potentially affects 22,000 pensions funds covering 11 million active workers and even 2 million retirees. This provision shows a blatant disregard for the lives and future livelihood of working Americans, not only because it jeopardizes their pensions, but because taxpayers in the final analysis could be required to step in and bail out companies' pension programs in the future.

On the environmental front, the reconciliation bill evokes the tradition of 19th century robber barons who exploited the west. From the bill, one would think the only good tree is a horizontal tree and that our nation has been endowed with vast and wonderful resources so a few could make a profit. This legislation amounts to a wholesale exploitation and degradation of America's natural resource legacy. We see the imprint of special interests, including the mining, timber, oil and gas industries, throughout the bill.

This legislation enshrines private park concessions in our National Parks with big profits in a power position over the public visitor and park rangers and stewards. Special interest giveaways are extensive: below cost timber sales, private control of rivers and waters, grazing fees below the already scandalously low prices, and public mineral rights giveaways to mining interests are all included in the bill. Masked as positive revenue gains, they put our national heritage on the auction block, with rigged bidding rules designed to benefit the special interests.

The decision to destroy forever the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge [ANWR] by permitting oil and gas exploration and drilling demonstrates the true spirit of the majority. The last great piece of American wilderness, the Arctic plain, ANWR is birthing home to the 160,000 member Porcupine Caribou herd. Grizzly and polar bears, arctic foxes and numerous other species conspicuous and inconspicuous abound. A clear majority of the American people oppose drilling for oil in ANWR, but the GOP leadership is not listening. Opening the refuge area to drilling will assure destruction of this pristine wilderness. The Republicans know better. The Arctic plain has been untouched for 40,000 years since the ice age. A unique Native American culture, the Gwich'in people, live by subsistence hunting and are absolutely dependent on the Porcupine Caribou herd.

Opening ANWR is a serious policy decision which should be openly debated on its merits, not as part of a reconciliation bill. Folding this measure into this bill is a sleight of hand way to circumvent the process and force this wholesale policy change upon the American public.

The reconciliation bill is also an inappropriate place to include provisions which essentially gut the Community Reinvestment Act [CRA], which attempts to insure bank credit in our cities. These provisions will exempt close to 90 percent of banks and thrifts from CRA coverage. The bill also provides a safe harbor for institutions with a satisfactory or higher rating (95 percent of the industry) and eliminates the sole enforcement mechanism in the CRA. Without using a dime of taxpayer funds, the CRA every year helps steer $6 billion of private funds into housing, small business an economic development in communities across this country. The CRA is an engine of economic development and social justice, and if it did not exist, we would need to invent it today. Furthermore, any measure which undercuts the CRA at least deserves a separate vote on the House floor.

The reconciliation bill includes several dubious provisions which will limit Americans' access to affordable housing. The RTC and FDIC affordable housing programs are eliminated. These are programs that obtain properties through bank and thrift failures and allow low- and moderate-income families, nonprofit housing groups, and public housing authorities to purchase these properties. These programs work; under the RTC affordable housing program, more than 104,000 dwellings have been sold at a value of $1.5 billion. Republicans also eliminate the Low Income Housing Tax Credit, which has been responsible for more than 100,000 units of affordable housing per year, $15 billion in economic activity and 90,000 jobs. Cutting this highly targeted and successful program will devastate affordable housing opportunities in the future. The ultimate losers with these GOP proposals are the prospective tenants and homeowners.

We have heard many people talk about balancing the budget so that the next generation will inherit a smaller financial burden. I find it difficult to believe, however, that included in a budget plan designed to give our children a better future, there are such drastic cuts in education programs, which are critical to providing and empowering our nation's youth with the tools and opportunities they require to succeed in this increasingly competitive world. A balanced budget will not mean much if America's children do not have the knowledge and skills they need to continue America's leadership role in the world economy.

The bill takes particular aim at higher education, which are the institutions that produce our engineers, doctors, scientists and other personnel critical to this nation's progress and competitiveness. Federal programs comprise nearly the whole higher education financial aid support system. This legislation eliminates the interest subsidy for students during their first six months after graduation at a time when college graduates are having trouble finding jobs and more and more parents are unable to help with these financial liabilities. The measure also eliminates the Direct Loan program, which has been successfully utilized by 24 educational institutions in Minnesota alone. Parents who help their children with the costs of acquiring a higher education will also see their financial burden increase as this measure increases the interest rate that parents pay on PLUS loans. In addition, a myriad of new fees and the increases in existing fees will add to the cost of higher education even further because lenders and educational institutions will without doubt pass these costs down to students in the form of increases in tuition and higher costs of borrowing funds. In point of fact $10 billion dollars will be cut from programs to help families achieve post secondary education programs.

We cannot and shouldn't steal from the very programs that allow our children to succeed in order to secure a smaller budget in their future. America's children are our greatest resource, and we must ensure that every child has the opportunity to receive the education they require and deserve to be successful in the world of work and our communities.

At the same time Republicans make all these cuts to people programs, defense spending spirals upward in the overall Republican budget plan for weapons and spending that the defense dept has not sought. Misaligned Republican priorities include $1.4 billion for B–2 stealth bombers, not requested by the Pentagon. Republicans also sink hundreds of millions into funding for the Seawolf submarine and Star Wars missile defense. The security of the United States cannot be provided for by simply increasing the number of planes, bombers, and submarines. Economic security, safety at work, and access to quality health care are also real elements of national security. How can we say the U.S. is more secure with nearly $7 billion more than the Pentagon requested, while Medicare is being cut; while funds are reduced for occupational safety for American workers; while educational programs are gutted? Can smart weapons replace smart soldiers and sailors? The answer is obvious—investment in people is essential to our security, whether in a military uniform or part of the private economic.

The question really is about the direction our nation should be heading and what values we want to cultivate to enhance America's future. This reconciliation bill reveals a dramatic change in national priorities under the GOP leadership. This new Republican majority values the bottom line above all else, in order to give tax breaks to the wealthy and placate special interest spending project, apparently the GOP message is claim to balance the budget and anything goes—but they are wrong—people care. The American people don't want an abandonment of principles and policies which allow the most vulnerable in our society to live with dignity and afford opportunity. They also do not want a redistribution of wealth which makes it more difficult for working American families to get ahead while giving special benefits to corporations and special interests. This bill is an affront to all who believe in the concept of community and the commitment of the Federal Government to protect Americans' health, environment and economic security. I urge my colleagues to vote against this bill.

Mr. PAYNE of New Jersey. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong opposition to H.R. 2491. I am particularly disappointed about the impact this legislation has on the Earned Income Tax Credit. Under this measure the Earned Income Tax Credit will be cut by $23 billion. This legislation will have a very negative impact on the State of New Jersey. Provided only to those who work, the Earned Income Tax Credit is a valuable tool in encouraging work over welfare. In my State of New Jersey the Earned Income Tax Credit helps 513,808 low-income workers and their families in their struggle to stay afloat in our society. That translates into 13.1 percent of all New Jersey taxpayers. In the past, this tax credit has received bipartisan acclaim under the Presidencies of Ronald Reagan and George Bush. I find it perplexing that despite the success of the tax credit, it would be slashed under this current proposal, thereby increasing taxes on millions of working Americans.

I find it ironic that while my colleagues on the other side of the aisle talk about the need for welfare reform and personal responsibility, they are willing to decimate the program that helps people rise from dependency. The Earned Income Tax Credit encourages families to move from welfare to work by making work profitable. The tax credit rewards employment for working families, so parents who work full-time do not have to raise their children in poverty—and families with modest means do not suffer from eroding incomes. The Earned Income Tax Credit is a non-bureaucratic way to encourage work over welfare. There are no middlemen or service providers. There are no long lines at Government offices. The tax refund is provided by the IRS directly to the working families. I ask my colleagues who support this measure and have low- and moderate-income families in their districts to explain why it is necessary to slash a tax credit to low- and moderate-income families whose income has deteriorated since 1979. Payroll taxes increased five times between 1983 and 1990, while in 1996 the real value of the minimum wage will decline to its lowest real value in 40 years. The poverty rate for working families with children grew by nearly half from 1979 to 1993. The bottom 40 percent of American families, by income—those earning less than $30,000 in 1993—made 10 percent less in real terms in 1993 than in 1979.

In light of these grim statistics, I would like to know how my colleagues on the other side of the aisle are going to explain to the American people the fact that they are prepared to cut millions of dollars away from poor, working families, then turn around and provide a tax cut for the wealthy. I cannot begin to understand how many of my colleagues justify this type of action especially in light of that fact that the income gap between wealthy and nonwealthy Americans is at record levels.

In addition, the budget reconciliation bill before us today punishes poor children by eliminating key child nutrition programs, including the highly successful WIC Program—women, infants, and children. It repeals school lunch and school breakfast programs and denies benefits to legal immigrants who have faithfully complied with the law and gone through all the proper channels to enter our country.

Our Nation has always valued education as the ticket to achieving the American dream. This bill attacks student loan programs, cutting a total of over $10 billion over 7 years. Is it fair to tell our young people that they will just have to abandon the dream that we all shared?

As chairman of the Congressional Black Caucus, I am outraged that the Republican Congress has once again reversed the clock, turning back progress by eliminating the Minority Development Agency which coordinates minority business and development programs and gives a fair chance to those who were shut out of the system for years.

Our seniors are hurt by the reductions in section 8 housing; veterans who served our Nation are now told that they are part of the budget problem.

Once again, Federal employees and retirees are given harsh and unfair treatment. Those who have chosen careers in public service are now being told they will have to pay more and get less.

This is a hidden tax whether the authors of this budget want to admit it or not.

This budget will be disastrous for the working people of our Nation, for children, for students, and for seniors. I urge my colleagues to oppose H.R. 2491.

Mr. UPTON. Mr. Chairman, I have had extensive discussions with the chairman of the House Commerce Committee concerning the fact that teaching hospitals and academic medical centers have traditionally had higher costs. This is due to the special mission that these institutions have providing specialty patient care, conducting clinical research, and training new physicians to treat our poor.

After these discussions, I have been assured that it should be the policy of the States, when creating their new MediGrant programs, to take it into account. Obviously, it is in the best interest of this Nation's health care to ensure top quality doctors and research facilities, along with continuing specialty care. This can be done if the States recognize that additional reimbursements will be required to these types of facilities.

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong opposition to this omnibus bill that I believe is a major step backward for our Nation.

I am committed to insuring our Nation's fiscal integrity. Our obligation to our future and our children and to their children demands decisive and decidedly different action to affect a disciplined conduct of the fiscal business of this country.

But this Republican package is not the answer. It is an attack on the middle class and poor Americans.

I supported the balanced budget amendment to the Constitution. I voted for the Stenholm budget which would have achieved a surplus by the year 2002. I will also support the alternative reconciliation developed by Mr. ORTON, Mr. STENHOLM, Mr. PETERSON, Mr. SABO, and other Democrats. In a responsible and fair way, their alternative puts us on a glidepath to a balanced budget by 2002.

In my view Thomas Jefferson was right when he said:

> The question whether one generation has the right to bind another by the deficit it imposes is a question of such consequence as to place it among the fundamental principles of government. We should consider ourselves unauthorized to saddle posterity with our debts and morally bound to pay them ourselves.

Reducing the deficit is of such importance that I do not believe we should approve tax cuts until we get our fiscal house in order. In my view, we must balance the budget first, then consider tax reductions.

The Republicans are steadfast in their efforts to give tax breaks to the wealthy. That is why the provisions in this bill are so draconian and is part of the reason why this bill is so unacceptable compared to the Orton-Peterson-Stenholm-Sabo substitute.

One example of the Republican bill's attack on the middle class are its provisions on Federal employees. The measure saves more than $10 billion from increased taxes on Federal employees and other provisions that will dramatically decrease their benefit packages.

The Republican leadership, despite loud and persistent rhetoric about reform of Congressional procedures, put this package together with few hearings and no markup by the Government Reform and Oversight Committee.

Mr. Chairman, I know of no precedent for making this magnitude of changes in Federal benefits without full and open discussion of the issue. As my colleagues will recall, the creation of FERS, the Federal Employees Retirement System, was done in the mid-1980's at the conclusion of nearly 2 years of bipartisan hearings with dozens of witnesses.

The Democrats and Republicans charged with review of this issue do not support what is in this bill. A vote was not allowed in the Government Reform and Oversight Committee or its Civil Service Subcommittee because the majority of Members on those committees do not support these provisions.

Federal workers have already contributed more than their share to efforts to balance our Federal budget—about $200 billion over the last 15 years. We must stop this erosion of pay and benefits or we will witness a deterioration in the quality of young men and women that we attract to and retain in Federal service.

I am pleased that the provision to require Federal employees to pay fair market value for parking have been dropped. That was the right thing to do. What remains, however, is still unfair and unwarranted.

These proposals are representative of this bill's impact on middle and lower income citizens. It is an attack on those groups and it should be rejected.

In addition to dramatic reductions in the Earned Income Tax Credit, this bill makes dramatic cuts in Medicare and Medicaid—over $450 billion in health care cuts.

Under the Kasich proposal, Maryland will lose $2.5 billion of Medicaid funding that it uses to provide medical care to poor children, the disabled, and seniors in nursing homes.

The result of these provisions, if adopted, is clear. Maryland would be forced to raise State income taxes just to retain very basic benefits. Other benefits, for adults and children, would simply have to be abandoned.

More than 60,000 Maryland children would be forced to go without health care coverage—without immunizations, health screenings, and medical treatments that will keep them healthy and ready to go to school.

Mr. Chairman, when people voted for change last November, they did not vote to bankrupt families. They did not vote to leave children languishing in foster care. They did not vote to throw children off Medicaid. That would not be responsible.

Children and their families would also suffer from the welfare provision of the Kasich bill.

We cannot promote our national economic security if taxpayers are required to support able bodied Americans who simply choose not to work. Even so, our economic future is lost if we fail to provide for the Nation's children.

The Republican proposals for welfare reform are weak on work and tough on kids—tougher on kids than they are on the deadbeat dads who walked out on them.

There is a better way to end welfare as we know it and to create a system that puts parents to work and protects the well-being of the kids who depend upon them. The welfare provisions in the Democratic substitute, which 204 Members of this body supported, represent true reform. They require those who can work, to work.

These are just a few examples of what I believe our priorities must be. Not tax cuts in the face of deficits, but fiscally responsible policies that serve the needs of all Americans, promote America's economy, and move us to a balanced budget in the year 2002.

The alternative is a responsible approach and a real approach. While I do not agree with every provision, I find it an acceptable alternative to solidify America's economic future.

Our deficit threatens our health as a nation and our ability to be competitive in our global economy. The Orton-Peterson-Stenholm-Sabo alternative would balance the budget and get us back on track.

The Gingrich/Kasich bill uses a meat ax and leaves the patient its trying to cure badly scarred. The substitute uses a scalpal and leaves the patient whole and cured.

Mr. SERRANO. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong opposition to the budget reconciliation bill that is before the House this week.

I hardly know where to start in denouncing this misguided bill, but several themes are apparent.

It makes vast, untested changes in the way our country does business.

It abandons federal commitments to the most vulnerable among us—children, families, the elderly, immigrants, the working poor, the sick—and makes many of them the subjects of State-run experiments in providing health care, education, jobs, and other services.

It needlessly cuts taxes on corporations and wealthy investors while it raises taxes on more than half the population—the half with incomes under $30,000 a year.

It dumps huge new responsibilities on the States but gives them little time to plan, establish new programs and bureaucracies, or hire and train State employees.

It makes changes in programs across the Federal Government; while some may be useful, many are probably not or they wouldn't have to be rammed through the House in this manner.

It tramples on the procedures the House has established to permit full and open debate on important issues by inserting provisions never considered by a committee or actually rejected by a committee.

Of course, the bill has been a moving target as the Republican leadership cut deal after deal to buy the votes they need to pass this massive nightmare of a bill.

The real targets and beneficiaries of this bill are shockingly clear from a couple of the tax provisions. The bill provides for $245 billion in tax cuts that go mostly to wealthy investors and corporations. According to the Office of Management and Budget, the top 1 percent of families, those with annual incomes over $350,000, will see their taxes cut by $14,050 per year.

The $500 tax credit per child would go to families with annual incomes up to $200,000. But the credit is nonrefundable, which means that a family of four would receive a reduced credit or no credit at all until its annual income reached about $30,000.

At the same time, the Republicans propose to save $23 Billion from the Earned Income Tax Credit [EITC], which offsets payroll taxes and the failure of the minimum wage to keep pace with inflation, permitting low-income working families to keep more of their earned income, or, if their income is very low, providing a modest income supplement.

The result of these two provisions—the nonrefundable per child tax credit and the EITC cuts—is that fully half of America's working families, those with annual incomes below $30,000, face increases in their taxes.

The EITC cuts will have a particularly serious impact on New Yorkers. New York has a State EITC, which is tied to the Federal credit. Nearly one million low- and moderate-income working families will see increases in their State taxes as well as their Federal taxes from the cuts in budget reconciliation.

We discussed the Republicans' huge and dangerous cuts to Medicare last week, although without enough time for debate or opportunity for amendments to improve that deeply flawed bill. It came up last week, of course, because the Republicans hoped to fool the American people into thinking there is no connection between the $270 Billion in Medicare cuts and the $245 Billion in tax cuts. But here it is again, as title XV of this bill.

Another reason that considering Medicare last week was a mistake is that it is so closely related to Medicaid. Changes in one program affect the other in ways that have not, in my view, been sufficiently studied. Moreover, cuts in both programs, taken together, will have devastating effects on our health care system, patients and providers alike.

Mr. Chairman, on Friday, I met with a group of providers in my South Bronx district to discuss the cuts' impacts on their facilities and hear their views. One participant, representing the Daughters of Jacob Geriatric Center informed us that between 90 percent and 95 percent of the center's residents are supported by the Federal health programs and that 75 percent of its budget goes to labor costs. Clearly, cuts in Medicare and Medicaid will have serious, harmful effects on the health and well-being of the seniors at the center.

Apart from the cuts in Medicaid funding, provisions ending the entitlement of eligible individuals to coverage and converting Medicaid to a shrinking block grant are alarming. Medicaid is a national program precisely because some States were unwilling or unable to meet the health care needs of the poor. To assume that every State will have the will and the resources to meet these needs, especially as Federal contributions decline so sharply, is dangerous wishful thinking.

On Tuesday, my constituent, David Tuzo spoke about the importance of Medicaid at a rally on the Capitol Grounds. David, who is HIV-positive, has four sons, three of whom are foster children he has saved from abuse and abandonment. In closing his remarks, he said, "I guess there are two reasons my health is so good and I feel so optimistic: my life with my kids gives me hope and Medicaid is my lifeline. Without Medicaid, I'd lose my kids and my life." But there is no guarantee that the medical services David receives now with Medicaid coverage will continue to be covered, or even that he and his sons will continue to be eligible.

Welfare reform is another empty, to be added title of this bill, although conferees are now meeting to resolve differences between the versions of H.R. 4 that passed the Senate and House. But I think anything born of H.R. 4 ought to be rejected, not hidden away in this huge bill.

My outrage has not diminished since the House voted to take away the Federal guarantee that some modest assistance will be available for those children and families whose desperate circumstances make them eligible. That is not just bad public policy, it is immoral.

I also continue to be angry at the ongoing immigrant-bashing that began with H.R. 4, which would deny public assistance on the basis of legal immigration status. We know that immigrants don't come here for public assistance; they come to join family members and to provide a better life for their children. They work, they pay taxes, they participate in community life, and they play by the rules. Why should they be targeted, except to save money?

Mr. Chairman, there is a great deal more to condemn about this bill, but I am nearly out of time. Let me just mention a few more outrages.

The bill repeals the alternative minimum tax on corporations, letting corporations get away with paying no Federal income taxes at all.

The bill permits businesses to raid their pension funds of as much as $40 billion, threatening the retirement security of millions of current workers.

The bill amends the Community Reinvestment Act to make it easier for banks to avoid investing and lending in communities from which they take deposits and to make it harder for community groups to challenge a bank's CRA compliance.

The bill terminates the RTC and FDIC affordable housing programs and repeals the low-income housing tax credit, reducing the already small stock of affordable housing for low- and moderate-income families at a time of increasing homelessness.

The bill eliminates the direct loan program and the graduation grace period, putting a college education, which is the most effective vehicle for success, beyond the reach of most people.

The bill incorporates the provisions of H.R. 927, the Cuban Liberty and Democratic Solidarity Act, an extreme bill that would enhance policies that have never worked, increase the suffering of the Cuban people, and adversely affect United States businesses, the United States court system, and our relations with our closest allies.

The bill ignores reforms made just 2 years ago to the tax exemption of certain income from investments in U.S. possessions such as Puerto Rico, known as section 936, and, instead, phases it out over 10 years. I believe section 936 should be left alone, but if it must be changed there are better ways.

Mr. Chairman, all thinking Members agree that we must bring the Federal deficit under control, if not actually balance the budget.

There is wider disagreement over the number of years it should take. I personally think 7 years is too short and requires the kind of mindless slashing of spending the Republicans propose rather than thoughtful adjustments, but the Republicans insist on 7 years.

Cutting taxes before the deficit is under control makes the required spending cuts that much greater.

And the specific cuts chosen, aimed mostly at low- and middle-income families, and the refusal to curb corporate welfare, add to the outrages in this bill.

Mr. Chairman, I urge my colleagues to reject this terrible bill.

Mr. NEAL. Mr. Chairman, I join with Representatives RANGEL, JOHNSON, and KENNELLY to express my concerns about the tax changes to section 936 included in budget reconciliation legislation.

The bill recognizes that section 936 cannot remain in effect indefinitely and must be terminated within a reasonable time. However, the termination of section 936 in this legislation would eliminate totally all Federal incentives for new job creation in Puerto Rico. This provision provides protection for the companies doing business in Puerto Rico, but not for the working people of Puerto Rico.

The Governor of Puerto Rico has suggested an economic incentive program that would replace section 936 with a wage credit provision to help spur job creation in Puerto Rico. The provision included in budget reconciliation was not debated thoroughly and the Governor did not have time to submit an alternative proposal. The Conference Committee on budget reconciliation should adopt the Governor's proposal or some other reasonable replacement program to help with investment and job creation in Puerto Rico.

I urge the House to thoroughly review this issue.

Mr. WICKER. Mr. Chairman, I am pleased to share with my colleagues the following remarks from October 23, 1995 by R. Bruce Josten, Senior Vice President for the Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
Washington, DC, October 23, 1995

MEMBERS OF THE U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES: In the next few days, you will be voting on H.R. 2491, the "Seven-Year Balanced Budget Reconciliation Act of 1995," this year's omnibus balanced budget reconciliation bill. This historic measure will lead to a balanced federal budget within the next seven years, cut taxes for American families and businesses, streamline welfare systems and provide for stronger economic growth. The U.S. Chamber of Commerce—the world's largest business federation, representing 215,000 businesses, 3,000 state and local Chambers of Commerce, 1,200 trade and professional associations, and 73 American Chambers of Commerce abroad—urges you to vote YES on the reconciliation bill.

H.R. 2491 offers us the chance to switch tracks, from the usual tax-and-spend mentality to an emphasis on less government, lower taxes, and increased economic growth. Eliminating the deficit in seven years will lower interest rates, boost savings and investment, increase productivity growth, and lead to more and better jobs and a higher standard of living. The reconciliation bill also takes a courageous step in addressing runaway entitlement spending while ensuring more effective services to those in need.

The tax cuts contained in the reconciliation bill provide incentives for job creation and return some of the taxpayer's earnings to where they rightfully belong—the taxpayers's pocket. As part of a comprehensive balanced budget package, the tax cuts make the process of eliminating the deficit easier on the economy at the same time they make achievement of the goal more likely.

The reconciliation bill before you deserves your support. The business community will be closely following the outcome of this vote, which the U.S. Chamber will count as a key vote in its annual "How They Voted" tabulation. Passage of the reconciliation bill is crucial to re-establishing the historic trust between the government and the governed. The U.S. Chamber membership urges you to vote YES on H.R. 2491.

Sincerely,

R. BRUCE JOSTEN.

BALANCING THE FEDERAL BUDGET—THE NATION'S GREATEST PRIORITY

With all the hoopla over Medicare, Medicaid, welfare reform, and tax cuts it is easy to lose sight of the forest for the trees. Therefore, it is important now to reiterate and reemphasize where we are headed. The single overarching goal of this legislation is to put the economy on a new track by balancing the budget through spending restraint, reducing taxes, and getting the government out of the everyday lives of its citizens. The message is simple: Balance the Budget Now!!!

Why is it so important to balance the budget? Balancing the budget is the single most important act that congress can take to boost savings in this country. This in turn will lead to lower interest rates, higher investment, greater productivity growth, and a higher standard of living. Achieving this balance will also increase our competitiveness in international markets.

In a June 1995 U.S. Chamber survey, more than 96 percent of those responding would like to have the federal budget balanced in seven years

There is no doubt that balancing the budget is a clear winner for the economy—but it is more than an economic issue; it is an issue of generational fairness. Deficits not only burden future generations with higher taxes required to service the debt but also deny future generations the basic right to make their own decisions and choose their own destiny.

While it is true that balancing the budget involves some short-run pain, the long-run cost of failure to balance the budget is the virtual impoverishment of America's future. Unless we make some tough decisions to reduce spending and eliminate the deficit, we will soon find ourselves in a position of bankruptcy, and totally ill-equipped to provide for the retirement needs of the baby-boom generation. Without immediate program changes, by 2012 entitlement spending and interest payments on the debt will consume all tax revenue. If unreformed, Medicare will be insolvent in seven years.

The balanced budget reconciliation package also includes a tax cut for America's households and businesses. By improving the incentives for individuals to work and businesses to create new jobs, the proposed tax cuts will spur economic growth. These beneficial effects not only will mitigate the short-run fiscal drag from the spending restraint but also will generate tax receipts to help offset the revenue loss from the tax cuts themselves.

Eliminating the deficit and balancing the budget is sound public policy. It will benefit individuals of all ages and socio-economics groups, it will encourage savings and investments and foster job growth, and ultimately will place America in a sound financial position to deal with the complexities of its aging population. Failure to do so is simply irresponsible.

BALANCED BUDGET RECONCILIATION BILL—MYTHS VS. FACTS

Myth: Balancing the budget is going to harm the economy.

Fact: The congressional Budget Office has estimated that balancing the budget within five to ten years provides enough time for the economy to adjust without providing undue stress to economic growth. By producing a plan that splits the difference—balancing the budget in seven years—the Republicans place the economy on as gentle a transition path as possible that still preserves the plan's credibility. That's important because a vote of no confidence in the financial markets would send interest rates up, which could unravel the entire plan by slowing the economy and forcing the government to spend more on its debt service.

Myth: The Republicans are slashing programs for the poor and the elderly.

Fact: Actually, total government spending over the next seven years under the Republican plan would continue to grow, averaging 3.0% per year. Social Security spending is slated to rise about 5% per year, and Medicare growth will average 6.4%.

Myth: It's irresponsible to cut taxes at the same time we're trying to balance the federal budget.

Fact: The tax-cut package will help achieve a balanced budget by improving the incentives for Americans to work, save and invest. These activities will generate private-sector growth that will offset the economic drag caused by reduced government spending.

Myth: The Republicans are slashing Medicare.

Fact: The Republican plan for Medicare calls for program expenditures to rise an average of 6.4% per year for the next seven years—more than twice the rate of inflation. Medicare spending over the past five years has grown at the unsustainable average annual rate of 10.4% over the past five years. Critics of the Republican plan usually fail to note that expenditures per beneficiary are projected to climb from $4,800 today to $6,700 by 2002 under the Republican proposal.

Myth: The Republican tax cuts are for the wealthy.

Fact: Most of the tax relief goes to the American family as the child tax credit. Under the Senate Finance Committee tax cut bill, 62 percent of tax reduction is accounted for by the child tax credit, which has income limits (the full amount is available to single filers earning $75,000 or less and to married joint filers earning $110,000 or less). Only about one-sixth of the tax package's $245 billion in tax relief goes for reductions in capital gains tax.

Myth: The cuts in Medicare spending are funding the tax cut.

Fact: These are two separate issues. Tax cuts or not, balanced budget or not—the Medicare trust fund will be bankrupt by 2002, according to the best estimates of the Medicare Trustees (four of the six trustees are Clinton appointees). Action on Medicare is required now. The problem can only truly be solved by addressing the explosive growth of Medicare, which has averaged 10.5 percent per year over the past five years. Moreover, because any changes to Medicare Part A will accrue directly to the Medicare Hospital Insurance Trust Fund, the savings cannot be used to provide for tax cuts.

Myth: President Clinton's plan to balance the budget in ten years offers a preferred path to fiscal balance.

Fact: Actually, the president's path doesn't lead anywhere. According to the CBO, the federal deficits under the Administration's June 1995 proposal remain lodged around the $200 billion level for the next decade. The Administrations rosier underlying economic assumptions play a big role in getting the deficit to zero, but when the CBO figures are used instead, the deficit shows little improvement. CBO's scoring of the Republican plan, on the other hand, shows balance. Which numbers should be used? The president answered this question himself, when in February 1993 he argued that lawmakers should stick to one set of economic assumptions—CBO's—so that "the American people will think we're shooting straight with them."

MEDICARE REFORM—THE RIGHT SOLUTION

Medicare reform is at the crux of the balanced budget battle. Medicare—the national health insurance program for seniors—will run out of money in seven years, according to The Board of Trustees. Spending on Medicare and other entitlements threatens to crowd out all other budget priorities and increase the budget deficit.

Previous approaches to Medicare reform have failed to slow Medicare's growth. Worse, these approaches have increased the burden on businesses and their employees through higher payroll taxes and higher insurance premiums.

Since 1970, Congress has raised payroll taxes over 20 times and the Medicare Trustees 1995 Report pointed out that payroll taxes would have to be raised by another 1.3 to 3.5 percentage points to bring the system into balance. When you consider that many small-and medium-sized businesses already pay more in payroll taxes than income taxes and that payroll taxes must be paid regardless of economic conditions, it becomes clear why Medicare requires solutions other than tax increases.

The House and Senate Majority has proposed market-oriented alternatives to traditional Medicare reform, an approach that modernizes the 30-year-old Medicare program by increasing competition while restraining the growth in spending. Key elements include:

New choices for Medicare beneficiaries. Beneficiaries will have the right to choose traditional Medicare, as well as the right to choose from a range of private health plan options including managed care and medical savings accounts. These options will provide beneficiaries access to expanded benefits—such as prescription drugs, preventative care, vision and hearing care.

Restrained growth in Medicare spending. Increases in Medicare spending are inevitable, given the growing Medicare population and the advance of medical technology. However, controlling the rate at which Medicare spending increases is as important to our nation's future financial health as Medicare itself is to seniors' health care. Introducing competition to Medicare through beneficiary choice of health plans will help control costs and allocate resources more fairly and efficiently than Washington bureaucrats.

Accountability. The Republican plan allows seniors to take responsibility for making their own health care decisions. Instead of relying on a bureaucratic, one-size-fits-all approach, seniors will decide which health plans are best for them. Doctors and hospitals are also held accountable. The bill rewards beneficiaries who report incidences of waste, fraud and abuse, and strengthens penalties for anyone who defrauds Medicare.

By passing this legislation Congress will have taken timely, critical action that will avert the program's bankruptcy and preserve and protect it for current recipients and future generations.

MEDICARE REFORM—MYTHS VS. FACTS

Myth: The House and Senate Republican Medicare reform plans will cut $270 billion from Medicare in order to finance a tax cut for the wealthy.

Fact: The Medicare Trustees' 1995 Annual Report urged Congress to take "prompt and decisive action" to address the solvency of the Medicare Part A (hospital insurance) Trust Fund and the continued growth of Medicare Part B (supplemental medical insurance).

The House and Senate Majority has proposed market-oriented alternatives to traditional Medicare reform, an approach that modernizes the 30-year-old Medicare program by increasing competition while restraining the growth in spending. Under the Republican plan, spending per beneficiary will still increase 40% by 2002 ($4,800 to $6,700).

Tax cuts provided for in the budget resolution were considered and passed independent of Medicare. Whether or not taxes are cut, Medicare will still go broke in 2002.

Myth: It's not fair for Congress to take away benefits from seniors who have faithfully paid into the system.

Fact: The average Medicare beneficiaries receive far more than they put in. The average two-earner couple receives $117,200 more in benefits than it contributes to the program. The average singe-earner couple receives $126,700 more.

By encouraging competition among private health plans based on quality and innovation, the Republican plan may lead to increased benefits.

Fact: Medicare's influence is felt throughout the business community—from payroll taxes paid to finance the system to insurance premiums inflated by consistent shortfalls in Medicare reimbursements to providers who in turn shift the cost to private health plans.

Myth: Medicare is in trouble because doctors and hospitals charge too much. The Republican plan fails to address this problem.

Fact: Solving the Medicare crisis will require the participation of all—doctors, hospitals, seniors and other taxpayers—particularly the business community. Just as no one factor led to the Medicare crisis, a single-minded focus on providers won't get us out. Further, cost controls have failed miserably whenever they have been tried—particulary in the context of health care.

WELFARE REFORM—A CALL FOR ACTION

Efforts to reform the nation's welfare system continue to gain momentum and could be included in the budget bill. Other legislation supported by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce has been passed by both the House and Senate. A final compromise will be sent to President Clinton for his signature once differences between the bills are resolved by a House-Senate conference committee.

Overhaul of the welfare program is critical to control spending costs and provide effective, streamlined services to those who truly warrant such assistance. To achieve this end, the bills eliminate the federal guarantee of benefits for all eligible Americans by turning responsibility for welfare programs to the states in the form of block grants. A substantial reduction in federal spending is anticipated—from $65 to $100 billion over seven years. There is much commonality between the House and Senate proposals:

Both bills replace federal welfare programs with lump-sum payments to the states for cash assistance to the poor (AFDC) and child care. (The House bill also includes family nutrition, Supplemental Security Income, and school lunches.) Block grants to the states are capped; no state match is required.

The legislation places a limit of five years on the duration of time that individuals may receive welfare benefits. States have the option of lowering the limit to two years.

States must move half of all welfare recipients into work by either 2003 (House bill) or 2000 (Senate bill). Both bills repeal the JOBS program.

But key differences with respect to illegitimacy, "family caps," and aid to immigrants remain. The House bill prohibits states from providing benefits to women who have additional children while on welfare, teenagers who have babies of out of wedlock, and most non-U.S. citizens. The Senate bill does not contain these prohibitions.

Business has a strong stake in the welfare reform issue. If people are to exit the welfare rolls, they must be prepared and able to find and keep a job. In response, many welfare reformers look to the private sector as the primary source of job creation.

Chamber members understand the need to be centrally involved in the welfare reform debate. In a survey to construct the 1995-1996 National Business Agenda, welfare reform was ranked as the second highest priority (behind unfunded mandates). The June, 1995 "Where I Stand" Nation's Business questionnaire on welfare generated 6,319 responses, the fourth-highest return ever.

In November, 1994, the Chamber became the first business organization to adopt policy on welfare reform. The Chamber supports immediate and intensive job placement services for welfare recipients; a time limit on welfare benefits; work requirements; and incentives for businesses to hire welfare recipients. Above all, it is imperative that former welfare recipients possess the knowledge and skills to succeed in the modern workplace.

WELFARE REFORM—MYTHS VS. FACTS

Myth: Business will not hire welfare recipients.

Fact: Private companies will hire welfare recipients, but practical incentives need to be offered. Examples include flexible wage scales, relief from certain labor law requirements, and/or tax incentives. Equally important is ensuring that recipients possess the skills and attitudes to succeed in today's workplace.

Myth: The legislation recklessly endangers the well-being of the poorest children and families.

Fact: America's welfare system eats up billions of dollars of taxpayers' money annually. Without incentives like time limits and work requirements, many persons will continue to make an easy living off welfare. Reliance on public assistance must to an end.

Myth: Moving to a block grant system will cripple state budgets and lead to a "mishmash" of state welfare programs. The federal government needs to maintain authority.

Fact: Block grants deserve strong consideration; they will help maximize state and local flexibility and allow states to design welfare programs that best reflect their public assistance needs. Moreover, block grants will put an end to unfunded mandates and burdensome regulations associated with federal welfare programs.

Myth: Increasing the minimum wage is the only way to ensure that welfare mothers can live on entry-level earnings. Otherwise, the work requirement will never be effective.

Fact: Quite the contrary. An increase in the minimum wage would cost many Americans their jobs and deter employers from hiring welfare recipients. The key to increased job opportunities is an abolishment of the minimum wage and allowing the marketplace to work.

A Congressional Budget Office study has shown that 70 percent of workers who entered the workforce at $5 an hour or less were still employed after one year. Forty-five had received wage increases of 20 percent or more.

Mr. RAMSTAD. Mr. Chairman, I want to express my deep concern about the 4.3 cent per gallon aviation fuel tax which was imposed in the massive 1993 tax increase signed into law by President Clinton.

While I would have preferred a full repeal of this damaging tax, I am pleased the reconciliation bill before the House today includes a provision to extend the current exemption from this tax for 2 years.

But I am deeply concerned the other body has only chosen to extend the exemption for 17 months, and I strongly urge my colleagues on the reconciliation conference committee to support the full 2-year exemption.

Without the certainty of a long exemption, it is impossible for the airline industry to make the long-term decisions needed to keep this critical sector of our economy healthy.

The airline industry is already under an enormous tax burden. Federal taxes imposed on the airlines include a 10 percent excise tax on airline tickets, a 6.25 percent excise tax on cargo shipments, a $6 per passenger international departure tax, special taxes to support customs, immigration, and agricultural inspection services, and a $3 passenger facilitation charge at many major airports. These taxes impose costs of $6.7 billion a year on an industry with total revenues of $64 billion a year.

Mr. Chairman, I urge continued commitment to the 2-year exemption during conference committee consideration of this provision.

Mr. BARCIA. Mr. Chairman, I came here following the 1992 election to do on the Federal level what I have done for my entire time in public service: serve the good people who elected me, make tough choices to secure a sound future, and make tough choices to guarantee a fair treatment for the people I represent. I came here to bring the discipline of a balanced budget, just like the one I followed as a member of the Michigan State Legislature, to Washington.

Since coming here, I have supported the balance budget amendment, and the line-item veto. I have voted for many spending cuts—over $900 billion in my first term.

Today, I find myself facing three choices. First, I can vote for the Republican budget plan which according to a recent New York Times poll only 12 percent of people believe will balance the budget, and which guts Medicare and other programs important to a significant number of people that I represent.

Secondly, I can support the Conservative Coalition proposal which responsibly lessens the impact on Medicare recipients by $100 billion, and which delays tax cuts until the budget is balanced, in line with what 60 percent of Americans believe should be the case.

Thirdly, I can find fault with both proposals, vote for neither, and accept responsibility for perpetuating budget deficits.

Clearly, this last alternative is unacceptable. The first option, slashing spending haphazardly like scissor-fingered Freddie in another "Nightmare on Elm Street" movie, is breaking faith with the many people in my district who believe that while spending should be cut, we should not take assistance away from those least able to absorb those losses. We should not expect seniors who have paid taxes all their lives to pay even more by losing benefits they cannot afford to lose.

As a result, I will vote for the Conservative Coalition proposal. It balances the budget in 7 years. It concentrates in eliminating waste, fraud, and abuse. It doesn't punish seniors like the Republican alternative does. It brings the debate from whether or not we should balance the budget to how do we balance the budget.

I came here to balance the budget. My vote today does just that.

Mr. JOHNSON of South Dakota. Mr. Chairman, we can balance the Federal budget without attacking education, the elderly, veterans and rural America—and for that reason, I must rise to express my strong opposition to H.R. 2491, the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation bill. I must also express my opposition to the parliamentary rules under which this legislation is being considered. Under the rule passed by this House, no amendments to the reconciliation bill will be allowed other than for one alternative which is a better but still flawed bill. In this way, the House is being asked to vote on drastic and unecessary reductions in Medicare and Medicaid, farm programs, education, VA and other vital concerns without any ability to cast a vote up or down on any of these issues.

It is time to get our priorities straight. I've been a strong supporter of a balanced budget amendment and line-item veto as well as for budget spending caps. But this bill raises income taxes on families making less than $30,000 per year, slashes our investment in education, cuts agricultural programs three deeper than is needed to balance the budget, and cuts Medicare three times deeper than is needed to stabilize the Medicare Trust Fund. If that weren't bad enough, this bill spends billions on defense weapon pork the Pentagon doesn't even want, and gives tax breaks that primarily benefit the wealthiest 1 percent of families.

A recent analysis from our Joint Committee on Taxation finds that under H.R. 2491, families making less than $10,000 per year will pay a cumulative $879 million more in taxes, while families making more than $200,000 per year will get a $2.8 billion tax cut. This amounts to a $43 billion tax increase for families making less than $30,000—51 percent of all taxpayers.

It is my hope that this bill is either defeated or vetoed by the President so that we can commence a meaningful bipartisan effort to balance the budget with sane priorities and values. I will continue to support tough choices on the budget, but I will absolutely not be a part of this reverse-Robin Hood budget effort. South Dakotans and the American public deserve better.

Mr. COSTELLO. Mr. Chairman, the process of this reconciliation bill is such that I have not witnessed during my tenure on the Budget Committee. First, over half of the committees did not meet their reconciliation instructions, as directed under the budget resolution, to submit them to the Budget Committee. This has been the most convoluted process since my tenure began on the Budget Committee. At the very least, the mark-up of the budget reconciliation bill should have been postponed until all spending measures were completed and received by the Budget Committee.

While I was disappointed with the process of reporting the budget reconciliation legislation, I also disagree with many parts of this enormous package. This month, the Census Bureau released data for 1994 showing the income-gap between the wealthy and all other Americans is large and still growing. I am disappointed but not surprised that the Republican leadership's agenda is to reinforce this growing disparity in economic equality. The $245 billion tax cut mostly coming from the $270 cut out of Medicare will benefit primarily wealthy Americans. More than 50 percent of the benefit of the tax cut will go to the less than 3 percent of households with incomes over $200,000. We must get our fiscal house in order before we dismantle critical programs to pay for a tax cut. I fully support a tax cut for American taxpayers; however, such relief should come after we reach a balanced budget. A tax cut that is financed on the backs of he elderly, poor and disabled in our society will not benefit our Nation. It is not good economic practice and it is clearly harmful public policy.

Finally, in addition to my opposition to Medicare and Medicaid cuts, I find it outrageous that this legislation would:

Repeal national nursing home standards which exist through Medicare, which provide patients a basic minimum of safety, care and training in nursing homes;

Repeal the spousal impoverishment provisions of Medicaid, which ensure that spouses of long-term care patients do not become impoverished when the spouse is institutionalized; and

Repeal of a program instituted in 1992 to keep the coal health benefits program solvent. Over 100,000 retired coal miners rely on this fund, which could be jeopardized with repeal of this program.

For these and other reasons, I urge my colleagues to vote no on the Republican reconciliation plan.

Mr. RICHARDSON. Mr. Chairman, this budget reconciliation bill will undermine our commitments to educate our children, provide incentives for hardworking Americans, preserve our environment and most importantly ensure health care for poor children and the elderly.

This bill makes drastic cuts in Medicaid funding.

My State will lose about 30 percent of its Medicaid funding. New Mexico will have $1 billion less to spend on Medicaid over the next 7 years.

Let me remind you that the program we are cutting by $170 billion in this bill provides health care to children and pregnant women, the disabled and elderly in nursing homes.

Let us be clear that voting for this bill means millions of Americans will have no health care—while millionaires will get a tax break.

I have supported and will continue to support balanced, reasonable, reforms in Medicaid—but I cannot support irresponsible cuts to finance a tax cut. I do not support decimating the program that provides a safety net for poor children, pregnant women, the disabled and nursing home patients.

This bill also sacrifices the quality of health care for 40 million elderly who depend on Medicare.

The hospital association in my State has identified 11 hospitals that they believe will close because of the drastic Medicare cuts in this bill.

Nothing, especially a tax cut for the wealthy, is worth sacrificing the health of our children and over 40 million elderly in this country.

Mr. BARRETT of Nebraska. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of the Republican Balanced Budget Reconciliation bill. I regret that meetings in my office prevented me from being on the floor earlier when Members on the other side of the aisle rose to denounce the agriculture title of this bill.

By passing this Reconciliation bill today, we are dramatically changing the 1930's depression-era-based Federal farm programs.

I believe that farm policy should be based on less government and free market principles; regulatory relief and simplification; aggressive, consistent export strategies; and fiscal responsibility.

The Freedom to Farm bill is the first step in accomplishing these goals.

This legislation provides for more planting flexibility, promotes full production, and allows farmers to manage their own businesses based on economic factors without government intervention.

Earlier this year, almost every political journalist questioned whether the New Republican majority would take a walk when it came to farm programs.

Well, as a part of this new majority, I'm proud that the Freedom to Farm bill meets the budget agreement target. Agriculture will do its fair share to help balance the budget by 2002 and the programs are indeed reformed.

By passing the Freedom to Farm provisions, the Republicans are saying good bye to the past—when Federal farm policies micro-managed farmers; and hello to the future—a future of world markets, and freeing farmers to seize the opportunities to capture these new markets.

I urge the body to support the Reconciliation bill.

Mr. UNDERWOOD. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to H.R. 2491, the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act. I have been on record on previous occasions opposing the changes to Federal programs that have an unfair impact on the elderly, students, and the working poor. I share the commitment to fiscal responsibility that other Members have, but I remain unconvinced that this bill is fair burden-sharing.

I also call attention to the provision which would eliminate covenant funding for the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands [CNMI]. This funding was amended in December 1992 by an agreement negotiated by the Bush administration and the CNMI. To eliminate the funding now, without renegotiating the agreement, is a serious breach of faith with the covenant. The word of the U.S. Government should mean something, and commitments made by a President, whether Republication or Democrat, should be honored by Congress.

During the reconciliation resolution markup in the Committee on Resources, I noted that Congress has other insular issues that demand attention and that require funding. This includes the Rongelap resettlement funding, compact-impact reimbursement for Guam and the Northern Marianas, and the capital infrastructure needs of American Samoa, the Virgin Islands, and other insular territories.

The conference report on the fiscal year 1996 Interior Appropriations (H.R. 1977) offers a compromise solution to these issues. It is a compromise solution that the insular territories can accept, and one that I support. However, this compromise is contingent on continued CNMI covenant funding, and proposes that funds be made available for these other needs while still honoring CNMI covenant commitments. The budget reconciliation provision for the CNMI funding would therefore not only harm the CNMI, but in making the compromise solution unworkable, also harms all the insular territories.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong opposition to this Republican reconciliation bill. After months of waiting for the majority to reveal its plans to balance the budget and finance a $245 billion tax cut, we finally have them in all its gruesome detail.

This bill does so much. The great majority of it bad. Even with the American people acknowledging that Republican legislative efforts disproportionately benefit upper income families and hurt those with lower incomes, the majority plunges on with cut after cut. There is no abating its destruction of anything that working Americans, the elderly, the children, and the poor hold so dear.

Let us begin with tax cuts. In the face of overwhelming evidence, Republicans refuse to back down from the huge tax cuts they are giving to corporations and wealthy individuals. This includes provisions which reduce taxes on capital gains, repeal the alternative minimum tax on corporations, increase business deductions, and give tax credits to upper income families. The majority of these tax cuts go to the heart of upper income America, as the U.S. Treasury Department has found.

Last week, the majority slashed $270 billion from Medicare which was incorporated into this reconciliation bill. As everyone knows, this cut was unnecessary for the Medicare Program to remain solvent. Its plan makes Medicare solvent only until 2006—exactly the same year as Democratic plans that only cost one-third as much. Why the extra cuts? To pay for a $245 billion tax break for the wealthy.

On the floor of the House, I hear Republican Members state that they were actually spending more per Medicare beneficiary. I heard them say that they were giving seniors more choices. But they never acknowledged the fact that seniors' premiums would increase by about $400. They grudgingly acknowledged that they would be herding our senior citizens into Health Maintenance Organizations [HMO's], thereby limiting choice of doctors.

The bill also guts the Earned Income Tax Credit [EITC]. Republicans have targeted the EITC for $23 billion in cuts. Savings also come from proposals to include Social Security and other retirement income as income for purposes of the EITC phaseout and increasing the EITC phaseout rate.

In the past, the EITC has been supported by both Democrats and Republicans as a program which promotes work over welfare and helps move or keep low-income working families out of poverty. President Reagan in 1986 called the EITC "the best antipoverty, the best pro-family, the best job creation measure to come out of Congress." As recently as this February, the EITC was praised by House majority leader Dick Armey for "rewarding work . . . without destroying jobs." Yet still they decimate this program.

These cuts hit my district particularly hard. The 48,647 families currently claiming the EITC in my district will face a tax increase of $7.4 million in 1996. Many of these families will no longer be able to qualify for the credit.

This bill also decimates the Medicaid Program. This bill cuts $182 billion from the Federal-State program that provides health insurance for the poor and disabled. H.R. 2491 replaces this important program with a capped block grant. States would receive a fixed amount of money with very few Federal requirements attached.

Texas would be profoundly impacted. My State could lose between $10 billion and $14 billion in Federal Medicaid funds between 1996 and 2002. Such losses will inevitably be passed along to local hospitals, nursing homes, doctors, and, ultimately, local Texas taxpayers.

In welfare reform, the cuts exacerbate the inequities that already exist. Currently, Texas has more than 7 percent of the U.S. population, yet receives less than 3 percent of the total U.S. expenditures on Aid to Families with Dependent Children. Michigan, with roughly half the population of Texas, gets twice as much Federal money for AFDC recipients as does Texas.

This situation would be made even worse under the current block grant proposals contained in this bill—the previously approved welfare reform legislation—H.R. 4. A preliminary analysis shows, for example, that block grant proposals for AFDC would hit Texas harder than any other State costing us $4.3 billion over 5 years. Michigan, at an average AFDC payment of $457 per month, and Wisconsin, at $517 per month, each pay their recipients two-and-a-half times as much as Texas, where the average monthly check is $188.

Yet, those and other high benefit States will receive more money under this bill, not less money—even though they have declining populations and higher per capital incomes.

While cutting welfare for the most needy, this legislation continues welfare for the rich. Under this legislation, companies would be allowed to withdraw excess funds from their pension plans without penalty. Currently, companies are required to fund pension plans at a minimum level but many experts consider this minimum inadequate. The penalty for withdrawal of excess funds protects workers pensions.

By letting companies put pension funding at risk, this bill undermines the security of workers pensions. Ultimately, this puts taxpayers at risk, as it is the taxpayer who gets stuck if pensions are not funded. In addition, this provision gives new opportunities to corporate raiders and takeover artists. Historically, corporate raiders have seen well-funded pension plans as a source of cash with which to finance the cost of a takeover. Congress imposed penalty taxes on these withdrawals not only to protect funds that belong to workers, but also to cut down on corporate takeovers and leveraged buyouts.

In the arena of education, the Republican reconciliation calls for student loan cuts of $10.1 billion over the next 7 years. This will mean fewer loans and fewer banks participating in the program. The student aid cuts follow already devastating cuts to this program. Student loans were cut by $477 million in 1986, $295 million in 1989, $2 billion in 1990, and $4.3 billion in 1993. This program has been cut by more than $7 billion in the past 10 years. And the Republicans want to cut it more.

The bill also terminates the very successful Direct Lending Program. This is the second student-aid program that House Republicans have voted to eliminate in the last 2 months. In addition, this bill also does away with the interest subsidy to college students during the first 6 months after a student leaves school. Eliminating this subsidy will increase students' costs by $3.5 billion, a pretty hefty tax on student borrowing. The provision ignores one of the principal reasons this 6-month grace period was put in the law in the first place: to help reduce potential defaults.

Proving that this bill is the anathema to the working class, the bill eliminates the Davis-Bacon Act and the Service Contract Act. Both these two pieces of law have served to protect workers in the service sector and the construction industries. In my congressional district of El Paso, the Davis-Bacon Act ensures that unscrupulous developers do not undercut wages paid to construction workers. Laws like Davis-Bacon and the Service Contract Act provide a stable foundation for workers in their respective industries. The savings from the repeal of these two laws come directly from the pockets of hard-working Americans.

I will tell you, Mr. Chairman, this bill leaves nothing untouched. Everyone knows about the provision to allow drilling in the Alaska National Wildlife Refuge which should be cause for concern. But do you know that this legislation also includes a hidden-away provision to remove the authorization for the Border Environmental Cooperation Commission? This organization, which was created by the NAFTA to work alongside the North American Development Bank to address environmental problems on both sides of the United States/Mexico border, is being tampered with in this bill. Funding for this agency would have to come from authorizations for other trade functions. Representing a portion of the United States/Mexico border, this affects my area of the country, Mr. Chairman. It makes me wonder if the majority carefully looks at what it is doing.

There are some good parts to this bill, Mr. Chairman. But the good far outweighs the bad. I have previously supported provisions like the $500-per-child tax credit, the elimination of the marriage tax, the raising of the Social Security earnings limit to $30,000, and the repealing of the 1993 tax increase on Social Security benefits.

Yet even with these good elements, the Republicans insist on giving some provisions a bitter edge. For example, people with incomes of up to $200,000 can claim the child tax credit. I submit to you, Mr. Chairman, that these are the last individuals that should be receiving this tax credit. Better that the child tax credit go to working families with two earners struggling to make ends meet. It is my hope that the Senate will reduce this high threshold.

Mr. Chairman, the President has already stated that he will veto this bill and I support him in that endeavor. I believe it is unconscionable to cut health care for the poor, slash student loans, and increase taxes on low income working families, in order to pay for these new tax breaks for the most privileged segments of society. It is my hope that the majority will come back with a budget balancing bill that is fairer and more equitable for the American people. This bill is not, and I cannot support it.

Mr. GEJDENSON. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong opposition to this far-reaching and destructive measure. This bill is perhaps the greatest transfer of wealth from the poor to the rich this country has ever experienced. This measure is a grab bag of giveaways to narrow special interests at the expense of the vast majority of our citizens, including seniors, middle class and low-income families, students, and the disabled. Among other things, this bill slashes Medicare by $270 billion, it abolishes Medicaid, Aid to Families with Dependent Children [AFDC], and the Department of Commerce, and contains numerous provisions attacking our most important and unspoiled natural resources. Each and every one of these provisions have been included in order to provide $245 billion in tax cuts to the wealthiest Americans and corporations. I urge my colleagues to carefully consider the ramifications of this measure. Indiscriminate cuts of nearly $1 trillion from the Federal budget will have tangible and profound adverse impacts on citizens and our economy in the near future and well beyond the arbitrary deadline of 2002. We can achieve substantial deficit reduction and move toward a balance budget without jeopardizing economic growth, income security and quality of life for tens of millions of Americans. If members consider these ramifications, they will join me in voting no.

While I have concerns about each and every title of this massive package, I will concentrate on several areas which are especially egregious to the people of eastern Connecticut and the Nation. The health care cuts contained in H.R. 2517 are extreme. With only one hearing, the Republicans have proposed a bill which cuts $270 billion from Medicare and $182 from the Medicaid Program. The reductions to these programs, which predominately serve seniors and low-income families with children, represent 50 percent of the total cuts in this bill. This is unfair.

It is ironic that the elimination of Medicaid has been included in the same piece of legislation as the "crown jewel" of the Republicans' Contract With America—a $20,000 tax break for the wealthiest Americans—because the Medicaid provisions break a contract between the government and the American people. This bill removes the Federal Government's guarantee of basic health care and long-term care services for uninsured, elderly, and disabled Americans.

The measure eliminates the current Medicaid Program and replaces it with State-controlled block grants called MediGrants. The bill also relaxes regulations on nursing homes, which currently ensure that patients receive appropriate care. Many of us remember the not-to-distant past when nursing home patients were unnecessarily restrained or heavily sedated against their will. This bill returns us to those dark ages of health care.

Perhaps the most appalling provisions of the bill, as approved by the House Commerce Committee, were two sections that repealed protections in current law regarding the families of nursing home patients. If Newt Gingrich had had his way, he would have permitted the Government to take away the homes of adult children in order to force them to pay for their parents' nursing home care. Mr. Gingrich would also have preferred to require the spouse of a nursing home resident to spend down his or her assets, including the individual's home, before the ill partner could be eligible for Medicaid coverage. Only after the Democrats in Congress exposed these cruel provisions and the public rebelled did the Republicans agree to remove them.

Further, this bill is bad for my State of Connecticut. Under the Republican's plan, Connecticut will lose between $1.6 and $3 billion in funding for Medicaid. Proponents of the legislation may claim that the increased administrative flexibility given to the States under this plan will generate enough savings to ensure that eligibility cuts will not be necessary. That is simply not true. On the contrary, in an independent analysis of the Republicans plan, the Urban Institute concluded that aggressive cost containment strategies employed by the States would not alone produce the savings needed to meet the $182 billion target.

In addition, H.R. 2517 contains provisions of the so-called Medicare Preservation Act which was considered by the House last week. I voted against this shortsighted legislation. While no one would argue that the Medicare program needs reforming to ensure the trust funds remain viable into the next century, there is significant disagreement surrounding the magnitude of cuts necessary to accomplish this goal.

Under the majority's plan, Medicare costs will go up. By the year 2002, the monthly premium will increase from the current $46.10 to $87. In addition, choice of doctors will be limited as a result of the financial incentives hidden in the bill which entice physicians to stop serving traditional Medicare patients.

Further, many provisions of current law designed to protect Medicare beneficiaries will be relaxed. If the Republican bill is enacted, under certain conditions, Medigap policies will be unregulated, insurance companies will be allowed to choose who they want to cover, and doctors will not be limited in the amount they can charge patients over the total amount that Medicare will pay for a procedure.

Title I, the so-called Freedom to Farm Act, fundamentally alters dairy policy in a manner which will be devastating to producers in my State and across the Northeast. While my mother, father, and brother continue to make their living on the family dairy farm, I raise these concerns on behalf of hundreds of dairy farmers across the second district. Under current law, 34 milk marketing orders, covering 99 percent of grade A milk produced in this country, help to guarantee farmers receive a minimum price for their product. The order system ensures efficient market operation and is administered at no cost to the Federal Government. No one in this body would argue the order system is perfect or without its detractors, but it has been reasonably successful in stabilizing markets for farmers and consumers.

Under this bill, marketing orders will be abolished on July 1, 1996. This will send the dairy industry into chaos, possibly disrupt supplies and drive down producer income. As most of my colleagues know, dairy farmers are not wealthy and struggle each and every year to make ends meet. Orders ensure that all farmers, regardless of whether their farm happens to be 10 or 100 miles from Boston, receive the same basic price for their product. Orders guarantee farmers with high production costs can compete with those who have easy access to feed and grain and are not faced with high tax burdens shouldered by most of my constituents. Certain producers in the upper Midwest argue the order system provides farmers in the Northeast and Southeast with unfairly high prices for their product. While the blend price in New England is higher than in the upper Midwest, the mailbox price, the price farmers actually receive when all expenses are deducted, was lower in New England in the first 3 months of this year than in virtually any other region of the Nation. While farmers in my area received a mailbox price of $11.89 per hundred weight, producers in the upper Midwest received $12.26.

Mr. Chairman, States will not be able to step in and replace Federal orders. As most economists will agree, markets do not respect political boundaries. Moreover, milksheds, which supply markets, often cover multiple States and are usually not served by single co-op. Moreover, orders are even more important in light of the fact that this bill eliminates price supports for milk at the end of this year. Interestingly, the bill maintains high price supports for peanuts and sugar. Economists familiar with the dairy industry have documented the interaction between price supports and Federal orders. Neither is sufficient to guarantee producers a fair return for their product, but together they help to ensure equitable prices are distributed to all producers.

Milk marketing orders represent a voluntary system, supported by producers and handlers, and financed by the industry which benefit farmers and consumers alike. By eliminating orders, this bill guarantees that farmers in my State will see their income reduced by nearly $7 million in 1996. This cut will be devastating to the rural economy as it will reverberate from producers to haulers, suppliers, and processors.

Title 9, written by Republicans on the Resources Committee, is among the most egregious. As ranking member GEORGE MILLER described during markup on September 19, this title represents an early Christmas present for miners, loggers, ranchers, multinational oil and gas interests, subsidized irrigators, and major concession operators. The American people won't find any presents under the tree, but plenty of coal in their stockings. This package affects virtually every aspect of our natural resource policy and benefits narrow special interest at the expense of the American people who own these resources and hope to enjoy their recreational, aesthetic, and economic benefits.

In spite of the fact that we import about 50 percent of our oil, title 9 contains the text of legislation passed earlier this year lifting the ban on exporting oil from Alaska. It makes absolutely no sense to me to lift the ban when we are unable to meet more than one-half of our energy needs. I wouldn't be surprised to see reports in a year or two about how Americans are buying oil from Japan which ultimately came from Prudhoe Bay.

In devastating attack on one of our Nation's most pristine and productive wildlife areas, the bill opens the coastal plain of the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge [ANWR] to oil and gas exploration. As many Members know, the coastal plain has been protected in one form or another since 1960 and serves as the primary calving ground for 160,000 caribou and provides vital habitat for polar bears, musk oxen, and snow geese. This measure forces the Secretary of Interior to begin leasing tracts in ANWR within 12 months of enactment. While the coastal plain encompasses 1.5 million acres, the Secretary is barred from setting aside more than 30,000 acres—merely 2 percent of the total area—to protect important habitat. Virtually every environmental law is suspended and public comment is sharply curtailed. In fact, the bill deems an outdated environmental impact statement [EIS] prepared by the Reagan administration "to be adequate and legally sufficient for all actions authorized pursuant to this section, including all phases of oil and gas leasing, exploration, development, production, transportation, and related activities." This language is so sweeping that it insulates every action from the first lease sale to transportation of oil to tankers from environmental review and any mitigation measures not mentioned in the EIS. This provision is even more alarming because the Fish and Wildlife Service [FWS] recently updated the EIS and determined oil and gas exploration will have serious negative effects on caribou and other wildlife species, water quality and the arctic environment in general.

While the environmental consequences of this provision are devastating, the financial provisions should also cause Members concern because they are built like a house of cards. The bill assumes oil and gas leasing will generate $1.3 billion in revenue over 7 years. This figure is based on the Government receiving 50 percent of all lease and royalty income. However, the Alaska Statehood Act guarantees the State 90 percent of all revenue from oil and gas activities. The committee leadership was well aware of the 90 to 10 split when it crafted this provision. The State has made it clear it will go to court to enforce the split set forth in the Statehood Act. If the State is successful, the American people will receive only $260 million for opening this national treasure to the oil barons.

This title includes numerous provisions for special interests which threaten environment and fail to generate any appreciable revenue. It bars the Secretary of Interior from implementing reasonable grazing reform designed to protect sensitive environmental areas and ensure the American people receive a fair return on the use of their resources. In its place, it includes language which virtually guarantees Federal grazing fees will not increase and is completely devoid of any environmental standards.

It incorporates sham mining reform which gives taxpayers the "shaft." Overwhelming majorities of this body have voted repeatedly to eliminate patenting. In fact, the conference report on the Interior appropriations bill was recently sent back to committee because it failed to include a moratorium on patenting. While proponents of this bill will tell you patenting has been reformed by requiring miners to pay "fair market value," they fail to inform Members this term is based on the value of the surface estate and specifically excludes consideration of the minerals below. Desert land in the middle of nowhere isn't worth much more than $5 per acre if one fails to consider the gold, silver, and platinum which lies below the surface. Proponents will tell Members their approach includes a Royalty which will generate revenue for the taxpayers. They fail to mention there are 13 deductions, including the cost of insurance for employees and environmental compliance, which can be taken before the royalty is assessed. The CBO determined this royalty would not generate any revenue for the Federal Government. Once again, the taxpayers take a hit while miners get a great deal.

In one small victory for the American people, Budget Chairman KASICH stripped the text of H.R. 260, which is designed to close national parks, monuments, and recreation areas, from this package. I worked very closely with the gentleman from New Mexico, Mr. RICHARDSON, and the gentlemen from New Jersey, Mr. PALLONE, to remove this ill-conceived measure from the bill. As many of my colleagues know, the House defeated H.R. 260 by a vote 180 to 231 on September 19. However, about 6 hours later, several Republican members on the Resources Committee offered it as an amendment to the reconciliation bill. This was a blatant attack on the will of the majority and could not be allowed to stand. I believe Chairman KASICH's action demonstrates majority rule is still the most important rule of the House.

In perhaps the most blatant example of legislative "trophy hunting," title 17 abolishes the Department of Commerce by September 30, 1996. In an attempt to score cheap political points, the majority is eliminating the only Department which is aggressively working to open foreign markets, create new business opportunities at home, and prepare our economy for the challenges of the 21st century. This action is completely contrary to the national interest because it threatens the competitive position of this country. If this title is enacted into law, the United States will be the only developed country in the world without a cabinet-level agency responsible for trade promotion and development. Once again, extremists in the Republican Party are putting the narrow interest of some freshman Members ahead of the interests of the American people.

This title abolishes the Economic Development Administration, U.S. Travel and Tourism Administration [USTTA], International Trade Administration, and many other smaller, but worthwhile, programs. Many of the proposed terminations and transfers make no sense from a policy process or fiscal perspective. The EDA assists thousands of communities nationwide in developing infrastructure necessary to support economic growth and job creation. While combining the trade promotion functions of Commerce with the trade enforcement functions of the U.S. Trade Representative may appear to make sense, in fact, proponents of this approach are forcing the Trade Representative to carry out functions which are inherently at odds. Eliminating the USTTA is among the most shortsighted provisions of this bill. Tourism is our largest service export and generated a trade surplus of $21.6 billion in 1994. Travel and tourism is America's second largest employer, providing 14.3 million direct and indirect jobs. In addition, it generated $417 billion in sales last year. While governments of other nations around the world are aggressively promoting tourism, this provision undermines of competitive position in the global market place.

Moreover, this title guts the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration [NOAA] by terminating many nationally significant programs and scattering remaining NOAA functions across the Federal Government. Under these provisions, research of vital importance to our coastal communities, fishermen and every American will be eliminated or sharply curtailed. Cuts in NOAA will hinder our efforts to rebuild fisheries in New England, the Pacific Northwest, and the Gulf of Mexico, assess the implications of global warming on coastal communities and curb pollution of the marine environment.

I am also terribly concerned about the vicious attacks on Federal employees in this legislation. The bill raises employee contributions to their retirement systems and delays cost-of-living adjustments. The Government promised Federal workers adequate health and retirement benefits when they chose to enter the civil service. Federal employees have upheld their end of the contract by serving their country. It's wrong for the Government to now suddenly change the terms of the agreement in order to pay for tax cuts for the wealthy.

Republicans say they can save $10 billion from student loan programs. Cutting out programs and raising interest rates may look good on paper, but the real effects on American families will be very different.

Changes in student financial aid programs will be devastating to middle-class Americans trying to send their children to college. It is an outrage that the Direct Loan Program is being legislated out of existence just when hundreds of additional schools were ready to help ease the bureaucratic nightmare for students and their parents. The real beneficiary of direct loan's demise is not the American people, but the banking industry that was beginning to feel some competition.

The elimination of the grace period will not result in the savings projected by the Republicans. After graduation, it often takes at least 6 months to find a permanent position. Without the grace period, many students will start out unable to begin repaying their loans. As the unpaid debt continues to accumulate, the likelihood of default increases.

Limiting the PLUS Loan Program to a fixed amount per child will force many parents to take out loans from other sources. Many will have to resort to home equity loans at very high interest rates. Families with several children may be burdened beyond the breaking point, leaving huge debts and no means to provide for younger children. Under the current program, parents could be confident that, even if other forms of aid were unavailable, PLUS loans would enable their children could go to college.

Finally, the "crown jewel" of the bill—$245 billion in tax cuts—is a windfall for the rich and large corporations. The wealthiest 1 percent of our citizens, those making more than $350,000 per year, will see their taxes reduced by more than $14,000 per year. At the same time, 70 percent of the American people will see their taxes go up or stay the same. Perhaps the greatest injustice is visited on those people at the bottom of the economic latter, the working poor who are struggling to do the "right" thing by working to support themselves and their families, will see their taxes increase due to massive reductions in the earned income tax credit. The 150 page tax section of this bill reads like a wish list for corporate America: 50 percent capital gains reduction, 25 percent corporate alternative tax for capital gains, and repeal of corporate alternative minimum tax. These provisions are "Robin Hood" in reverse—they take from the poor and give to the rich.

Mr. Chairman, this package sets the wrong direction for this country. It fails to invest in our future, it jeopardizes the health of millions of senior and low-income Americans, and it provides unnecessary tax breaks to the wealthiest among us at the expense of the least fortunate. Moreover, many of its revenue assumptions are based on rosy scenarios or simple delusions which will never materialize. As a result, the American people will be left with the fallout of failed policies as well as empty pockets. Republicans are hurtling along this devastating course because they signed a contract with themselves to achieve certain arbitrary goals and deadlines set forth in an election year stunt. Rather than admitting that election year rhetoric should not be the basis for our economic and social policy into the next century, Members of the majority are repeating over and over "the contract says, the contract says." I urge may colleagues to consider the unprecedented effects of this measure and defeat it.

Mr. RUSH. Mr. Chairman, I rise today to address the most egregious assault on the American people by the Republican majority to date. It comes in the form of the budget reconciliation package. We have seen the missiles fired throughout the year. Medicaid has been cut by $182 billion. Medicare has been cut by $270 million. Ironically, the Republicans have proposed a tax cut for the wealthiest Americans at a cost of $245 billion. Now that the enemy has pillaged these areas, they now seek to launch an all out offensive on any and all areas that serve the needs of American people.

The great injustices of history have been committed in the name of unchecked and unbridled majority rule. The Framers of the Constitution warned us about the tyranny of the majority. Their fears have become reality. This bill is tyranny in the truest sense. Programs which assist people in achieving some of the goals we relish as a society are under attack. Affordable housing programs within the RTC and FDIC have been terminated. Student loans have been cut by $10 billion. As the Republicans march along to achieve their ultimate victory—a tax cut for the wealthiest of Americans—the safety net for the rest of America is being pulled from under them. The earned income tax credit, which helps the poorest of Americans will be reduced by 18 percent. Keep in mind, that individuals who receive EITC have an average salary of $11,000. The Republican majority has turned its back on the people who chose them to represent their best interests. This measure is tantamount to thievery—the theft of the sanctity of the American people.

Mr. STOKES. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong opposition to H.R. 2491, the 7-year balanced budget reconciliation act of 1995. The Republican championed budget, H.R. 2491, is firm evidence that there is no end to their attack on the weakest in our society—children and seniors. There is no question that they and their families will be worse off under the Republican budget. H.R. 2491 is just one in the series of—Republican escalating assault, after assault, on the children and seniors of this Nation, and is consistent with the majority's sentiment that the American peoples' knees would buckle once they knew what cuts the Republicans would make.

H.R. 2491 takes away families' hope, takes away their opportunity for a better life, and takes away their ability to achieve the American dream. In return, the Republican measure burdens them with endless suffering, pain, and despair. What an astronomical price the American people are being forced to pay just to give a tax break to the rich. Keep in mind that this price tag has been levied on the American people by a self-proclaimed family friendly—promises made promises kept touted—Republican majority Congress.

Let's be up front with the American people. Tell them exactly what H.R. 2491 is taking away from them, their parents, their children, and their family. The hardship that is buried in the nearly 1,600 page coldhearted Republican championed budget, H.R. 2491, is one nightmare that should never see the light of day.

In addition to dismantling Medicare, gutting it by $270 billion, doubling seniors health care premiums, forcing seniors to give up their personal physician, and denying seniors nursing home care and nursing home protection, the Republicans' budget repeals Medicaid and guts the program by $182 billion. The guaranteed coverage for basic health and long-term health care for 36 million poor children, poor pregnant women and infants, and seniors is taken away. Coverage for elderly with Alzheimer's; and coverage for women with breast cancer is taken away. Where can they turn for health care services when under the Republicans' Medicaid Block Grant the States are permitted to deny and ration coverage by geographical area or political subdivision, and the safety net is shattered?

The Republican budget destroys children's opportunity for a good education and restricts their academic achievement. H.R. 2491 takes away Head Start from 180,000 disadvantaged children; takes away basic assistance in reading and math from over 1 million disadvantaged children; deprives over 32 million students the safety of a drug-free and violence-free classroom; denies summer jobs to over 600,000 students each year; and saddles college students and their families with higher college loans.

The Republican budget jeopardizes the health of millions of children. H.R. 2491 takes away health care for over 4 million needy and disabled children; threatens hundreds of thousands of children's receipt of critical immunizations by repealing the vaccines for children program; threatens the availability of school lunches and other nutritious meals for 32 million hungry children; takes away vital prenatal infant mortality prevention services from 1 million women; and exposes children to hazardous waste, toxic air, lead poisoning, contaminated drinking water, and unsafe housing.

The Republican budget erodes the quality of life for millions of families. H.R. 2491 drastically reduces the earned income tax credit for 17 million low income working families; increase taxes for families with two or more children by an average of $483; forces over 2 million families to go hungry by taking away their food stamps; takes away heating assistance from 6 million children and their families; reduces dislocated worker assistance and employment training; denies families with disabled children the assistance they desperately need; denies housing assistance to hundreds of thousands of needy hard working families; and places millions of hard working families at risk for homelessness and domestic abuse.

The Republican budget weakens the Nation's economy. The abolishment of the U.S. Department of Commerce jeopardizes the Nation's effectiveness in the world trade market, reduces jobs and venture opportunities, and drastically reduces minority business development opportunities.

Mr. Chairman, is there no end to the Republicans' attack on the most vulnerable in our society? What could poor little innocent children, frail and weak seniors, and hard working families have done to warrant the Republicans' coldhearted attack? How much more will the Republicans take away from children and seniors in order to pay for a tax break for the wealthy? Let's stand up for the needs of those who cannot defend themselves, and for those who entrust us with their future—the children, seniors, and hard working families. I strongly urge my colleagues to join with me in voting against the Republicans' callous assault. Vote no to H.R. 2491.

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Chairman, I am deeply concerned about the process the House has followed in considering the Omnibus Reconciliation bill. Those concerns are outlined in my statement before the Committee on Rules on this bill.

I believe that this process represents an unprecedented attach on this institution. I hope my colleagues will keep in mind the concerns outlined in my statement during consideration of this bill.

STATEMENT OF THE HON. LEE H. HAMILTON BEFORE THE COMMITTEE ON RULES ON H.R. 2517, THE OMNIBUS RECONCILIATION BILL

Mr. Chairman, Mr. Moakley, and other members of the Committee on Rules, I appreciate the opportunity to appear before you on H.R. 2517, the omnibus reconciliation package.

I am here today because I am troubled by the pattern of abuse of the legislative process that has been developing during this Congress. This bill exemplifies that abuse.

Now I know that reconciliation bills under Democratic majorities were not pure. Problems with the process have been growing over the years, given that the original reconciliation bill dealt with $8 billion, and today we cannot even estimate the total sums both "reconciled" and authorized in this package.

This reconciliation bill enters a new universe in its breadth, the sheer number and complexity of proposals, and the extent to which committees of jurisdiction—and thus, all Members of the minority—were shut out of developing this package.

The reconciliation package contains three large items and several smaller provisions that fall within the jurisdiction of the International Relations Committee.

First, H.R. 2517 contains a major legislative proposal dramatically changing the configuration of the Commerce Department. The Committee has jurisdiction over international trade issues, so the dismantlement of the Commerce Department causes great concern. The Committee never considered the measure.

Second, this bill "deems" enacted the entire foreign affairs agencies' reorganization bill. Action has not yet been completed in the Senate.

Third, the bill contains the text of H.R. 927, the Cuban Liberty and Democratic Solidarity Act, approved by the House last month. This bill was altered substantially by the Senate, and should be scheduled for conference.

The purpose of a reconciliation bill is to bring direct spending in line with the targets set by the budget resolution. Among the many problems with this bill, these items in the jurisdiction of the International Relations Committee have nothing to do with budget reconciliation. These items will cost money.

Quite simply, this is the wrong way for the House to go about its business.

PROBLEMS WITH THE PROCESS

(1) This process places enormous power in the Leadership, who will consult only with those persons and groups they want to include.

The Committee is bypassed, an entire House of the Congress is bypassed. All decisionmaking about the issues occurs behind closed doors in a group formed by the leaders of the majority. Final decisions are made by the Speaker. You have created a largely secret system.

This is a system which reduces accountability. It is an entirely closed process. The average American has no way of learning which Members are involved, which special interest groups are consulted or locked out, and what positions Members have taken on a proposal until it is too late and the House has voted.

Many members of both parties with significant expertise were simply not welcome to contribute to the process.

(2) This process bypasses and undermines the entire committee system.

When the Chairman decides to waive consideration of bills that are central to the committee's jurisdiction, most Members—including, all Members of the minority—are shut out. The Commerce proposal is a case in point. Our Committee had no role in developing that proposal. We held no hearings on this proposal, there was no debate, we had no markup, no amendments were permitted, we did not vote. We defaulted on our responsibilities.

The Committee is also stripped of its responsibilities when items that is has considered and moved through the House are included in the reconciliation package. Moving the Committee's foreign affairs reorganization bill or the Cuba bill through the reconciliation bill removes the Committee from meaningful participation in a conference. It puts these major foreign policy bills into a conference with a mix of 1000 other domestic items. The substance of these bills will not likely be discussed in a reconciliation conference.

In the last Congress, Republicans and Democrats working on congressional reform talked about streamlining, modernizing, rationalizing, and enhancing the committee system. Congressman Dreier and I worked many long hours on these issues. But we did not talk about what has come to be in this Congress: bypassing committees on major policy issues.

(3) This process produces a monster bill.

This bill is simply overwhelming. What we have before us—all 1754 pages—is not really the entire bill. It does not yet include the Medicare package. There are several other bills that are hundreds of pages themselves—such as H.R. 1561 and the welfare reform package—that this bill incorporates by reference.

This reconciliation package will include that majority votes in committees rejected. The "Freedom to Farm" bill, for example.

It includes bills the bulk of which the House has rejected, such as the mining patents and national park concessions proposals.

It includes bills such as the Cuba bill, that have passed the House and Senate in very different forms. There is every reason to send this bill to conference under regular process.

It includes bills—for instance, the Commerce proposal—created by a task force made up only of Members of the majority party, after committees have reported out different measures and some committees—such as the International Relations Committee—were apparently instructed by the Leadership not to act at all.

(4) This process will include a tightly constrained rule.

Reconciliation bills traditionally impose severe constraints on time for debate and the opportunity to amend. You will undoubtedly prescribe a restrictive rule, a rule designed to keep the package intact.

The Senate accords only 20 hours of debate (12 minutes per Member) on the bill. In this bill, that means just over one minute per page.

We have had only a few days to digest this enormous bill. And the contents of the bill we take up on the floor are anyone's guess—I expect your rule will include significant "self-executing" changes.

We will probably know even less about the contents of the reconciliation conference report before we must vote on it.

(5) This process is not defensible because the ends do not justify the means.

I understand that the current Leadership has a very different view of the committee system. If the Leadership is driven only by outcome then process is irrelevant. Having the votes at the end of the day is all that matters.

I believe that the essence of democracy is process, and that the end does not justify the means, the means is as important as the end.

That means a process that guarantees that all Members will have an opportunity to be heard, even if they do not have the chance to prevail.

It means a process that allows every Member to offer amendments and to vote, and every constituent to track how their representative has voted as a bill winds it way from committee, to the floor, to conference, and to the President.

It means a process that allows those who have spent time developing expertise in a particular area to have a seat at the negotiating table.

Eliminating consideration by committees, by one House, silencing voices, reducing the number of people at the negotiating table may get bills through the House faster. You may get bills out of conference more quickly. But in the end we will not get better laws. And we will erode the foundations of this institution.

CONCLUSION

We are subverting the entire legislative process here, decision by decision. We are taking bills to the Floor that have not been written or even considered by the committees of jurisdiction and expertise.

Protecting the committee system in this House should not be a partisan issue. Safeguarding the legislative process is not partisan.

For these reasons, I urge you to support Mr. HALL's efforts to strip the foreign affairs reorganization provisions from H.R. 2517. I would also support any efforts to strip the Commerce and Cuba provisions from this bill.

And I ask that you think very seriously about the entire way you're planning to move this reconciliation package. Subverting the legislative process does a grave disservice to this body, and to the American people.

Mr. TOWNS. Mr. Chairman, make no mistake about the measure before us today. It is a major setback for nursing home care in this country. In my district alone, cuts in Medicaid will result in a $32 million loss to just Cobble Hill Nursing Home, and that figure is just for one nursing home.

Not only are the cuts devastating to nursing homes, the elimination of minimum care standards add insult to injury. These standards were passed in 1987 precisely because of widespread abuse, neglect and indecent conditions in the Nation's nursing homes. Under this bill, all these protections are wiped out:

Gone are the curbs on misuse of physical restraints and abuse of drugs;

Gone is the requirement for round-the-clock licensed nursing services;

Gone is the prohibition against evicting patients on financial reasons. Patients now will be subject to eviction or transfer from nursing homes after their private funds have been depleted and before Medicaid assumes payment.

And finally, this bill contains no guarantee of healthy, appropriate meals.

There is not question that nursing home care will return to the dark ages. Mr. Chairman, if we can not protect "those who are the least of these," like nursing home residents, then who can we protect?

Mr. RICHARDSON. Mr Chairman, this budget reconciliation bill will undermine our commitments to educate our children, provide incentives for hardworking Americans, preserve our environment, and most importantly ensure health care for poor children and the elderly.

This bill makes drastic cuts in Medicaid funding.

My State will lose about 30 percent of its Medicaid funding. New Mexico will have $1 billion less to spend on Medicaid over the next 7 years.

Let me remind you that the program we are cutting by $170 billion in this bill provides health care to children and pregnant women, the disabled and elderly in nursing homes.

Let us be clear that voting for this bill means millions of Americans will have no health care—while millionaires will get a tax break.

I have supported and will continue to support balanced, reasonable, reforms in Medicaid—but I cannot support irresponsible cuts to finance a tax cut. I do not support decimating the program that provides a safety net for poor children, pregnant women, the disabled, and nursing home patients.

This bill also sacrifices the quality of health care for 40 million elderly who depend on Medicare.

The hospital association in my State has identified 11 hospitals that they believe will close because of the drastic Medicare cuts in this bill.

Nothing, especially at tax cut for wealthy, is worth sacrificing the health of our children and over 40 million elderly in this country.

Mr. BILBRAY. Mr. Chairman, as county supervisor in 1994, I asked the Clinton administration to declare a Federal emergency over illegal immigration in San Diego County.

That year my county reduced its contract with UCSD Medical center to provide emergency services to indigent patients by 50 percent or a total of $5 million.

The Board of Supervisors implemented this reduction based on estimates that half of the indigent patients receiving emergency care at UCSD were illegal immigrants, and that these costs should not be the burden of local government.

President Clinton, who denied my request to declare a state of emergency in 1994, is now threatening to veto our balanced budget package.

He should think long and hard about denying hospitals funds to ensure that they can keep providing services to our most vulnerable citizens.

His veto threat particularly jeopardizes California hospitals keeping their emergency room doors open to everyone.

President Clinton allocated only $150 million in his budget to States nationwide for health care for illegal immigrants.

The 7 year Balanced Budget Reconciliation Act, contains funding to reimburse hospitals for health care which they are required to provide to illegal immigrants.

An approximately $3 billion trust fund will be made available to States most severely impacted by illegal immigration; California will receive the largest share since it has the highest population of illegals in the Nation.

What we have created is a pot of money to pay hospitals for the services the Federal Government requires them to provide.

It is unprecedented. Previously, the State and local governments and hospitals have borne the responsibility for the Federal Government's failure to secure our borders.

Now, for the first time, hospitals will send the bill for illegal immigrants health care where it rightfully belongs: to Washington, DC.

What we have seen in California is a direct consequence of the Federal Government's failure to secure our borders.

Our ability to provide health care to our poor and disabled citizens is being jeopardized by the increasing costs of providing health care to illegal aliens.

I would point to Los Angeles County health care system's near collapse as an example of the strain providing care to illegal immigrants places on emergency rooms already stretched beyond their resources.

An estimated 96,000 babies will be born to undocumented women covered by Medi-Cal, California's Medicaid program, at a cost of $230 million in medical bills this year.

Because hospital workers are prohibited by law from asking a patient's immigration status, these costs are absorbed and paid for out of other parts of the hospital's budget.

An increasing share of these dollars must cover the costs of California's large, and growing, illegal immigration population.

The trust fund we are creating today represents the first time that Congress accepts that providing emergency health care services to illegal immigrants is a Federal responsibility, not a State responsibility.

Past Congresses have failed in this regard.

Today, we take the first step toward addressing this problem. I look forward to working with Speaker GINGRICH and Senator DOLE as we toward reconciling the differences between the House and Senate budget bills and allocating California, and other States, their fair share of these funds.

WILSON, BILBRAY ASK CLINTON FOR DECLARATION

(By Michael J. Williams)

SAN DIEGO.—First District Supervisor Brian Bilbray, with the support of Gov. Pete Wilson, on Thursday called for President Clinton to declare a federal emergency over illegal immigration in San Diego County.

The demand, made at a press conference at the UCSD Medical Center, comes in the midst of publicity surrounding a wave of Cuban immigrants to Florida.

The flood of immigrants inspired Florida Gov. Lawton Chiles to declare a state of emergency and mobilize National Guard troops in his state.

But illegal immigration into San Diego County is as chronically heavy as Florida influxes like the Mariel boat lift in 1980, said Bilbray, the Republican candidate for the 49th Congressional District.

According to Bilbray, the influx of Cubans and Haitians to Florida's shores pales compared to the wave of immigrants crossing the international border into San Diego County.

"There are 500 people a day coming into Florida, the governor declared an emergency and the president responded," Bilbray said in an interview following the press conference. "We've got three times that number every night. If you're going to hold the line in Miami, doggone it, we're part of the country too."

In the press conference, Bilbray announced that he intends to ask his colleagues on the Board of Supervisors on Sept. 20 to adopt a resolution declaring a state of emergency.

The resolution also asks the governor to seek federal interdiction of illegal immigrants at the border and reiterates a demand of reimbursement to the state and county for the cost of providing services to illegal immigrants.

"The president said that the days of ignoring this problem are over with," Bilbray said. "He's doing it in Miami, and he ought to be doing it in California. We have the just right to make sure our resources are being used to stop illegal aliens and drugs from crossing the border here."

Wilson, who is campaigning to keep his gubernatorial seat, stated his support for the resolution, which echoes demands he made of the federal government earlier this year.

Immigrant rights advocates have decried the demands as campaign tactics and disputed the claims that immigrants are costing the state billions of dollars in health and social services.

BILBRAY PRESSES ONWARD

WANTS AGGRESSIVE APPROACH TO HALTING ILLEGAL IMMIGRATION

(By Michael J. Williams)

SAN DIEGO.—Despite a rebuff from the Clinton administration, county Supervisor Brian Bilbray said Friday he will continue demanding a declaration of emergency over illegal immigration here.

Bilbray said it was hypocritical for the Federal Government to reject the county Board of Supervisors' demand, while honoring a similar demand made recently by Florida Gov. Lawton Chiles in response to the flight of Cubans to his State. The government used the Navy, Coast Guard and other agencies to stop Cubans trying to sail to Florida on rafts.

"We're supposed to be grateful for what they did in Florida?" Bilbray asked. "We deserve the same attention that they have given down there. We may be 3,000 miles away, but we're citizens too. It's like rubbing salt in the wound to those of us who have to live with the illegal-immigration problems."

After county supervisors approved their resolution with the support of Gov. Pete Wilson, Attorney General Janet Reno responded Wednesday with a letter to the governor rejecting the county's plea.

Reno said the Clinton administration has already taken steps to address the county's and state's problems with illegal immigration through Operation Gatekeeper, a plan she announced last weeekend.

Under that plan, the federal government would allocate hundreds of additional Border Patrol agents to the Southwestern borders, place high-powered lights at the border, install a fingerprinting system to detect illegals, launch a crackdown on immigrant smugglers and add 110 new inspectors at border entry ports.

Additionally, Reno announced the state will be reimbursed for $130 million in immigration costs.

"I don't argue that they're starting to move in the right direction," said Bilbray, who is running for Congress in the South Bay. "What I argue is that they're approaching this with a double standard—they're using a slow, methodical approach to the border here, when they used an aggressive, dynamic approach in Florida. We have three times the amount of illegal immigration that Florida has."

Reno also suggested the county can receive federal emergency immigration funding without a formally recognized declaration of emergency.

Though the county has without success sent a $64 million bill to the White House for the estimated cost of providing services to illegal immigrants, there has been no response to date, said Assistant Auditor and Controller William Kelly.

Reno said in her letter that neither the state nor the county has applied for the funds through her office, which is authorized to distribute them. Kelly said he is preparing to send out a new bill, this time directly to Reno.

Meanwhile, the county's declaration has fueled indignation from the Mexican foreign ministry.

The ministry sent a letter Wednesday to Bilbray stating that the county's tactic will damage relations between the two countries and undermine the campaign against racism and xenophobia in California.

Bilbray said he was surprised and shocked by the response.

CASE STUDIES

In October 1994, a 19-year-old male was crossing the border to visit his children, who live with their mother in San Diego. Witnesses state he was hit by a border patrol vehicle, but the Border Patrol denies responsibility. The man has been in a coma at UCSD Medical Center ever since. He has been denied Medi-Cal because he is not a resident. His family in Mexico has retained an attorney and refuses to allow transfer of the patient to a facility in Mexico. They are suing the Border Patrol. As we have pursued legal authorization to transfer the patient, we have provided over $400,000 in care for which there is no funding.

A patient of unknown age was struck by an automobile and admitted in October 1994. No liability was acknowledged by the driver, and the patient has a closed head injury and cannot provide information about herself. It appears that the individual was homeless and living in an encampment. The patient was referred to the Medi-Cal program, and the case approved at the end of February for long-term care only. Since the patient was unable to validate residence to obtain Medi-Cal coverage for hospital charges incurred up until her discharge in March, there is not funding for hospital charges of over $345,000.

An undocumented immigrant who is a 27-year-old quadriplegic with a tracheal tube was granted legal status as Prucol (Patient Residing Under Cover of Law) so that the patient could be cared for in a Skilled Nursing Facility (SNF) and receive Medi-Cal benefits. At some point, the benefits granted under Prucol status were reduced so that while SNF and inpatient hospitalization would be covered, physician services would not. The SNF which had been providing care transferred to the patient to USCD Medical Center, and now refuses to take the patient back because of the curtailment of Medi-Cal to cover the physician fees. The patient remains at UCSD while we investigate alternatives. So far, charges total $215,180.

A 24-year-old Ethiopian with a large facial mass arrived in the United States with a valid passport, supposedly after making arrangements with a local physician for treatment prior to leaving Ethiopia. Somehow, the contact with the community physician was never made, and the patient was admitted to UCSD with complications arising from the tumor. UCSD has treated the patient and is facilitating ongoing care with the City of Hope. There is no funding for charges of $62,141.

UCSD MEDICAL CENTER

ILLEGAL IMMIGRANTS: AN UNFUNDED MANDATE

The issue of undocumented immigrants using publicly funded services has become a subject of intense public and political debate. The problem was brought into focus during the 1994 election year. Proposition 187 was on the California ballot, and the issue of illegal immigration became a campaign theme for many seeking election or re-election.

For hospitals like UCSD Medical Center, the primary issue is one of funding. Control of the borders is clearly the purview of the Federal Government. Who has the responsibility for these individuals once they are in the United States is another question.

State and federal laws require hospitals to provide emergency treatment to all individuals, regardless of their ability to pay, or their legal status. This includes trauma care, labor and delivery for women giving birth, and appropriate assessment, treatment and follow-up for children and adults with emergency medical needs.

Of ethical and professional importance to physicians is the Hippocratic Oath, taken upon graduation from medical school, which includes the vow that ". . . The health and life on my patient will be my first consideration . . . I will not permit consideration of race, religion, nationality, ideology, or social standing to intervene between my duty and my patient . . ."

As a trauma center serving a region that extends south to the U.S./Mexico border; as a hospital that traditionally provides care to a large percentage of the county's indigent patients; and as a facility housing specialized services such as the San Diego Regional Burn Center and Infant Special Care Center, UCSD Medical Center has assumed a large share of the burden of caring for undocumented immigrants. While numbers are estimates based on assumptions reached from evaluating patient records:

An estimated 3,600 inpatients at UCSD Medical Center in 1994 were undocumented aliens, or approximately 17 percent of total inpatients. About 84 percent of these were undercompensated; others were eligible for some form of support or were able to pay for their care.

Of all undocumented immigrants admitted to UCSD Medical Center in 1994 through the emergency room, trauma or some other service mandated by state and federal law, 99 percent were undercompensated patients.

Of all undercompensated illegal immigrants admitted to the Medical Center in 1994, 85 percent were admitted through the emergency room, trauma, or through some other service mandated by state and federal law. The others were admitted through various mechanisms; for example, for follow-up to a previous emergency visit.

In 1993, UCSD provided inpatient care costing between $27 million and $37 million to undocumented persons; $11 million to $15 million was not reimbursed.

In 1994, the County of San Diego reduced its contract with UCSD to provide emergency services to indigent patients by 50 percent, or a total of $5 million. The Board of Supervisors implemented this reduction based on County staff estimates that half of indigent patients receiving emergency care at UCSD Medical center were illegal immigrants, and that these costs should not be the burden of local government.

Bilbray Fights Illegal-Immigrant Care Plan That Would Stiff Hospitals

(By Stephen Green)

When Rep. Brian Bilbray, R-Imperial Beach, served on the San Diego County Board of Supervisors, he didn't mince words in telling President Clinton that the federal government should pay the entire cost of providing services to undocumented immigrants.

During a trip to San Diego, Clinton readily agreed, saying the county should just sent the tab to Washington.

Taking Clinton up on his offer, county officials calculated a bill totaling about $1 billion and mailed it to the White House. The amount, Bilbray recalled, represented the annual cost of providing medical, criminal justice and other public services to undocumented immigrants in San Diego County.

While Clinton may have agreed in principle, the bill never was paid. California's politicians still are trying to get the federal government to reimburse the state for the impact of illegal immigration.

Now, Bilbray, along with his colleagues in the House of Representatives from California and other border states, has won a modest victory concerning the long sought federal compensation.

The Medicaid reform bill produced by the House Commerce Committee would do something, for the first time, about the cost to states and local governments of providing emergency medical services to undocumented immigrants.

In California, emergency medical services to undocumented immigrants make up a sizable chunk of the state's Medicaid costs, Bilbray said.

As now written, the legislation recently approved by the Commerce Committee would exempt states from having to match—as they do now—the federal Medicaid money that goes to provide emergency medical services to undocumented immigrants.

So, on the surface, the bill to revamp the federal medical insurance program for the poor would seem to be a big money saver for California and the other states adversely affected by illegal immigration.

But there is a catch—and it's likely to be expensive.

The portion of hospitals' costs of giving emergency medical care to undocumented immigrants that now is financed by the states' contributions to Medicaid would have to be made up from someplace else.

As matters now stand, it appears that local hospitals would be stuck with the portion of the bills that heretofore have been picked up by the states.

That would translate into higher hospital costs, which probably would mean increasing the cost of hospital care for nonindigent patients.

House Commerce Committee Chairman Thomas J. Bliley Jr., R-Va., credits Bilbray and other panel members from California, Texas and Florida for gaining approval of the provisions easing the impact of illegal immigration on state finances.

But Bilbray is far from satisfied, saying the issue of costs to the hospitals must be addressed.

"I am continually hounding the federal government as the biggest deadbeat in the county," Bilbray said.

A meeting of House Republicans from California authorized Bilbray to continue the fight for complete reimbursement for emergency medical services.

Bilbray, who addressed the GOP delegation about the problem, said he and the two other GOP Commerce Committee members from the state—Reps. Carlos J. Moorhead of Glendale and Christopher Cox of Newport Beach—will carry the ball.

"I got all the support in the world from other delegation members to hang tough," Bilbray said.

When Medicare comes to the House floor as part of the omnibus budget reconciliation bill, Bilbray hopes to offer an amendment that would require the federal government—and taxpayers nationwide, not just Californians—to pick up the entire tab for the cost of emergency medical services to undocumented immigrants.

But Bilbray expects to have a key ally in this battle in the person of another Californian—Rep. David Dreier, R-San Dimas.

As a senior member of the House Rules Committee, Dreier will have a lot to say about the format for the Medicaid reform debate on the House floor.

Even if Bilbray is able to offer an amendment, there is no assurance it will be approved. But it seems a breach in the resistance to federal compensation finally has been made in the Medicaid reform bill. Other openings many follow.

It is the federal government's own failure to enforce the immigration laws that has resulted in fiscal adversity for California. It is clear to Bilbray and his allies that the federal government has an absolute obligation to remedy the problem that it has created.

Mr. TAUZIN. Mr. Chairman, while I am in support of chapter 2 (FCC Authorization) of subtitle A in title III of H.R. 2491, the Seven-Year Balanced Budget Reconciliation Act of 1995, I would like to bring to the attention of my colleagues three concerns in the statutory language which I hope will be addressed in conference with the Senate.

First, section 3017, giving the FCC the authority to reject tariffs, in whole or part, would disserve the public interest as it would inhibit the introduction of new services, impede competition, and complicate the FCC's processes by adding an additional unnecessary layer of regulation. Carriers seeking to introduce new services would be hesitant to introduce new services if the FCC were to put tariffs on public notice, invite opposition, and then reject them. Authority to reject part of a tariff, while requiring the carrier to continue to offer the service, is contrary to the concept of carrier-initiated rates.

This process of public notice and comment (including oppositions) before a service can be provided is followed with respect to section 214 applications. The section 214 process significantly inhibits telephone company provision of cable services; this provision would extend a similar obstacle to all common carrier services. This obstacle would similarly impede competition by slowing the introduction of services designed to respond to competition, and giving competitors an opportunity to use and/or abuse Commission processes and impose costs on other competitors.

This tariff rejection authority is unnecessary to protect ratepayers. The Communications Act already provides for hearings as to the lawfulness of new rates, terms, and conditions; rates found unlawful can be suspended, and subject to an accounting order at the beginning of such proceedings. See 47 U.S.C. § 204(a),(b). If the rates are later found to be unlawful, the accounting order permits refunds to be made. Notice and comment proceedings as to the lawfulness of tariffs add nothing to this ratepayer protection, and create an additional regulatory burden.

Secondly, in part because the Commission can order refunds for rates found to be unlawful, it is unnecessary to give the Commission authority to order refunds for rule violations which may affect rates, as proposed by section 3018. Additionally, since there is no rate element necessarily involved nor an accounting order associated with application of rules to a particular rate, calculation of the impact on rates of any of the violations described (e.g., violations of depreciation and other accounting rules), is likely to be difficult and arbitrary. The provision essentially appears to serve as a device by which the Commission can intimidate carriers. This type of device is particularly unnecessary since common carriers are already subject to substantial forfeitures of $100,000 for each violation—up to $1,000,000. See 47 U.S.C. § 503(a)(2)(B).

Finally, the legislation would amend section 503(b)(6) of the Communications Act of 1934 (section 3023) to extend the statute of limitations on forfeitures, and permit the Commission to impose forfeitures on common carriers even when discovered five years after the fact. This provision, intended to permit the Commission to impose forfeitures for rule violations discovered during audits, is unnecessary for two reasons. First, direct review of rates which would be affected by such violations is already available, as described above. Therefore, this provision adds little in the way of ratepayer protections. Additionally, such discriminatory treatment of common carriers is unwarranted.

The statute of limitations applicable to other entities subject to forfeiture authority is one year. It would be unnecessarily discriminatory to extend the period to five years for common carriers alone. Moreover, we recommend that the forfeiture authority itself be revised to end unnecessary discrimination against common carriers.

Presently, section 503 of the Communications Act provides that broadcasters are subject to potential forfeitures of $25,000 for each violation, other parties $10,000, while common carriers are subject to potential forfeitures of $100,000. The legislative history of this provision suggests that the increased authority for common carriers was intended to permit the FCC to impose meaningful fines, in proportion to the size of the violator. Yet, there is no reason to discriminate between large non-common carriers, e.g. Time Warner (subject only to a $10,000 maximum) and small telephone companies (subject to a $100,000 maximum) on that basis. Accordingly, section 503 should be amended to provide for a single dollar maximum for any type of entity—the FCC would still be permitted to tailor the fine as appropriate.

Additionally, we recommend that rather than being permitted to assess penalties for violations of the FCC-prescribed rate of depreciation, the FCC should not have the authority to regulate depreciation. In a competitive environment, carriers will need to depreciate assets at faster rates than allowed by the FCC. Under price regulation, a carrier has no incentive to depreciate assets faster than appropriate, since any additional booked costs do not permit the carrier to obtain a corresponding rate increase.

Mr. Speaker, I look forward to working on these issues in the next few weeks.

Mr. OXLEY. Mr. Chairman, I rise today in strong support of the Seven-Year Balanced Budget Reconciliation Act of 1995. As the name implies, this package of reforms outlines a clear path to a balanced budget in the year 2002. We promised the American people that we would bring the budget to balance in 7 years, and today we plan to deliver on that promise.

While balancing the budget in itself is an admirable and worthwhile goal, our bill does much more. These provisions, taken as a whole, mark a clear shift in power from Federal bureaucrats to families, States, and communities, who know what works best for them. I had the opportunity myself to vote in Committee on many of the provisions included in the bill, and I commend my colleagues for their fine work in constructing the other reforms included in this bill.

I would like to outline some of the major items included in our bill.

As many already know, the Medicare trustees reported last April that unless Congress takes "prompt, effective and decisive action," Medicare will go bankrupt in 2002. Consequently, House Republicans have passed the Medicare Preservation Act of 1995, which has been included in this bill. This legislation will bring Medicare back onto solid financial ground by infusing it with the innovation and efficiency found in many private health plans. By giving seniors a wide choice of options, while maintaining traditional Medicare as one option, and by cracking down on waste, fraud, and abuse, we can ensure a strong Medicare Program well into the future.

Another major highlight of this legislation is the $245 billion tax cut for American families. As included in the Contract With America, our bill includes a $500 per-child tax credit, a reduction in the capital gains tax, and a repeal of President Clinton's 1993 tax on Social Security benefits. While President Clinton promised tax relief for the middle-class, and subsequently delivered the largest tax increase in American history, our bill delivers on our promise of needed tax cuts.

This package also incorporates the Personal Responsibility Act of 1995, as passed by the House earlier this year. Simply stated, welfare has become a way of life for far too many recipients. By making it easier to collect a handout than to work, the current system has destroyed individual initiative and actually perpetuated poverty. A Contract With America priority, this pro-work, pro-family bill will reform our welfare system by providing a helping hand, not a handout, to the millions of Americans caught in this dead-end trap.

As some may know, the cost of Medicaid has been growing at the uncontrollable rate of nearly 10 percent a year, and eating up one-fifth of State budgets. Our bill includes Medicaid reform that will provide more money, fewer bureaucrats, and greater protections against fraud and abuse. With the help of our Nation's Governors, Republicans have developed a plan to block grant Medicaid funds to States in the form of new MediGrants. Given this new flexibility States will be able to design innovative, cost-effective programs targeted toward their specific needs and populations.

In our continuing effort to make Government both smaller and more efficient our bill includes language, which I personally shepherded through the Commerce Committee, to abolish the Department of Commerce. While our bill will maintain the Department's legitimate functions, such as the census and statistical recordkeeping functions, we eliminate the unnecessary and duplicative functions for an estimated $7 billion in savings.

Another issue that I was personally involved with was the spectrum auction. Our bill will expand the auction to raise an additional $15.3 billion over 7 years. Having been an early proponent of the spectrum auction, I am pleased that revenue raised by auctioning radio spectrum, which was previously given away for free, will now be used to balance the budget.

Other meaningful reforms included in our bill include: The creation of tax deductible personal medical savings accounts, the closing of corporate tax loopholes, public housing reforms to eliminate duplicative programs, terminating the overly bureaucratic and costly Direct Student Loan Program, and the adoption of a taxpayers' bill of rights.

I believe that it is time for these reforms, because the American people deserve more than higher taxes and a bigger, more bureaucratic Federal Government. This bill represents much more than your average yearly spending reconciliation plan, it represents a blueprint for the future. Under our plan Americans will have more in the family budget, greater control over the workings of their Government, and the peace of mind that their children and grandchildren will live in a debt-free America full of opportunity.

Mr. DOYLE. Mr. Chairman, I rise today in opposition to H.R. 2425, and to speak on behalf of our communities, hospitals, and the health of today's and tomorrow's senior citizens. If we are to bring about Medicare reform which will prove to be truly beneficial, we must first reach a consensus that reforms must achieve specified goals without creating new, more difficult problems.

In the Pittsburgh area alone, there are seven hospitals which would face almost certain shut-down as a result of these proposed cuts. This situation is certainly exacerbated by the elimination of disproportionate share payments to these hospitals. It is neither prudent nor logical to make devastating cuts to Medicare in such an arbitrary fashion. The sound thinking, hard-working people of western Pennsylvania and across this country will tell you that putting the cart before the horse will get Medicare nowhere fast.

It has been documented that both proposals we are considering today, H.R. 2425 and the Democratic alternative, will result in the Medicare trust fund being put on sound financial footing through the year 2006. However, the Democratic alternative saves $90 billion, all of which is put back into the Medicare system, while H.R. 2425 cuts $270 billion, far more than is necessary, simply to help pay for huge tax cuts we cannot afford.

A recent national poll shows that 72 percent of those polled oppose Medicare cuts being made to pay for tax breaks. One has to question how making major cuts to Medicare in a quick fix effort to fund tax breaks could be construed by anyone as fiscally conservative.

I urge my colleagues to oppose the ill-conceived and reckless cuts called for in this bill which will not only shake the current foundation, but will cause irreparable damage to the health of American senior citizens in the future.

Mr. WOLF. Mr. Chairman, I rise on behalf of the American family, America's children, and restoring the American dream and will support budget reconciliation which will bring our burgeoning budget deficit into balance by the year 2002 and provide needed family tax relief. This is the right thing to do.

Consider this. According to the Joint Committee on Taxation, a child born today will have to pay $187,000 in his or her lifetime in interest on the national debt. That money won't be spent on education, nutrition, medical research, national defense, or roads. Rather, our children will be forced to pay for the present generation's profligacy. That is unfair; it is unwise; and it offends traditional notions of justice.

For all the things the 104th Congress will do, this is the most important. We are at a historic crossroads, and I will choose the path of lower interest rates, lower taxes, and job creation, thereby preserving America's greatness for present and future generations. It is time to end the gluttonous consumption of America's precious and scarce resources. We can ill afford the relentless spending and borrowing binge of the past which mortgages the future of America's most precious resource—her young people—because we are unwilling to exercise restraint needed to forego immediate gratification.

We have a solemn duty to provide a better world for future generations. Will Allen Dromgoole, in his poem "The Bridge Builder," describes an old man's effort to cross a river flowing through a vast, deep, and wide chasm. Even though the old man never had to repeat the treacherous journey, he built a bridge over the river. A fellow traveler asked the old man why he was wasting his strength building a bridge he would never use. The builder lifted his old gray head and responded:

There followeth after me today
A youth, whose feet must pass this way.
This chasm, that has been naught to me,
To that fair-haired youth may a pitfall be.
He, too, must cross in the twilight dim;
Good friend, I am building the bridge for him.

Mr. Chairman, I implore all Members to be like the selfless bridge builder and vote for this legislation which will build a bridge to a better world for those who follow.

Mr. WELLER. Mr. Chairman, I come to the well today to speak in favor of the Republican plan to allow seniors to increase their earnings without being penalized. Senior citizens made this country strong with their long and arduous labors year in and year out. They taught me and my generation how to profit from a strong work ethic. Yet, we need to stop punishing them for their desire to remain active. We need to recognize that many seniors want to work longer. We need to reward those who continue to work or operate a business. We can no longer force them to choose between an active and productive life and Social Security benefits.

Under current law, seniors between the ages of 65 and 69 lose $1 in benefits for every dollar they earn over $11,160. This earnings test amounts to an additional 33 percent marginal tax rate. This marginal rate is on top of the taxes they already pay on their earnings. This draconian test punishes seniors who want to work beyond the age of 64.

It is unconscionable that in times of shrinking fiscal resources at the Federal level, that we would punish seniors who seek to remain financially independent. With so severe an earnings limit we essentially force them to become more reliant on Government spending and congressional action. Such an unhealthy reliance undermines the self esteem of seniors and makes the governing role of Congress more difficult.

Our proposal today, would raise the earning potential of seniors to $30,000 over 5 years and more immediately they can earn $15,000 beginning on January 1, 1996. This change goes a long way to providing equity to the hard working seniors of this great country and I am proud to be associated with it.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. Chairman, Republicans have not only targeted the sick, disabled, elderly, and women in this Congress, but now they are targeting children. Children do not have a voice in the legislature, but trust us to protect their interests. This Congress has betrayed that trust by waging an all-out war on children in the budget.

The battle has been waged on a number of different fronts: health care, disabled assistance, education, nutrition, and social safety nets.

In Texas, Medicaid coverage for as many as 206,641 children will be eliminated under Republican proposals by 2002. Currently, 20 percent of all children in Texas rely on Medicaid for their basic health needs. Medicaid pays for immunizations, regular checkups, and intensive care for about 1,407,000 children in Texas.

There are 148,287 El Pasoans who are eligible for Medicaid. Of those eligible, approximately 57,000 are children between the ages of 1 and 14.

The Republican budget also repeals the Vaccines for Children Program, putting at risk at least $1.5 billion over 7 years that would otherwise provide immunizations for children in Texas and across the Nation. In the last few years, El Paso has been the site of several outbreaks of serious diseases such as tuberculosis and hepatitis. Without vaccines for contagious diseases, the health of the border region would be in great danger.

Children with disabilities are at risk as well. The Republican welfare plan denies as many as 54 percent of all disabled children in Texas SSI cash benefits in 2002.

Texas education programs are vitally important to sustain a good economy, and my Republican colleagues are set on destroying our educational system. In Texas, Head Start would be denied to 12,512 children in 2002 under the Republican budget. The cuts would also deny title I funding to 100,100 children in Texas.

Not only are we reducing funds in assisting education, but we are reducing the ability of administrators to keep their schools safe. The Republican budget cuts funding to the Safe and Drug Free Schools Program which supplies funding to 1,043 out of 1,053 school districts in Texas who use the money to keep crime, violence, and drugs away from the children in their schools.

Not only does the budget limit the opportunities students have, but it limits the opportunities they will have outside of school when they try to enter the work force. The budget will deny approximately 3,000 young people in Texas the opportunity to serve their community through AmeriCorps. And over 7 years, the Republican budget eliminates summer jobs for 297,437 youths in Texas.

In this family friendly Congress Republicans are picking and choosing what type of families they want to help. For example, the Republican welfare bill cuts foster care and adoption for vulnerable Texas children by $359.5 million over 7 years and eliminates cash assistance for 5,260 children in Texas simply because they were born to unmarried mothers under 18. Additionally, assistance would be cut to 222,000 children in Texas simply because their paternity has not been established.

The effort to balance the budget should not include an unnecessary and harsh attack on children and their interests. They are the future of this country and we must treat them as assets, not liabilities.

Mr. FATTAH. Mr. Chairman, I oppose this heinous attempt by the Republican majority to balance the budget at the expense of the Nation's elderly. This hysteria surrounding the mandate to balance the budget in 7 years is nothing short of a hoax being perpetrated on the American people to conceal the true Republican agenda. If the Republicans were so interested in balancing the Federal budget, would they be proposing a royalty holiday for major oil producers, many of whom are not even American companies? If the Republicans were truly interested in balancing the Federal budget, would they be proposing the elimination of the guaranteed minimum tax on corporations? Does it make sense to propose a $242 billion tax cut if your objective is to balance the budget? How many of the American people know that the debate over balancing the budget is being conducted in an environment where half the budget isn't even on the table?

The result, Mr. Chairman, is that we have a program to revise Medicare which, like the entire Republican program, is regressive in the extreme. It gives special breaks to doctors; it increases premiums for people who can least afford it; it distorts medical financing systems, particularly of hospitals that serve the poor; it sets up dynamics that could lead to the concentration of the poorest and least healthy people in the most inadequate coverage. The Republicans have maintained that the premiums of the poorest elderly will continue to be paid, but this is just another deception. The very program which is responsible for paying these premiums is being eliminated under the Republican Medicaid reform package.

Nothing could make the true Republican intent more clear than an analysis of their approach to Medicare reform. If they had been concerned about protecting the health options of the elderly, they would have pursued comprehensive health care reform. The Republican agenda has nothing to do with protecting Medicare, or with balancing the budget. It has to do with making good on campaign promises to corporations. It has to do with eliminating, on every conceivable front, our social obligation to invest in our people. It has to do with vitiating the very meaning of this democracy. It has to do with tearing at the fabric of our social institutions so that those at the bottom of heap, who can least fend for themselves—our children, our elderly, our poor—have no chance of improving the quality of their lives. It is about redistributing the resources of our country to those that already have plenty so that they can get more.

H.R. 2425 is a bad bill. It does not address the broader issue of health care reform; it places unnecessary burdens on the elderly and the poor; it devastates medical training facilities, and is mainly a financial vehicle to balance the budget while reducing taxes for the affluent. We can do better for the elderly, we can do better for our future as a democratic society. I urge my colleagues to consider who we are to be become as a people before they vote on this measure, because it is that question that this bill puts to the test.

Mr. NEY. Mr. Chairman, as the House debates a budget reconciliation I would like to give my support to the provisions in the bill renewing generalized system of preferences [GSP] duty-free import program. This program was designed as a way to help less developed nations export into the U.S. market. the GSP Program allows duty-free imports of certain products into the U.S. from over 100 GSP-eligible countries. The bill wisely provides that import-sensitive products are not to be subject to GSP treatment. Ceramic tile is a clear example of an import sensitive product and is exactly the type of product which should not be subject to lower tariffs under the GSP Program.

Imports have dominated the U.S. ceramic tile market for the last decade and they currently capture nearly 60 percent of the market. This extraordinary level of import penetration is a result, in part, of over 30 years of documented unfair predatory foreign trade practices including dumping, subsidies, customs fraud import diversion, and abuse of a loophole in the GSP. The American ceramic tile industry, though relatively small, is efficient and competitive at normal tariff levels.

From its inception in the Trade Act of 1974, the GSP Program has provided for the exemption of "articles which the President determines to be import-sensitive." In light of the history of unfair trade in ceramic tile and the significant and growing import participation in the U.S. ceramic tile market, the U.S. industry has been recognized by successive Congresses and administrations as import sensitive, dating back to the Dillon and Kenney rounds of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade [GATT]. During this period the American ceramic tile also has been forced to defend itself from over a dozen petitions filed by various designated GSP-eligible countries seeking duty-free treatment for ceramic tile into this market. If just one petitioning nation succeeds in gaining GSP benefits for ceramic tile, then by law, every GSP beneficiary country is also entitled to GSP duty-free benefits for ceramic tile. If any of these petitions were granted, it would eliminate American tile jobs and could destroy the industry.

A major guiding principle of the GSP Program has been reciprocal market access. Current GSP eligible beneficiary countries supply almost one-third of the U.S. ceramic tile imports and they are increasing their sales and market shares. U.S. ceramic tile manufacturers, however, are still denied access to many of these foreign markets. Many developing countries maintain exclusionary tariff and nontariff mechanisms which serve to block the entry of U.S. ceramic tile exports into these markets. Industrial countries, including the European Union [EU], may use less transparent methods such as discriminatory product standards and testing methods to control their ceramic tile imports and, in some cases, to divert ceramic tile manufactured in third countries over to the U.S. market by imposing restrictions on those third country exports to the EU.

I am in support of the reauthorization of the GSP Program and trust that import-sensitive products such as tile will not be subject to GSP.

Mr. LUTHER. Mr. Chairman, I rise today in support of the substitute to the budget reconciliation bill. My reasoning can be summed up in three simple words: Cut Spending First.

The people of my district sent me to Washington to change the way this place operates and to get this country's finances in order. President Clinton and most of the new Members of this body were sent here to do the same thing.

Today's votes are far from the final chapter in this book. But as we go through the conference committee process with the other body and negotiations with the White House, I believe we should be guided by the substitute reconciliation bill before us today.

The substitute bill balances the budget by 2002, makes spending cuts first, accumulates $50 billion less in debt, and turns away from the notion of borrowing more money to pay for new tax breaks. It spreads the pain of balancing the budget more evenly and sets up a budget process that more strongly guarantees that we will in fact balance the budget and avoid the tragic mistakes of the past.

Mr. Speaker, it is time to end the partisan wrangling that goes on in this Chamber and build a genuine consensus for balancing the budget in the right way.

Thanks to the contributions of many, the question is no longer, "should we balance the budget?", but rather "how should we balance it?" The President is now suggesting that the 7-year time frame for balancing the budget makes sense. Let's join together as Democrats and Republicans and build on this fundamental change in attitude.

Mr. Speaker, I believe the eventual budget resolution for the American people can be based upon many of the elements of the substitute bill before us today. I urge my colleagues to support it

The CHAIRMAN. No further amendment is in order except the further amendment in the nature of a substitute consisting of the text of H.R. 2530, which may be offered only by the gentleman from Missouri [Mr. GEPHARDT] or his designee, is considered read and debatable for 1 hour, equally divided and controlled by the proponent and an opponent of the amendment and is not subject to amendment.

Subtitle B—Sugar

SEC. 2201. EXTENSION AND MODIFICATION OF SUGAR PROGRAM.

(a) Assurance of Sugar Supply.—Section 206 of the Agricultural Act of 1949 (7 U.S.C. 1446g, et seq.) is amended to read as follows:

"SEC. 206. ASSURANCE OF SUGAR SUPPLY.

"(a) In General.—The price of each crop of sugar beets and sugarcane, respectively, shall be supported in accordance with this section.

"(b) Sugarcane.—Subject to subsection (d), the Secretary shall support the price of domestically grown sugarcane through loans at 18 cents per pound for raw cane sugar.

"(c) Sugar Beets.—Subject to subsection (d), the Secretary shall support the price of each crop of domestically grown sugar beets through loans at the level provided for refined beet sugar produced from the 1995 crop of domestically grown sugar beets.

"(d) Adjustment in Support Level.—

"(1) Downward adjustment in support level.—

"(A) In general.—The Secretary shall decrease the support price of domestically grown sugarcane and sugar beets from the price determined for the preceding crop, as established under this section, if negotiated reductions in export subsidies and domestic subsidies provided for sugar of the European Union and other major sugar growing, producing, and exporting countries ('major countries') in the aggregate exceed the commitments made as part of the Uruguay Round Agreements.

"(B) Extent of reduction.—The Secretary shall not reduce the support price under this section below a level that provides an equal measure of support to that provided by any other major country or customs union based on an examination of both domestic and export subsidies subject to reduction in the Agreement on Agriculture referenced in 19 U.S.C. 3511(d)(2).

"(C) Major countries.—For purposes of this subsection, the term 'major countries' includes all countries allocated a share of the tariff rate quota for imported sugars and syrups by the United States Trade Representative pursuant to additional U.S. note 5 of chapter 17 of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule, all countries of the European Union, and the People's Republic of China.

"(2) Increases in support level.—The Secretary may increase the support level for each crop of domestically grown sugarcane and sugar beets from the level determined for the preceding crop based on such factors as the Secretary determines appropriate, including changes (during the 2 crop years immediately preceding the crop year for which the determination is made) in the cost of sugar products, the cost of domestic sugar production, the amount of any applicable assessments, and other factors or circumstances that may adversely affect domestic sugar production.

"(e) Loan Type; Processor Assurances.—

"(1) In general.—Subject to paragraph (2), the Secretary shall carry out this section through the use of recourse loans.

"(2) Modification.—During any fiscal year in which the tariff rate quota for imports of sugar into the United States is set at, or is increased to, a level that exceeds the minimum level for such imports committed to by the United States under the Agreement on Agriculture contained in the Uruguay Round of Agreements of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, the Secretary shall carry out this section by making available nonrecourse loans. Any recourse loan previously made available by the Secretary under this section during such fiscal year shall be modified by the Secretary into a nonrecourse loan.

"(3) Processor assurances.—In order to effectively support the prices of sugar beets and sugarcane received by the producer, the Secretary shall obtain from each processor that receives a loan under this section such assurances as the Secretary considers adequate that, if the Secretary is required under paragraph (2) to make nonrecourse loans available, or modify recourse loans into nonrecourse loans, each producer served by the processor will receive the appropriate minimum payment for sugar beets and sugarcane delivered by the producer, as determined by the Secretary.

"(f) ANNOUNCEMENTS.—In order to ensure the efficient administration of the program under this section and the effective support of the price of sugar, the Secretary shall announce the type of loans available and the loan rates for beet sugar and cane sugar for any fiscal year under this section as far in advance as is practicable.

"(g) LOAN TERM.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in paragraph (2) and subsection (h), loans under this section during any fiscal year shall be made available not earlier than the beginning of the fiscal year and shall mature at the end of 3 months.

"(2) EXTENSION.—The maturity of a loan under this section may be extended for up to 2 additional 3-month periods, at the option of the borrower, upon written request to the Commodity Credit Corporation. The maturity of a loan may not be extended under this paragraph beyond the end of the fiscal year.

"(h) SUPPLEMENTARY LOANS.—Subject to subsection (d), the Secretary shall make available to eligible processors price support loans with respect to sugar processed from sugar beets and sugarcane harvested in the last 3 months of a fiscal year. Such loans shall mature at the end of the fiscal year. The processor may repledge the sugar as collateral for a price support loan in the subsequent fiscal year, except that the second loan shall—

"(1) be made at the loan rate in effect at the time the second loan is made; and

"(2) mature in not more than 9 months less the quantity of time that the first loan was in effect.

"(i) USE OF COMMODITY CREDIT CORPORATION.—The Secretary shall use the funds, facilities, and authorities of the Commodity Credit Corporation to carry out this section.

"(j) MARKETING ASSESSMENTS.—The following assessments shall be collected with respect to all sugar marketed within the United States during the 1996 through 2003 fiscal years:

"(1) BEET SUGAR.—The first seller of beet sugar produced from sugar beets or sugar beet molasses, or refined sugar refined outside of the United States, shall remit to the Commodity Credit Corporation a nonrefundable marketing assessment in an amount equal to 1.1794 percent of the loan level established under subsection (b) per pound of sugar marketed.

"(2) CANE SUGAR.—The first seller of raw cane sugar produced from sugarcane or sugarcane molasses, shall remit to the Commodity Credit Corporation a nonrefundable marketing assessment in an amount equal to 1.1 percent of the loan level established under subsection (b) per pound of sugar marketed (including the transfer or delivery of the sugar to a refinery for further processing or marketing).

"(3) COLLECTION.—

"(A) TIMING.—Marketing assessments required under this subsection shall be collected and remitted to the Commodity Credit Corporation within 30 days of the date that the sugar is marketed.

"(B) MANNER.—Subject to subparagraph (A), marketing assessments shall be collected under this subsection in the manner prescribed by the Secretary and shall be nonrefundable.

"(4) PENALTIES.—If any person fails to remit an assessment required by this subsection or fails to comply with such requirements for recordkeeping or otherwise as are required by the Secretary to carry out this subsection, the person shall be liable to the Secretary for a civil penalty up to an amount determined by multiplying—

"(A) the quantity of sugar involved in the violation; by

"(B) the loan level for the applicable crop of sugarcane or sugar beets from which the sugar is produced.

For the purposes of this paragraph, refined sugar shall be treated as produced from sugar beets.

"(5) ENFORCEMENT.—The Secretary may enforce this subsection in the courts of the United States.

"(6) REGULATIONS.—The Secretary shall promulgate regulations to carry out this subsection.

"(k) INFORMATION REPORTING.—

"(1) DUTY OF PROCESSORS AND REFINERS TO REPORT.—All sugarcane processors, cane sugar refiners, and sugar beet processors shall furnish the Secretary, on a monthly basis, such information as the Secretary may require to administer sugar programs, including the quantity of purchases of sugarcane, sugar beets, and sugar, and production, importation, distribution, and stock levels of sugar.

"(2) DUTY OF PRODUCERS TO REPORT.—In order to efficiently and effectively carry out the program under this section, the Secretary may require a producer of sugarcane or sugar beets to report, in the manner prescribed by the Secretary, the producer's sugarcane or sugar beet yields and acres planted to sugarcane or sugar beets, respectively.

"(3) PENALTY.—Any person willfully failing or refusing to furnish the information, or furnishing willfully any false information, shall be subject to a civil penalty of not more than $10,000 for each such violation.

"(4) MONTHLY REPORTS.—Taking into consideration the information received under paragraph (1), the Secretary shall publish on a monthly basis composite data on production, imports, distribution, and stock levels of sugar.

"(l) SUGAR ESTIMATES.—

"(1) DOMESTIC REQUIREMENT.—Before the beginning of each fiscal year, the Secretary shall estimate the domestic sugar requirement of the United States equal to Total Estimated Disappearance minus the quantity of sugar that will be available from carry-in stocks.

"(2) TOTAL DISAPPEARANCE.—For the purposes of this subsection, the term "Total Estimated Disappearance" means the quantity of sugar, as estimated by the Secretary, that will be consumed in the United States during the fiscal year (other than sugar imported for the production of polyhydric alcohol or to be refined and reexported in refined form or in sugar containing products) plus the quantity of sugar that would provide for adequate carryover stocks.

"(3) QUARTERLY REESTIMATES.—The Secretary shall make quarterly reestimates of sugar consumption, stocks, production, and imports for a fiscal year no later than the beginning of each of the second through fourth quarters of the fiscal year.

"(m) DEFINITION OF MARKET.—For purposes of this section, the term 'market' means to sell or otherwise dispose of in commerce in the United States (including, with respect to any integrated processor and refiner, the movement of raw cane sugar into the refining process) and deliver to a buyer.

"(n) CROPS.—This section shall be effective only for the 1996 through 2002 crops of sugar beets and sugarcane.".

"(1) ESTABLISHMENT.—The national poundage quota for peanuts for each of the 1991 through 2002 marketing years shall be established by the Secretary at a level that is equal to the quantity of peanuts (in tons) that the Secretary estimates will be devoted in each such marketing year to domestic edible and related uses. Beginning with the 1996 marketing year, the Secretary shall exclude seed uses from the estimate of domestic edible and related uses, but shall include the estimated quantity of peanuts and peanut products to be imported into the United States for the marketing year for which the quota is being established.".

"(ii) CONDITION ON ALLOCATION.—The allocation of quota pounds to producers under this subparagraph shall be performed in such a manner so that such allocation will not result in a net decrease in the farm poundage quota for a farm in excess of 3 percent, after temporary seed quota is added, from the basic farm quota in 1996. Such decrease shall occur one time only and shall be applicable to the 1996 marketing year only.

"(iii) TERM OF PROVISION.—Application of this subparagraph may continue so long as doing so does not result in increased cost to the Commodity Credit Corporation by displacement of quota peanuts by additional peanuts in the domestic market, increased losses in the Association loan pools, or other such increases in cost.

"(B) LEASE OR RELEASE OF QUOTA.—Such farm poundage quota shall also be considered produced on a farm if the farm poundage quota was either leased to another owner or operator of a farm within the same county for transfer to such farm for only 1 of the 3 marketing years immediately preceding the marketing year for which the determination is being made or the farm poundage quota was released voluntarily under paragraph (7) for only 1 of the 3 marketing years immediately preceding the marketing year for which the determination is being made. Peanuts transferred under this paragraph shall be supported at a total of not less than 70 percent of the quota support rate for the marketing years in which such transfers occur and such transfers for a farm shall not exceed 25 percent of the total farm quota pounds, excluding pounds transferred in the fall.".

"(iii) QUALIFIED ASSOCIATION.—In this part and section 1805, the term 'qualified association' means an association, religious fraternal organization, or other organization (which may be a trade, industry, or professional association, a chamber of commerce, or a public entity association) that the Secretary finds—

"(II) does not exist solely or principally for the purpose of selling insurance, and

"(III) has at least 1,000 individual members or 200 employer members.

"(D) LIMITATION.—Rules of eligibility to carry out the previous subparagraphs of this paragraph shall not have the effect of denying eligibility to individuals on the basis of health status, claims experience, receipt of health care, medical history, or lack of evidence of insurability.

"(E) LIMITED ENROLLMENT MEDICARE CHOICE ORGANIZATION.—In this part and section 1805, the term 'limited enrollment Medicare Choice organization' means a Medicare Choice organization that is a union sponsor, a Taft-Hartley sponsor, or a qualified association.

"(2) AMOUNTS OF PREMIUMS CHARGED.—The amount of the monthly premium charged by a Medicare Choice organization for a Medicare Choice product offered in a payment area to an individual under this part shall be equal to the amount (if any) by which—

"(B) 1/12 of the annual Medicare Choice capitation rate specified in section 1855(b)(2) for the area and period involved.

"(3) UNIFORM PREMIUM.—The premiums charged by a Medicare Choice organization under this part may not vary among individuals who reside in the same payment area.

"(4) TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF IMPOSING PREMIUMS.—Each Medicare Choice organization shall permit the payment of monthly premiums on a monthly basis and may terminate election of individuals for a Medicare Choice product for failure to make premium payments only in accordance with subsection (c)(3)(B).

"(5) RELATION OF PREMIUMS AND COST-SHARING TO BENEFITS.—In no case may the portion of a Medicare Choice organization's premium rate and the actuarial value of its deductibles, coinsurance, and copayments charged (to the extent attributable to the minimum benefits described in subsection (a)(1) and not counting any amount attributable to balance billing) to individuals who are enrolled under this part with the organization exceed the actuarial value of the coinsurance and deductibles that would be applicable on the average to individuals enrolled under this part with the organization (or, if the Secretary finds that adequate data are not available to determine that actuarial value, the actuarial value of the coinsurance and deductibles applicable on the average to individuals in the area, in the State, or in the United States, eligible to enroll under this part with the organization, or other appropriate data) and entitled to benefits under part A and enrolled under part B if they were not members of a Medicare Choice organization.

"(e) REQUIREMENT FOR ADDITIONAL BENEFITS, PART B PREMIUM DISCOUNT REBATES, OR BOTH.—

"(1) REQUIREMENT.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Each Medicare Choice organization (in relation to a Medicare Choice product it offers) shall provide that if there is an excess amount (as defined in subparagraph (B)) for the product for a contract year, subject to the succeeding provisions of this subsection, the organization shall provide to individuals such additional benefits (as the organization may specify), a monetary rebate (paid on a monthly basis) of the part B monthly premium, or a combination thereof, in an total value which is at least equal to the adjusted excess amount (as defined in subparagraph (C)).

"(B) EXCESS AMOUNT.—For purposes of this paragraph, the 'excess amount', for an organization for a product, is the amount (if any) by which—

"(2) LIMITATION ON AMOUNT OF PART B PREMIUM DISCOUNT REBATE.—In no case shall the amount of a part B premium discount rebate under paragraph (1)(A) exceed, with respect to a month, the amount of premiums imposed under part B (not taking into account section 1839(b) (relating to penalty for late enrollment) or 1839(h) (relating to affluence testing)), for the individual for the month. Except as provided in the previous sentence, a Medicare Choice organization is not authorized to provide for cash or other monetary rebates as an inducement for enrollment or otherwise.

"(3) STABILIZATION FUND.—A Medicare Choice organization may provide that a part of the value of an excess actuarial amount described in paragraph (1) be withheld and reserved in the Federal Hospital Insurance Trust Fund and in the Federal Supplementary Medical Insurance Trust Fund (in such proportions as the Secretary determines to be appropriate) by the Secretary for subsequent annual contract periods, to the extent required to stabilize and prevent undue fluctuations in the additional benefits and rebates offered in those subsequent periods by the organization in accordance with such paragraph. Any of such value of amount reserved which is not provided as additional benefits described in paragraph (1)(A) to individuals electing the Medicare Choice product in accordance with such paragraph prior to the end of such periods, shall revert for the use of such trust funds.

"(4) DETERMINATION BASED ON INSUFFICIENT DATA.—For purposes of this subsection, if the Secretary finds that there is insufficient enrollment experience (including no enrollment experience in the case of a provider-sponsored organization) to determine an average of the capitation payments to be made under this part at the beginning of a contract period, the Secretary may determine such an average based on the enrollment experience of other contracts entered into under this part.

"(5) ADJUSTED COMMUNITY RATE.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of this subsection, subject to subparagraph (B), the term 'adjusted community rate' for a service or services means, at the election of a Medicare Choice organization, either—

"(i) the rate of payment for that service or services which the Secretary annually determines would apply to an individual electing a Medicare Choice product under this part if the rate of payment were determined under a 'community rating system' (as defined in section 1302(8) of the Public Health Service Act, other than subparagraph (C)), or

"(ii) such portion of the weighted aggregate premium, which the Secretary annually estimates would apply to such an individual, as the Secretary annually estimates is attributable to that service or services, but adjusted for differences between the utilization characteristics of the individuals electing coverage under this part and the utilization characteristics of the other enrollees with the organization (or, if the Secretary finds that adequate data are not available to adjust for those differences, the differences between the utilization characteristics of individuals selecting other Medicare Choice coverage, or individuals in the area, in the State, or in the United States, eligible to elect Medicare Choice coverage under this part and the utilization characteristics of the rest of the population in the area, in the State, or in the United States, respectively).

"(B) SPECIAL RULE FOR PROVIDER-SPONSORED ORGANIZATIONS.—In the case of a Medicare Choice organization that is a provider-sponsored organization, the adjusted community rate under subparagraph (A) for a Medicare Choice product may be computed (in a manner specified by the Secretary) using data in the general commercial marketplace or (during a transition period) based on the costs incurred by the organization in providing such a product.

"(ii) If the plan places a physician or physician group at substantial financial risk (as determined by the Secretary) for services not provided by the physician or physician group, the organization—

"(I) provides stop-loss protection for the physician or group that is adequate and appropriate, based on standards developed by the Secretary that take into account the number of physicians placed at such substantial financial risk in the group or under the plan and the number of individuals enrolled with the organization who receive services from the physician or the physician group, and

"(II) conducts periodic surveys of both individuals enrolled and individuals previously enrolled with the organization to determine the degree of access of such individuals to services provided by the organization and satisfaction with the quality of such services.

"(B) PHYSICIAN INCENTIVE PLAN DEFINED.—In this paragraph, the term 'physician incentive plan' means any compensation arrangement between a Medicare Choice organization and a physician or physician group that may directly or indirectly have the effect of reducing or limiting services provided with respect to individuals enrolled with the organization under this part.

"(2) SUBSTANTIAL PROPORTION.—In defining what is a 'substantial proportion' for purposes of paragraph (1), the Secretary—

"(A) shall take into account the need for such an organization to assume responsibility for a substantial proportion of services in order to assure financial stability and the practical difficulties in such an organization integrating a very wide range of service providers; and

"(B) may vary such proportion based upon relevant differences among organizations, such as their location in an urban or rural area.

"(3) AFFILIATION.—For purposes of this subsection, a provider is 'affiliated' with another provider if, through contract, ownership, or otherwise—

"(A) one provider, directly or indirectly, controls, is controlled by, or is under common control with the other,

"(B) each provider is a participant in a lawful combination under which each provider shares, directly or indirectly, substantial financial risk in connection with their operations,

"(b) PREEMPTION OF STATE INSURANCE LICENSING REQUIREMENTS.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—This section supersedes any State law which—

"(A) requires that a provider-sponsored organization meet requirements for insurers of health services or health maintenance organizations doing business in the State with respect to initial capitalization and establishment of financial reserves against insolvency, or

"(B) imposes requirements that would have the effect of prohibiting the organization from complying with the applicable requirements of this part, insofar as such the law applies to individuals enrolled with the organization under this part.

"(2) EXCEPTION FOR IDENTICAL STANDARDS.—Paragraph (1) shall not apply with respect to any State law to the extent that such law provides the application of standards that are identical to the standards established for provider-sponsored organizations under this part.

"(3) CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this subsection shall be construed as affecting the operation of section 514 of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974.

"PAYMENTS TO MEDICARE CHOICE ORGANIZATIONS

"(2) ANNUAL ANNOUNCEMENT.—The Secretary shall annually determine, and shall announce (in a manner intended to provide notice to interested parties) not later than September 7 before the calendar year concerned—

"(A) the annual Medicare Choice capitation rate for each payment area for the year, and

"(B) the factors to be used in adjusting such rates under subsection (b) for payments for months in that year.

"(3) ADVANCE NOTICE OF METHODOLOGICAL CHANGES.—At least 45 days before making the announcement under paragraph (2) for a year, the Secretary shall provide for notice to Medicare Choice organizations of proposed changes to be made in the methodology or benefit coverage assumptions from the methodology and assumptions used in the previous announcement and shall provide such organizations an opportunity to comment on such proposed changes.

"(4) EXPLANATION OF ASSUMPTIONS.—In each announcement made under paragraph (2) for a year, the Secretary shall include an explanation of the assumptions (including any benefit coverage assumptions) and changes in methodology used in the announcement in sufficient detail so that Medicare Choice organizations can compute monthly adjusted Medicare Choice capitation rates for classes of individuals located in each payment area which is in whole or in part within the service area of such an organization.

"(b) MONTHLY ADJUSTED MEDICARE CHOICE CAPITATION RATE.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of this section, the 'monthly adjusted Medicare Choice capitation rate' under this subsection, for a month in a year for an individual in a payment area (specified under paragraph (3)) and in a class (established under paragraph (4)), is 1/12 of the annual Medicare Choice capitation rate specified in paragraph (2) for that area for the year, adjusted to reflect the actuarial value of benefits under this title with respect to individuals in such class compared to the national average for individuals in all classes.

"(2) ANNUAL MEDICARE CHOICE CAPITATION RATES.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of this section, the annual Medicare Choice capitation rate for a payment area for a year is equal to the annual Medicare Choice capitation rate for the area for the previous year (or, in the case of 1996, the average annual per capita rate of payment described in section 1876(a)(1)(C) for the area for 1995) increased by the per capita growth rate for that area and year (as determined under subsection (c)).

"(B) SPECIAL RULES FOR 1996.—

"(i) FLOOR AT 85 PERCENT OF NATIONAL AVERAGE.—In no case shall the annual Medicare Choice capitation rate for a payment area for 1996 be less than 85 percent of the national average of such rates for such year for all payment areas (weighted to reflect the number of medicare beneficiaries in each such area).

"(ii) REMOVAL OF MEDICAL EDUCATION AND DISPROPORTIONATE SHARE HOSPITAL PAYMENTS FROM CALCULATION OF ADJUSTED AVERAGE PER CAPITA COST.—In determining the annual Medicare Choice capitation rate for 1996, the average annual per capita rate of payment described in section 1876(a)(1)(C) for 1995 shall be determined as though the Secretary had excluded from such rate any amounts which the Secretary estimated would have been payable under this title during the year for—

"(I) payment adjustments under section 1886(d)(5)(F) for hospitals serving a disproportionate share of low-income patients; and

"(II) the indirect costs of medical education under section 1886(d)(5)(B) or for direct graduate medical education costs under section 1886(h).

"(3) PAYMENT AREA DEFINED.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—In this section, the term 'payment area' means—

"(4) CLASSES.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of this section, the Secretary shall define appropriate classes of enrollees, consistent with paragraph (5), based on age, gender, welfare status, institutionalization, and such other factors as the Secretary determines to be appropriate, so as to ensure actuarial equivalence. The Secretary may add to, modify, or substitute for such classes, if such changes will improve the determination of actuarial equivalence.

"(B) RESEARCH.—The Secretary shall conduct such research as may be necessary to provide for greater accuracy in the adjustment of capitation rates under this subsection. Such research may include research into the addition or modification of classes under subparagraph (A). The Secretary shall submit to Congress a report on such research by not later than January 1, 1997.

"(c) PER CAPITA GROWTH RATES.—

"(1) FOR 1996.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of this section and subject to subparagraph (B), the per capita growth rates for 1996, for a payment area assigned to a service utilization cohort under subsection (d), shall be the following:

"(ii) ABOVE AVERAGE SERVICE UTILIZATION COHORT.—For areas assigned to the above average service utilization cohort, 4.8 percent.

"(iii) HIGHEST SERVICE UTILIZATION COHORT.—For areas assigned to the highest service utilization cohort, 2.1 percent.

"(B) BUDGET NEUTRAL ADJUSTMENT.—The Secretary shall adjust the per capita growth rates specified in subparagraph (A) for all the areas by such uniform factor as may be necessary to assure that the total capitation payments under this section during 1996 are the same as the amount such payments would have been if the per capita growth rate for all such areas for 1996 were equal to the national average per capita growth rate, specified in paragraph (3) for 1996.

"(2) FOR SUBSEQUENT YEARS.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of this section and subject to subparagraph (B), the Secretary shall compute a per capita growth rate for each year after 1996, for each payment area as assigned to a service utilization cohort under subsection (d), consistent with the following rules:

"(i) BELOW AVERAGE SERVICE UTILIZATION COHORT SET AT 143 PERCENT OF NATIONAL AVERAGE PER CAPITA GROWTH RATE.—The per capita growth rate for areas assigned to the below average service utilization cohort for the year shall be 160 percent of the national average per capita growth rate for the year (as specified under paragraph (3)).

"(ii) ABOVE AVERAGE SERVICE UTILIZATION COHORT SET AT 80 PERCENT OF NATIONAL AVERAGE PER CAPITA GROWTH RATE.—The per capita growth rate for areas assigned to the above average service utilization cohort for the year shall be 80 percent of the national average per capita growth rate for the year.

"(iii) HIGHEST SERVICE UTILIZATION COHORT SET AT 40 PERCENT OF NATIONAL AVERAGE PER CAPITA GROWTH RATE.—The per capita growth rate for areas assigned to the highest service utilization cohort for the year shall be 35 percent of the national average per capita growth rate for the year.

"(B) AVERAGE PER CAPITA GROWTH RATE AT NATIONAL AVERAGE TO ASSURE BUDGET NEUTRALITY.—The Secretary shall compute per capita growth rates for a year under subparagraph (A) in a manner so that the weighted average per capita growth rate for all areas for the year (weighted to reflect the number of medicare beneficiaries in each area) is equal to the national average per capita growth rate under paragraph (3) for the year.

"(3) NATIONAL AVERAGE PER CAPITA GROWTH RATES.—In this subsection, the 'national average per capita growth rate' for—

"(C) 1998 is 6.0 percent,

"(D) 1999 is 5.5 percent,

"(E) 2000 is 5.5 percent,

"(F) 2001 is 5.5 percent,

"(G) 2002 is 5.5 percent, and

"(H) each subsequent year is 5.5 percent.

"(d) ASSIGNMENT OF PAYMENT AREAS TO SERVICE UTILIZATION COHORTS.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of determining per capita growth rates under subsection (c) for areas for a year, the Secretary shall assign each payment area to a service utilization cohort (based on the service utilization index value for that area determined under paragraph (2)) as follows:

"(A) BELOW AVERAGE SERVICE UTILIZATION COHORT.—Areas with a service utilization index value of less than 1.00 shall be assigned to the below average service utilization cohort.

"(B) ABOVE AVERAGE SERVICE UTILIZATION COHORT.—Areas with a service utilization index value of at least 1.00 but less than 1.20 shall be assigned to the above average service utilization cohort.

"(C) HIGHEST SERVICE UTILIZATION COHORT.—Areas with a service utilization index value of at least 1.20 shall be assigned to the highest service utilization cohort.

"(2) DETERMINATION OF SERVICE UTILIZATION INDEX VALUES.—In order to determine the per capita growth rate for a payment area for each year (beginning with 1996), the Secretary shall determine for such area and year a service utilization index value, which is equal to—

"(A) the annual Medicare Choice capitation rate under this section for the area for the year in which the determination is made (or, in the case of 1996, the average annual per capita rate of payment (described in section 1876(a)(1)(C)) for the area for 1995); divided by

"(B) the input-price-adjusted annual national Medicare Choice capitation rate (as determined under paragraph (3)) for that area for the year in which the determination is made.

"(3) DETERMINATION OF INPUT-PRICE-ADJUSTED RATES.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of paragraph (2), the 'input-price-adjusted annual national Medicare Choice capitation rate' for a payment area for a year is equal to the sum, for all the types of medicare services (as classified by the Secretary), of the product (for each such type) of—

"(i) the national standardized Medicare Choice capitation rate (determined under subparagraph (B)) for the year,

"(ii) the proportion of such rate for the year which is attributable to such type of services, and

"(iii) an index that reflects (for that year and that type of services) the relative input price of such services in the area compared to the national average input price of such services.

In applying clause (iii), the Secretary shall, subject to subparagraph (C), apply those indices under this title that are used in applying (or updating) national payment rates for specific areas and localities.

"(B) NATIONAL STANDARDIZED MEDICARE CHOICE CAPITATION RATE.—In this paragraph, the 'national standardized Medicare Choice capitation rate' for a year is equal to—

"(i) the sum (for all payment areas) of the product of (I) the annual Medicare Choice capitation rate for that year for the area under subsection (b)(2), and (II) the average number of medicare beneficiaries residing in that area in the year; divided by

"(ii) the total average number of medicare beneficiaries residing in all the payment areas for that year.

"(C) SPECIAL RULES FOR 1996.—In applying this paragraph for 1996—

"(i) medicare services shall be divided into 2 types of services: part A services and part B services;

"(ii) the proportions described in subparagraph (A)(ii) for such types of services shall be—

"(I) for part A services, the ratio (expressed as a percentage) of the average annual per capita rate of payment for the area for part A for 1995 to the total average annual per capita rate of payment for the area for parts A and B for 1995, and

"(II) for part B services, 100 percent minus the ratio described in subclause (I);

"(iii) for the part A services, 70 percent of payments attributable to such services shall be adjusted by the index used under section 1886(d)(3)(E) to adjust payment rates for relative hospital wage levels for hospitals located in the payment area involved;

"(iv) for part B services—

"(I) 66 percent of payments attributable to such services shall be adjusted by the index of the geographic area factors under section 1848(e) used to adjust payment rates for physicians' services furnished in the payment area, and

"(II) of the remaining 34 percent of the amount of such payments, 70 percent shall be adjusted by the index described in clause (iii);

"(v) the index values shall be computed based only on the beneficiary population described in subsection (b)(5)(A).

The Secretary may continue to apply the rules described in this subparagraph (or similar rules) for 1997.

"(e) PAYMENT PROCESS.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Subject to section 1859(f), the Secretary shall make monthly payments under this section in advance and in accordance with the rate determined under subsection (a) to the plan for each individual enrolled with a Medicare Choice organization under this part.

"(2) ADJUSTMENT TO REFLECT NUMBER OF ENROLLEES.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The amount of payment under this subsection may be retroactively adjusted to take into account any difference between the actual number of individuals enrolled with an organization under this part and the number of such individuals estimated to be so enrolled in determining the amount of the advance payment.

"(B) SPECIAL RULE FOR CERTAIN ENROLLEES.—

"(i) IN GENERAL.—Subject to clause (ii), the Secretary may make retroactive adjustments under subparagraph (A) to take into account individuals enrolled during the period beginning on the date on which the individual enrolls with a Medicare Choice organization under a product operated, sponsored, or contributed to by the individual's employer or former employer (or the employer or former employer of the individual's spouse) and ending on the date on which the individual is enrolled in the organization under this part, except that for purposes of making such retroactive adjustments under this subparagraph, such period may not exceed 90 days.

"(ii) EXCEPTION.—No adjustment may be made under clause (i) with respect to any individual who does not certify that the organization provided the individual with the disclosure statement described in section 1853(a) at the time the individual enrolled with the organization.

"(f) PAYMENTS FROM TRUST FUND.—The payment to a Medicare Choice organization under this section for individuals enrolled under this part with the organization, and payments to a Medicare Choice MSA under subsection (f)(1)(B), shall be made from the Federal Hospital Insurance Trust Fund and the Federal Supplementary Medical Insurance Trust Fund in such proportion as the Secretary determines reflects the relative weight that benefits under part A and under part B represents of the actuarial value of the total benefits under this title.

"(g) SPECIAL RULE FOR CERTAIN INPATIENT HOSPITAL STAYS.—In the case of an individual who is receiving inpatient hospital services from a subsection (d) hospital (as defined in section 1886(d)(1)(B)) as of the effective date of the individual's—

"(1) election under this part of a Medicare Choice product offered by a Medicare Choice organization—

"(A) payment for such services until the date of the individual's discharge shall be made under this title through the Medicare Choice product or Non-Medicare Choice option (as the case may be) elected before the election with such organization,

"(B) the elected organization shall not be financially responsible for payment for such services until the date after the date of the individual's discharge, and

In such standards, the Secretary may treat as admitted assets the assets used by a provider-sponsored organization in delivering covered services.

"(d) APPLICATION OF NEW STANDARDS TO ENTITIES WITH A CONTRACT.—In the case of a Medicare Choice organization with a contract in effect under this part at the time standards applicable to the organization under this section are changed, the organization may elect not to have such changes apply to the organization until the end of the current contract year (or, if there is less than 6 months remaining in the contract year, until 1 year after the end of the current contract year).

(i) the ability of the providers of health care services that are (or likely to be) affected by the health care collaborative activity and the entities responsible for making payments to such providers to negotiate societally optimal payment and service arrangements,

(ii) the effects of the health care collaborative activity on premiums and other charges imposed by the entities described in clause (i), and

(iii) the availability of equally efficient, less restrictive alternatives to achieve the benefits that are intended to be achieved by carrying out the activity.

(c) ESTABLISHMENT OF CRITERIA AND PROCEDURES.—Subject to subsections (d) and (e), not later than 1 year after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Attorney General and the Secretary shall establish jointly by rule the criteria and procedures applicable to the issuance of certificates under subsection (a). The rules shall specify the form and content of the application to be submitted to the Attorney General to request a certificate, the information required to be submitted in support of such application, the procedures applicable to denying and to revoking a certificate, and the procedures applicable to the administrative appeal (if such appeal is authorized by rule) of the denial and the revocation of a certificate. Such information may include the terms of the health care collaborative activity (in the case of an activity in existence as of the time of the application) and implementation plan for the collaborative activity.

(d) ELIGIBLE HEALTH CARE COLLABORATIVE ACTIVITY.—To be an eligible health care collaborative activity for purposes of this section, a health care collaborative activity shall submit to the Attorney General an application that complies with the rules in effect under subsection (c) and that includes—

(1) an agreement by the parties to the activity that the activity will not foreclose competition by entering into contracts that prevent health care providers from providing health care in competition with the activity,

(2) an agreement that the activity will submit to the Attorney General annually a report that describes the operations of the activity and information regarding the impact of the activity on health care and on competition in health care, and

(3) an agreement that the parties to the activity will notify the Attorney General and the Secretary of the termination of the activity not later than 30 days after such termination occurs.

(e) REVIEW OF APPLICATIONS FOR CERTIFICATES.—Not later than 90 days after an eligible health care collaborative activity submits to the Attorney General an application that complies with the rules in effect under subsection (c) and with subsection (d), the Attorney General shall issue or deny the issuance of such certificate. If, before the expiration of such 90-day period, the Attorney General may extend the time for issuance for good cause.

(f) REVOCATION OF CERTIFICATE.—Whenever the Attorney General finds that a health care collaborative activity with respect to which a certificate is in effect does not meet the standards specified in subsection (b), the Attorney General shall revoke such certificate.

(g) WRITTEN REASONS; JUDICIAL REVIEW.—

(1) DENIAL AND REVOCATION OF CERTIFICATES.—If the Attorney General denies an application for a certificate or revokes a certificate, the Attorney General shall include in the notice of denial or revocation a statement of the reasons relied upon for the denial or revocation of such certificate.

(2) JUDICIAL REVIEW.—

(A) AFTER ADMINISTRATIVE PROCEEDING.—(i) If the Attorney General denies an application submitted or revokes a certificate issued under this section after an opportunity for hearing on the record, then any party to the health care collaborative activity involved may commence a civil action, not later than 60 days after receiving notice of the denial or revocation, in an appropriate district court of the United States for review of the record of such denial or revocation.

(ii) As part of the Attorney General's answer, the Attorney General shall file in such court a certified copy of the record on which such denial or revocation is based. The findings of fact of the Attorney General may be set aside only if found to be unsupported by substantial evidence in such record taken as a whole.

(B) DENIAL OR REVOCATION WITHOUT ADMINISTRATIVE PROCEEDING.—If the Attorney General denies an application submitted or revokes a certificate issued under this section without an opportunity for hearing on the record, then any party to the health care collaborative activity involved may commence a civil action, not later than 60 days after receiving notice of the denial or revocation, in an appropriate district court of the United States for de novo review of such denial or revocation.

(h) EXEMPTION.—A person shall not be liable under any of the antitrust laws for conduct necessary—

(1) to prepare, agree to prepare, or attempt to agree to prepare an application to request a certificate under this section, or

(2) to attempt to enter into any health care collaborative activity with respect to which such a certificate is in effect.

(2) The term "health care collaborative activity" means an agreement (whether existing or proposed) between 2 or more providers of health care services that is entered into solely for the purpose of sharing in the provision and coordination of health care services and that involves substantial integration and financial risk-sharing between the parties, but does not include the exchanging of information, the entering into of any agreement, or the engagement in any other conduct that is not reasonably required to carry out such agreement.

(3) The term "health care services" includes services related to the delivery or administration of health care services.

(4) The term "liable" means liable for any civil or criminal violation of the antitrust laws.

(5) The term "provider of health care services" means any individual or entity that is engaged in the delivery of health care services in a State and that is required by State law or regulation to be licensed or certified by the State to engage in the delivery of such services in the State.

SEC. 8113. STUDY OF IMPACT ON COMPETITION.

The Attorney General, in consultation with the Chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, annually shall submit to the Congress a report as part of the annual budget oversight proceedings concerning the Antitrust Division of the Department of Justice. The report shall enable the Congress to determine how enforcement of antitrust laws is affecting the formation of efficient, cost-saving joint ventures and if the certificate of public advantage procedure set forth in section 8112 has resulted in undesirable reduction in competition in the health care marketplace. The report shall include an evaluation of the factors set forth in paragraphs (2)(A) and (2)(B) of section 8112(b).

SEC. 8114. ANTITRUST EXEMPTION.

The antitrust laws shall not apply with respect to—

(1) the merger of, or the attempt to merge, 2 or more hospitals,

(2) a contract entered into solely by 2 or more hospitals to allocate hospital services, or

(3) the attempt by only 2 or more hospitals to enter into a contract to allocate hospital services, if each of such hospitals satisfies all of the requirements of section 8115 at the time such hospitals engage in the conduct described in paragraph (1), (2), or (3), as the case may be.

SEC. 8115. REQUIREMENTS.

The requirements referred to in section 8114 are as follows:

(1) The hospital is located outside of a city, or in a city that has less than 150,000 inhabitants, as determined in accordance with the most recent data available from the Bureau of the Census.

(2) In the most recently concluded calendar year, the hospital received more than 40 percent of its gross revenue from payments made under Federal programs.

(3) There is in effect with respect to the hospital a certificate issued by the Health Care Financing Administration specifying that such Administration has determined that Federal expenditures would be reduced, consumer costs would not increase, and access to health care services would not be reduced, if the hospital and the other hospitals that requested such certificate merge, or allocate the hospital services specified in such request, as the case may be.

SEC. 8116. DEFINITION.

For purposes of this subtitle, the term "antitrust laws" has the meaning given such term in subsection (a) of the first section of the Clayton Act (15 U.S.C. 12), except that such term includes section 5 of the Federal Trade Commission Act (15 U.S.C. 45) to the extent that such section 5 applies with respect to unfair methods of competition.

PART 3—MALPRACTICE REFORM

Subpart A—Uniform Standards for Malpractice Claims

SEC. 8121. APPLICABILITY.

Except as provided in section 8131, this subpart shall apply to any medical malpractice liability action brought in a Federal or State court, and to any medical malpractice claim subject to an alternative dispute resolution system, that is initiated on or after January 1, 1996.

SEC. 8122. REQUIREMENT FOR INITIAL RESOLUTION OF ACTION THROUGH ALTERNATIVE DISPUTE RESOLUTION.

(a) IN GENERAL.—

(1) STATE CASES.—A medical malpractice liability action may not be brought in any State court during a calendar year unless the medical malpractice liability claim that is the subject of the action has been initially resolved under an alternative dispute resolution system certified for the year by the Secretary under section 8132(a), or, in the case of a State in which such a system is not in effect for the year, under the alternative Federal system established under section 8132(b).

(2) FEDERAL DIVERSITY ACTIONS.—A medical malpractice liability action may not be brought in any Federal court under section 1332 of title 28, United States Code, during a calendar year unless the medical malpractice liability claim that is the subject of the action has been initially resolved under the alternative dispute resolution system referred to in paragraph (1) that applied in the State whose law applies in such action.

(3) CLAIMS AGAINST UNITED STATES.—

(A) ESTABLISHMENT OF PROCESS FOR CLAIMS.—The Attorney General shall establish an alternative dispute resolution process for the resolution of tort claims consisting of medical malpractice liability claims brought against the United States under chapter 171 of title 28, United States Code. Under such process, the resolution of a claim shall occur after the completion of the administrative claim process applicable to the claim under section 2675 of such title.

(B) REQUIREMENT FOR INITIAL RESOLUTION UNDER PROCESS.—A medical malpractice liability action based on a medical malpractice liability claim described in subparagraph (A) may not be brought in any Federal court unless the claim has been initially resolved under the alternative dispute resolution process established by the Attorney General under such subparagraph.

(b) INITIAL RESOLUTION OF CLAIMS UNDER ADR.—For purposes of subsection (a), an action is "initially resolved" under an alternative dispute resolution system if—

(1) the ADR reaches a decision on whether the defendant is liable to the plaintiff for damages; and

(2) if the ADR determines that the defendant is liable, the ADR reaches a decision on the amount of damages assessed against the defendant.

(c) PROCEDURES FOR FILING ACTIONS.—

(1) NOTICE OF INTENT TO CONTEST DECISION.—Not later than 60 days after a decision is issued with respect to a medical malpractice liability claim under an alternative dispute resolution system, each party affected by the decision shall submit a sealed statement to a court of competent jurisdiction indicating whether or not the party intends to contest the decision.

(2) DEADLINE FOR FILING ACTION.—A medical malpractice liability action may not be brought by a party unless—

(A) the party has filed the notice of intent required by paragraph (1); and

(B) the party files the action in a court of competent jurisdiction not later than 90 days after the decision resolving the medical malpractice liability claim that is the subject of the action is issued under the applicable alternative dispute resolution system.

(3) COURT OF COMPETENT JURISDICTION.—For purposes of this subsection, the term "court of competent jurisdiction" means—

(A) with respect to actions filed in a State court, the appropriate State trial court; and

(B) with respect to actions filed in a Federal court, the appropriate United States district court.

(d) LEGAL EFFECT OF UNCONTESTED ADR DECISION.—The decision reached under an alternative dispute resolution system shall, for purposes of enforcement by a court of competent jurisdiction, have the same status in the court as the verdict of a medical malpractice liability action adjudicated in a State or Federal trial court. The previous sentence shall not apply to a decision that is contested by a party affected by the decision pursuant to subsection (c)(1).

SEC. 8123. OPTIONAL APPLICATION OF PRACTICE GUIDELINES.

(a) DEVELOPMENT AND CERTIFICATION OF GUIDELINES.—Each State may develop, for certification by the Secretary, a set of specialty clinical practice guidelines, based on recommended guidelines from national specialty societies, to be updated annually. In the absence of recommended guidelines from such societies, each State may develop such guidelines based on such criteria as the State considers appropriate (including based on recommended guidelines developed by the Agency for Health Care Policy and Research).

(b) PROVISION OF HEALTH CARE UNDER GUIDELINES.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, in any medical malpractice liability action arising from the conduct of a health care provider or health care professional, if such conduct was in accordance with a guideline developed by the State in which the conduct occurred and certified by the Secretary under subsection (a), the guideline—

(1) may be introduced by any party to the action (including a health care provider, health care professional, or patient); and

(2) if introduced, shall establish a rebuttable presumption that the conduct was in accordance with the appropriate standard of medical care, which may only be overcome by the presentation of clear and convincing evidence on behalf of the party against whom the presumption operates.

SEC. 8124. TREATMENT OF NONECONOMIC AND PUNITIVE DAMAGES.

(a) LIMITATION ON NONECONOMIC DAMAGES.—The total amount of noneconomic damages that may be awarded to a claimant and the members of the claimant's family for losses resulting from the injury which is the subject of a medical malpractice liability action may not exceed $500,000, regardless of the number of parties against whom the action is brought or the number of actions brought with respect to the injury.

(b) NO AWARD OF PUNITIVE DAMAGES AGAINST MANUFACTURER OF MEDICAL PRODUCT.—In the case of a medical malpractice liability action in which the plaintiff alleges a claim against the manufacturer of a medical product, no punitive or exemplary damages may be awarded against such manufacturer.

(c) JOINT AND SEVERAL LIABILITY FOR NONECONOMIC DAMAGES.—The liability of each defendant for noneconomic damages shall be several only and shall not be joint, and each defendant shall be liable only for the amount of noneconomic damages allocated to the defendant in direct proportion to the defendant's percentage of responsibility (as determined by the trier of fact).

(1) IN GENERAL.—The total amount of any punitive damages awarded in a medical malpractice liability action shall be paid to the State in which the action is brought (or, in a case brought in Federal court, in the State in which the health care services that caused the injury that is the subject of the action were provided), and shall be used by the State solely to implement and operate the State alternative dispute resolution system certified by the Secretary under section 8132 (except as provided in paragraph (2)).

(2) USE OF REMAINING AMOUNTS FOR PROVIDER LICENSING AND DISCIPLINARY ACTIVITIES.—If the amount of punitive damages paid to a State under paragraph (1) for a year is greater than the State's costs of implementing and operating the State alternative dispute resolution system during the year, the balance of such punitive damages paid to the State shall be used solely to carry out activities to assure the safety and quality of health care services provided in the State, including (but not limited to)—

(A) licensing or certifying health care professionals and health care providers in the State; and

(B) carrying out programs to reduce malpractice-related costs for providers volunteering to provide services in medically underserved areas.

(3) MAINTENANCE OF EFFORT.—A State shall use any amounts paid pursuant to paragraph (1) to supplement and not to replace amounts spent by the State for implementing and operating the State alternative dispute resolution system or carrying out the activities described in paragraph (2).

(e) DRUGS AND DEVICES.—

(1)(A) Punitive damages shall not be awarded against a manufacturer or product seller of a drug (as defined in section 201(g)(1) of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (21 U.S.C. 321(g)(1)) or medical device (as defined in section 201(h) of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (21 U.S.C. 321(h)) which caused the claimant's harm where—

(i) such drug or device was subject to premarket approval by the Food and Drug Administration with respect to the safety of the formulation or performance of the aspect of such drug or device which caused the claimant's harm or the adequacy of the packaging or labeling of such drug or device, and such drug was approved by the Food and Drug Administration; or

(ii) the drug is generally recognized as safe and effective pursuant to conditions established by the Food and Drug Administration and applicable regulations, including packaging and labeling regulations.

(B) Subparagraph (A) shall not apply in any case in which the defendant, before or after premarket approval of a drug or device—

(i) intentionally and wrongfully withheld from or misrepresented to the Food and Drug Administration information concerning such drug or device required to be submitted under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (21 U.S.C. 301 et seq.) or section 351 of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 262) that is material and relevant to the harm suffered by the claimant, or

(ii) made an illegal payment to an official or employee of the Food and Drug Administration for the purpose of securing or maintaining approval of such drug or device.

(2) PACKAGING.—In a product liability action for harm which is alleged to relate to the adequacy of the packaging (or labeling relating to such packaging) of a drug which is required to have tamper-resistant packaging under regulations of the Secretary of Health and Human Services (including labeling regulations related to such packaging), the manufacturer of the drug shall not be held liable for punitive damages unless the drug is found by the court by clear and convincing evidence to be substantially out of compliance with such regulations.

SEC. 8125. PERIODIC PAYMENTS FOR FUTURE LOSSES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—In any medical malpractice liability action in which the damages awarded for future economic loss exceeds $100,000, a defendant may not be required to pay such damages in a single, lump-sum payment, but may be permitted to make such payments on a periodic basis. The periods for such payments shall be determined by the court, based upon projections of when such expenses are likely to be incurred.

(b) WAIVER.—A court may waive the application of subsection (a) with respect to a defendant if the court determines that it is not in the best interests of the plaintiff to receive payments for damages on such a periodic basis.

SEC. 8126. TREATMENT OF ATTORNEY'S FEES AND OTHER COSTS.

(a) REQUIRING PARTY CONTESTING ADR RULING TO PAY ATTORNEY'S FEES AND OTHER COSTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The court in a medical malpractice liability action shall require the party that (pursuant to section 8122(c)(1)) contested the ruling of the alternative dispute resolution system with respect to the medical malpractice liability claim that is the subject of the action to pay to the opposing party the costs incurred by the opposing party under the action, including attorney's fees, fees paid to expert witnesses, and other litigation expenses (but not including court costs, filing fees, or other expenses paid directly by the party to the court, or any fees or costs associated with the resolution of the claim under the alternative dispute resolution system), but only if—

(A) in the case of an action in which the party that contested the ruling is the claimant, the amount of damages awarded to the party under the action is less than the amount of damages awarded to the party under the ADR system; and

(B) in the case of an action in which the party that contested the ruling is the defendant, the amount of damages assessed against the party under the action is greater than the amount of damages assessed under the ADR system.

(2) EXCEPTIONS.—Paragraph (1) shall not apply if—

(A) the party contesting the ruling made under the previous alternative dispute resolution system shows that—

(i) the ruling was procured by corruption, fraud, or undue means,

(ii) there was partiality or corruption under the system,

(iii) there was other misconduct under the system that materially prejudiced the party's rights, or

(iv) the ruling was based on an error of law;

(B) the party contesting the ruling made under the alternative dispute resolution system presents new evidence before the trier of fact that was not available for presentation under the ADR system;

(C) the medical malpractice liability action raised a novel issue of law; or

(D) the court finds that the application of such paragraph to a party would constitute an undue hardship, and issues an order waiving or modifying the application of such paragraph that specifies the grounds for the court's decision.

(3) LIMIT ON ATTORNEYS' FEES PAID.—Attorneys' fees that are required to be paid under paragraph (1) by the contesting party shall not exceed the amount of the attorneys' fees incurred by the contesting party in the action. If the attorneys' fees of the contesting party are based on a contingency fee agreement, the amount of attorneys' fees for purposes of the preceding sentence shall not exceed the reasonable value of those services.

(4) RECORDS.—In order to receive attorneys' fees under paragraph (1), counsel of record in the medical malpractice liability action involved shall maintain accurate, complete records of hours worked on the action, regardless of the fee arrangement with the client involved.

(b) CONTINGENCY FEE DEFINED.—As used in this section, the term "contingency fee" means any fee for professional legal services which is, in whole or in part, contingent upon the recovery of any amount of damages, whether through judgment or settlement.

SEC. 8127. UNIFORM STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS.

(a) In General.—Except as provided in subsection (b), no medical malpractice claim may be initiated after the expiration of the 2-year period that begins on the date on which the alleged injury that is the subject of such claim was discovered, but in no event may such a claim be initiated after the expiration of the 4-year period that begins on the date on which the alleged injury that is the subject of such claim occurred.

(b) Exception for Minors.—In the case of an alleged injury suffered by a minor who has not attained 6 years of age, a medical malpractice claim may not be initiated after the expiration of the 2-year period that begins on the date on which the alleged injury that is the subject of such claim was discovered or should reasonably have been discovered, but in no event may such a claim be initiated after the date on which the minor attains 12 years of age.

SEC. 8128. SPECIAL PROVISION FOR CERTAIN OBSTETRIC SERVICES.

(a) In General.—In the case of a medical malpractice claim relating to services provided during labor or the delivery of a baby, if the health care professional or health care provider against whom the claim is brought did not previously treat the claimant for the pregnancy, the trier of fact may not find that such professional or provider committed malpractice and may not assess damages against such professional or provider unless the malpractice is proven by clear and convincing evidence.

(b) Applicability to Group Practices or Agreements Among Providers.—For purposes of subsection (a), a health care professional shall be considered to have previously treated an individual for a pregnancy if the professional is a member of a group practice whose members previously treated the individual for the pregnancy or is providing services to the individual during labor or the delivery of a baby pursuant to an agreement with another professional.

The per beneficiary limitation shall be multiplied by the agency's unduplicated census count of Medicare patients for the year subject to the limitation. The limitation shall represent total Medicare reasonable costs divided by the unduplicated census count of Medicare patients.

"(v) For services furnished by home health agencies for cost reporting periods beginning on or after October 1, 1996, the following rules shall apply:

"(I) For new providers and those providers without a 12-month cost reporting period ending in calendar year 1994, the per beneficiary limit shall be equal to the mean of these limits (or the Secretary's best estimates thereof) applied to home health agencies as determined by the Secretary. Such payments may not exceed 5 percent of an agency's aggregate Medicare reasonable cost in a year.

"(vii) Effective January 1, 1997, or as soon as feasible, the Secretary shall modify the agency specific per beneficiary annual limit described in clause (iv) to provide for regional or national variations in utilization. For purposes of determining payment under clause (iv), the limit shall be calculated through a blend of 75 percent of the agency-specific cost or utilization experience in 1994 with 25 percent of the national or census region cost or utilization experience in 1994, or the Secretary's best estimates thereof.".

In defining an episode of care, the Secretary shall consider an appropriate length of time for an episode the use of services and the number of visits provided within an episode, potential changes in the mix of services provided within an episode and their cost, and a general system design that will provide for continued access to quality services. The per episode amount shall be based on the most current audited cost report data available to the Secretary.

"(c) The Secretary shall employ an appropriate case mix adjuster that explains a significant amount of the variation in cost.

"(d) The episode payment amount shall be adjusted annually by the home health market basket index. The labor portion of the episode amount shall be adjusted for geographic differences in labor-related costs based on the most current hospital wage index.

"(e) The Secretary may designate a payment provision for outliers, recognizing the need to adjust payments due to unusual variations in the type or amount of medically necessary care.

"(1) In general.—Subject to subsection (c), a skilled nursing facility shall receive interim payments under this title for covered non-routine services furnished to an individual during a cost reporting period beginning during a fiscal year (after fiscal year 1996) in an amount equal to the reasonable cost of providing such services in accordance with section 1861(v). The Secretary may adjust such payments if the Secretary determines (on the basis of such estimated information as the Secretary considers appropriate) that payments to the facility under this paragraph for a cost reporting period would substantially exceed the cost reporting period limit determined under subsection (c)(1)(B).

"(2) Responsibility of skilled nursing facility to manage billings.—

"(A) Clarification relating to part A billing.—In the case of a covered non-routine service furnished to an individual who (at the time the service is furnished) is a resident of a skilled nursing facility who is entitled to coverage under section 1812(a)(2) for such service, the skilled nursing facility shall submit a claim for payment under this title for such service under part A (without regard to whether or not the item or service was furnished by the facility, by others under arrangement with them made by the facility, under any other contracting or consulting arrangement, or otherwise).

"(C) Maintaining records on services furnished to residents.—Each skilled nursing facility receiving payments for extended care services under this title shall document on the facility's cost report all covered non-routine services furnished to all residents of the facility to whom the facility provided extended care services for which payment was made under part A during a fiscal year (beginning with fiscal year 1996) (without regard to whether or not the services were furnished by the facility, by others under arrangement with them made by the facility, under any other contracting or consulting arrangement, or otherwise).

The Secretary shall reduce payments under this subparagraph at such times and in such manner during a fiscal year as the Secretary finds necessary to meet the requirement of this subparagraph.

"(B) Cost reporting period limit.—The cost reporting period limit determined under this subparagraph is an amount equal to the product of—

"(i) the per stay limit applicable to the facility under subsection (d) for the period; and

"(ii) the number of stays beginning during the period for which payment was made to the facility for such services.

"(C) Prospective reduction in payments.—In addition to the process for reducing payments described in subparagraph (A), the Secretary may reduce payments made to a facility under this section during a cost reporting period if the Secretary determines (on the basis of such estimated information as the Secretary considers appropriate) that payments to the facility under this section for the period will substantially exceed the cost reporting period limit for the period determined under this paragraph.

"(2) Incentive payments.—

"(A) In general.—If a skilled nursing facility has received aggregate payments under subsection (b) for covered non-routine services during a cost reporting period beginning during a fiscal year in an amount that is less than the amount determined under paragraph (1)(B), the Secretary shall pay the skilled nursing facility in the following fiscal year an incentive payment equal to 50 percent of the difference between such amounts, except that the incentive payment may not exceed 5 percent of the aggregate payments made to the facility under subsection (b) for the previous fiscal year (without regard to subparagraph (B)).

"(B) Installment incentive payments.—The Secretary may make installment payments during a fiscal year to a skilled nursing facility based on the estimated incentive payment that the facility would be eligible to receive with respect to such fiscal year.

"(d) Determination of Facility Per Stay Limit.—

"(1) Limit for fiscal year 1997.—

"(A) In general.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B), the Secretary shall establish separate per stay limits for hospital-based and freestanding skilled nursing facilities for the 12-month cost reporting period beginning during fiscal year 1997 that are equal to the sum of—

"(i) 50 percent of the facility-specific stay amount for the facility (as determined under subsection (e)) for the last 12-month cost reporting period ending on or before September 30, 1994, increased (in a compounded manner) by the SNF market basket percentage increase for fiscal years 1995 through 1997; and

"(ii) 50 percent of the average of all facility-specific stay amounts for all hospital-based facilities or all freestanding facilities (whichever is applicable) during the cost reporting period described in clause (i), increased (in a compounded manner) by the SNF market basket percentage increase for fiscal years 1995 through 1997.

"(B) Facilities not having 1994 cost reporting period.—In the case of a skilled nursing facility for which payments were not made under this title for covered non-routine services for the last 12-month cost reporting period ending on or before September 30, 1994, the per stay limit for the 12-month cost reporting period beginning during fiscal year 1997 shall be twice the amount determined under subparagraph (A)(ii).

"(2) Limit for subsequent fiscal years.—The per stay limit for a skilled nursing facility for a 12-month cost reporting period beginning during a fiscal year after fiscal year 1997 is equal to the per stay limit established under this subsection for the 12-month cost reporting period beginning during the previous fiscal year, increased by the SNF market basket percentage increase for such subsequent fiscal year minus 2 percentage points.

"(3) Rebasing of amounts.—

"(A) In general.—The Secretary shall provide for an update to the facility-specific amounts used to determine the per stay limits under this subsection for cost reporting periods beginning on or after October 1, 1999, and every 2 years thereafter.

"(B) Treatment of facilities not having rebased cost reporting periods.—Paragraph (1)(B) shall apply with respect to a skilled nursing facility for which payments were not made under this title for covered non-routine services for the 12-month cost reporting period used by the Secretary to update facility-specific amounts under subparagraph (A) in the same manner as such paragraph applies with respect to a facility for which payments were not made under this title for covered non-routine services for the last 12-month cost reporting period ending on or before September 30, 1994.

"(e) Determination of Facility-Specific Stay Amounts.—The 'facility-specific stay amount' for a skilled nursing facility for a cost reporting period is the sum of—

"(2) the Secretary's best estimate of the average amount of payments made under part B during the period for covered non-routine services furnished to all residents of the facility to whom the facility provided extended care services for which payment was made under part A during the period (without regard to whether or not the services were furnished by the facility, by others under arrangement with them made by the facility, under any other contracting or consulting arrangement, or otherwise), as estimated by the Secretary.

"(f) Intensive Nursing or Therapy Needs.—

"(1) In general.—In applying subsection (b) to covered non-routine services furnished during a stay beginning during a cost reporting period beginning during a fiscal year (beginning with fiscal years after fiscal year 1997) to a resident of a skilled nursing facility who requires intensive nursing or therapy services, the per stay limit for such resident shall be the per stay limit developed under paragraph (2) instead of the per stay limit determined under subsection (d)(1)(A).

"(2) Per stay limit for intensive need residents.—Not later than June 30, 1997, the Secretary, after consultation with the Medicare Payment Review Commission and skilled nursing facility experts, shall develop and publish a per stay limit for residents of a skilled nursing facility who require intensive nursing or therapy services.

"(3) Budget neutrality.—The Secretary shall adjust payments under subsection (b) in a manner that ensures that total payments for covered non-routine services under this section are not greater or less than total payments for such services would have been but for the application of paragraph (1).

"(g) Special Treatment for Small Skilled Nursing Facilities.—This section shall not apply with respect to a skilled nursing facility for which payment is made for routine service costs during a cost reporting period on the basis of prospective payments under section 1888(d).

"(h) Exceptions and Adjustments to Limits.—

"(1) In general.—The Secretary may make exceptions and adjustments to the cost reporting limits applicable to a skilled nursing facility under subsection (c)(1)(B) for a cost reporting period, except that the total amount of any additional payments made under this section for covered non-routine services during the cost reporting period as a result of such exceptions and adjustments may not exceed 5 percent of the aggregate payments made to all skilled nursing facilities for covered non-routine services during the cost reporting period (determined without regard to this paragraph).

"(2) Budget neutrality.—The Secretary shall adjust payments under subsection (b) in a manner that ensures that total payments for covered non-routine services under this section are not greater or less than total payments for such services would have been but for the application of paragraph (1).

(d) A State agency receiving commodities under this chapter may—

(1)(A) enter into cooperative agreements with State agencies of other States to jointly provide commodities received under this chapter to eligible recipient agencies that serve needy persons in a single geographical area which includes such States; or

(B) transfer commodities received under this chapter to any such eligible recipient agency in the other State under such agreement; and

(2) advise the Secretary of an agreement entered into under this subsection and the transfer of commodities made pursuant to such agreement.

SEC. 9755. ALLOCATION OF COMMODITIES TO STATES.

(a) In each fiscal year, except for those commodities purchased under section 9760, the Secretary shall allocate the commodities distributed under this chapter as follows:

(1) 60 percent of such total value of commodities shall be allocated in a manner such that the value of commodities allocated to each State bears the same ratio to 60 percent of such total value as the number of persons in households within the State having incomes below the poverty line bears to the total number of persons in households within all States having incomes below such poverty line. Each State shall receive the value of commodities allocated under this paragraph.

(2) 40 percent of such total value of commodities shall be allocated in a manner such that the value of commodities allocated to each State bears the same ratio to 40 percent of such total value as the average monthly number of unemployed persons within the State bears to the average monthly number of unemployed persons within all States during the same fiscal year. Each State shall receive the value of commodities allocated to the State under this paragraph.

(b)(1) The Secretary shall notify each State of the amount of commodities that such State is allotted to receive under subsection (a) or this subsection, if applicable. Each State shall promptly notify the Secretary if such State determines that it will not accept any or all of the commodities made available under such allocation. On such a notification by a State, the Secretary shall reallocate and distribute such commodities in a manner the Secretary deems appropriate and equitable. The Secretary shall further establish procedures to permit States to decline to receive portions of such allocation during each fiscal year in a manner the State determines is appropriate and the Secretary shall reallocate and distribute such allocation as the Secretary deems appropriate and equitable.

(2) In the event of any drought, flood, hurricane, or other natural disaster affecting substantial numbers of persons in a State, county, or parish, the Secretary may request that States unaffected by such a disaster consider assisting affected States by allowing the Secretary to reallocate commodities from such unaffected State to States containing areas adversely affected by the disaster.

(c) Purchases of commodities under this chapter shall be made by the Secretary at such times and under such conditions as the Secretary determines appropriate within each fiscal year. All commodities so purchased for each such fiscal year shall be delivered at reasonable intervals to States based on the allocations and reallocations made under subsections (a) and (b), and or carry out section 9760, not later than December 31 of the following fiscal year.

SEC. 9756. PRIORITY SYSTEM FOR STATE DISTRIBUTION OF COMMODITIES.

(a) In distributing the commodities allocated under subsections (a) and (b) of section 9755, the State agency, under procedures determined by the State agency, shall offer, or otherwise make available, its full allocation of commodities for distribution to emergency feeding organizations.

(b) If the State agency determines that the State will not exhaust the commodities allocated under subsections (a) and (b) of section 9755 through distribution to organizations referred to in subsection (a), its remaining allocation of commodities shall be distributed to charitable institutions described in section 9763(3) not receiving commodities under subsection (a).

(c) If the State agency determines that the State will not exhaust the commodities allocated under subsections (a) and (b) of section 9755 through distribution to organizations referred to in subsections (a) and (b), its remaining allocation of commodities shall be distributed to any eligible recipient agency not receiving commodities under subsections (a) and (b).

SEC. 9757. INITIAL PROCESSING COSTS.

The Secretary may use funds of the Commodity Credit Corporation to pay the costs of initial processing and packaging of commodities to be distributed under this chapter into forms and in quantities suitable, as determined by the Secretary, for use by the individual households or eligible recipient agencies, as applicable. The Secretary may pay such costs in the form of Corporation-owned commodities equal in value to such costs. The Secretary shall ensure that any such payments in kind will not displace commercial sales of such commodities.

SEC. 9758. ASSURANCES; ANTICIPATED USE.

(a) The Secretary shall take such precautions as the Secretary deems necessary to ensure that commodities made available under this chapter will not displace commercial sales of such commodities or the products thereof. The Secretary shall submit to the Committee on Agriculture of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry of the Senate by December 31, 1997, and not less than every two years thereafter, a report as to whether and to what extent such displacements or substitutions are occurring.

(b) The Secretary shall determine that commodities provided under this chapter shall be purchased and distributed only in quantities that can be consumed without waste. No eligible recipient agency may receive commodities under this chapter in excess of anticipated use, based on inventory records and controls, or in excess of its ability to accept and store such commodities.

SEC. 9759. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.

(a) PURCHASE OF COMMODITIES.—To carry out this chapter, there are authorized to be appropriated $260,000,000 for each of the fiscal years 1996 through 2000 to purchase, process, and distribute commodities to the States in accordance with this chapter.

(b) ADMINISTRATIVE FUNDS.—

(1) There are authorized to be appropriated $40,000,000 for each of the fiscal years 1996 through 2000 for the Secretary to make available to the States for State and local payments for costs associated with the distribution of commodities by eligible recipient agencies under this chapter, excluding costs associated with the distribution of those commodities distributed under section 9760. Funds appropriated under this paragraph for any fiscal year shall be allocated to the States on an advance basis dividing such funds among the States in the same proportions as the commodities distributed under this chapter for such fiscal year are allocated among the States. If a State agency is unable to use all of the funds so allocated to it, the Secretary shall reallocate such unused funds among the other States in a manner the Secretary deems appropriate and equitable.

(2)(A) A State shall make available in each fiscal year to eligible recipient agencies in the State not less than 40 percent of the funds received by the State under paragraph (1) for such fiscal year, as necessary to pay for, or provide advance payments to cover, the allowable expenses of eligible recipient agencies for distributing commodities to needy persons, but only to the extent such expenses are actually so incurred by such recipient agencies.

(B) As used in this paragraph, the term "allowable expenses" includes—

(i) costs of transporting, storing, handling, repackaging, processing, and distributing commodities incurred after such commodities are received by eligible recipient agencies;

(ii) costs associated with determinations of eligibility, verification, and documentation;

(iii) costs of providing information to persons receiving commodities under this chapter concerning the appropriate storage and preparation of such commodities; and

(iv) costs of recordkeeping, auditing, and other administrative procedures required for participation in the program under this chapter.

(C) If a State makes a payment, using State funds, to cover allowable expenses of eligible recipient agencies, the amount of such payment shall be counted toward the amount a State must make available for allowable expenses of recipient agencies under this paragraph.

(3) States to which funds are allocated for a fiscal year under this subsection shall submit financial reports to the Secretary, on a regular basis, as to the use of such funds. No such funds may be used by States or eligible recipient agencies for costs other than those involved in covering the expenses related to the distribution of commodities by eligible recipient agencies.

(4)(A) Except as provided in subparagraph (B), to be eligible to receive funds under this subsection, a State shall provide in cash or in kind (according to procedures approved by the Secretary for certifying these in-kind contributions) from non-Federal sources a contribution equal to the difference between—

(i) the amount of such funds so received; and

(ii) any part of the amount allocated to the State and paid by the State—

(I) to eligible recipient agencies; or

(II) for the allowable expenses of such recipient agencies; for use in carrying out this chapter.

(B) Funds allocated to a State under this section may, upon State request, be allocated before States satisfy the matching requirement specified in subparagraph (A), based on the estimated contribution required. The Secretary shall periodically reconcile estimated and actual contributions and adjust allocations to the State to correct for overpayments and underpayments.

(C) Any funds distributed for administrative costs under section 9760(b) shall not be covered by this paragraph.

(5) States may not charge for commodities made available to eligible recipient agencies, and may not pass on to such recipient agencies the cost of any matching requirements, under this chapter.

(c) VALUE OF COMMODITIES.—The value of the commodities made available under subsections (c) and (d) of section 9752, and the funds of the Corporation used to pay the costs of initial processing, packaging (including forms suitable for home use), and delivering commodities to the States shall not be charged against appropriations authorized by this section.

SEC. 9760. COMMODITY SUPPLEMENTAL FOOD PROGRAM.

(a) From the funds appropriated under section 9759(a), $94,500,000 shall be used for each fiscal year to purchase and distribute commodities to supplemental feeding programs serving woman, infants, and children or elderly individuals (hereinafter in this section referred to as the "commodity supplemental food program"), or serving both groups wherever located.

(b) Not more than 20 percent of the funds made available under subsection (a) shall be made available to the States for State and local payments of administrative costs associated with the distribution of commodities by eligible recipient agencies under this section. Administrative costs for the purposes of the commodity supplemental food program shall include, but not be limited to, expenses for information and referral, operation, monitoring, nutrition education, start-up costs, and general administration, including staff, warehouse and transportation personnel, insurance, and administration of the State or local office.

(c)(1) During each fiscal year the commodity supplemental food program is in operation, the types, varieties, and amounts of commodities to be purchased under this section shall be determined by the Secretary, but, if the Secretary proposes to make any significant changes in the types, varieties, or amounts from those that were available or were planned at the beginning of the fiscal year the Secretary shall report such changes before implementation to the Committee on Agriculture of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry of the Senate.

(2) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Commodity Credit Corporation shall, to the extent that the Commodity Credit Corporation inventory levels permit, provide not less than 9,000,000 pounds of cheese and not less than 4,000,000 pounds of nonfat dry milk in each of the fiscal years 1996 through 2000 to the Secretary. The Secretary shall use such amounts of cheese and nonfat dry milk to carry out the commodity supplemental food program before the end of each fiscal year.

(d) The Secretary shall, in each fiscal year, approve applications of additional sites for the program, including sites that serve only elderly persons, in areas in which the program currently does not operate, to the full extent that applications can be approved within the appropriations available for the program for the fiscal year and without reducing actual participation levels (including participation of elderly persons under subsection (e)) in areas in which the program is in effect.

(e) If a local agency that administers the commodity supplemental food program determines that the amount of funds made available to the agency to carry out this section exceeds the amount of funds necessary to provide assistance under such program to women, infants, and children, the agency, with the approval of the Secretary, may permit low-income elderly persons (as defined by the Secretary) to participate in and be served by such program.

(f)(1) If it is necessary for the Secretary to pay a significantly higher than expected price for one or more types of commodities purchased under this section, the Secretary shall promptly determine whether the price is likely to cause the number of persons that can be served in the program in a fiscal year to decline.

(2) If the Secretary determines that such a decline would occur, the Secretary shall promptly notify the State agencies charged with operating the program of the decline and shall ensure that a State agency notify all local agencies operating the program in the State of the decline.

(g) Commodities distributed to States pursuant to this section shall not be considered in determining the commodity allocation to each State under section 9755 or priority of distribution under section 9756.

SEC. 9761. COMMODITIES NOT INCOME.

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, commodities distributed under this chapter shall not be considered income or resources for purposes of determining recipient eligibility under any Federal, State, or local means-tested program.

SEC. 9762. PROHIBITION AGAINST CERTAIN STATE CHARGES.

Whenever a commodity is made available without charge or credit under this chapter by the Secretary for distribution within the States to eligible recipient agencies, the State may not charge recipient agencies any amount that is in excess of the State's direct costs of storing, and transporting to recipient agencies the commodities minus any amount the Secretary provides the State for the costs of storing and transporting such commodities.

A joint resolution introduced under this subsection shall be referred to the Committee on the Budget of the House of Representatives or the Senate, as the case may be.

"SEC. 263. CONGRESSIONAL ACTION REQUIRED.

"(a) IN GENERAL.—The requirements of this section shall be in effect for any year in which the OMB sequestration preview report submitted under section 254(d) indicates that the deficit for the budget year or any outyear will exceed the applicable deficit target.

"(d) CONSIDERATION BY THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.—(1) It shall not be in order in the House of Representatives to consider a joint resolution on the budget unless that joint resolution fully addresses the entirety of any excess of the deficit targets as identified in the OMB sequestration preview report submitted under section 254(d) through reconciliation instructions requiring spending reductions, or changes in the deficit targets.

"(2) If the joint resolution on the budget proposes to eliminate or offset less than the entire excess for budget year and any subsequent fiscal years, then the Committee on the Budget shall report a separate resolution increasing the deficit targets for each applicable year by the full amount of the excess not offset or eliminated. It shall not be in order to consider any joint resolution on the budget that does not offset the full amount of the excess until the House of Representatives has agreed to the resolution directing the increase in the deficit targets.
